FURTHER STRAIN TO DIPLOMATIC SITUATION COMING

BERLIN WILL SEEK TO JUSTIFY ORDUNA CASE

New Note Delivered to Gerard Likely to Increase Already High Tension Between U. S. and Germany.

AWAITED IN WASHINGTON WITH MUCH ANXIETY

Washington, Sept. 11.—The note addressed to Ambassador Gerard by the German foreign office yesterday which was believed to be a supplemental communication on the sinking of the Arabic now is understood to be a note on the unsuccessful attempt to torpedo the Cunarder Orduna several weeks ago. What effect an attempt to justify the Orduna case would have on the situation already delicate by Germany's stand on the Arabic was the subject of wide speculation today among officials who regarded the atmosphere as far from favorable. The note is being awaited with much anxiety.

The note had not been received in Washington early today and the state department had no information of its whereabouts. In circles close to the German embassy, however, it was said the note concerned the Orduna and that when its contents were known it probably would be found that the German government claimed some sort of justification for the attack on the liner.

The Orduna was "chased" and shelled by a submarine after a torpedo had missed her stern by a few yards on July 9. She was on a trip to the United States and carried as passengers twenty-two Americans. Ambassador Gerard made some inquiries by direction of Washington and the German note now on its way is understood to be the result.

Overnight consideration of the note on the Arabic indicated a softening of views among some set of officials who are inclined to further negotiations with Germany. Their views cannot be stated as being President Wilson's, but the view will be urged on the president before he makes up his mind what to do. While they agree that Germany's reply is disappointing and unsatisfactory, they urge that the Arabic case has come down to questions of indemnity and fact.

Differ Materially.

The explanation offered by Germany for the sinking of the White Star liner differed materially from the statements in the hands of President Wilson and Secretary Lansing. These officials who favor further negotiation contend that a proper way to determine which set of facts is correct is to let the case go to the Hague, where they also contend the question of indemnity could be arbitrated without endangering the principles for which the United States has

Artillery Combat at the French Front Renewed Once More.

ALLIES BEAT OFF REPEATED ATTACKS

Claim to Have Balked Effort of Crown Prince to Break Lines.

Today's War News Given in Summary.

There has been a renewal of the heavy artillery combat on the front in France. No infantry engagements are reported.

Recent attacks by the army of the German crown prince in the Argonne were made with powerful artillery and heavy infantry forces in an effort to break through the French lines, Paris advices state. Although some trenches were taken the attempt to break through failed, repeated attacks being beaten off with heavy losses to the Germans, it is declared, leaving the situation in the Argonne essentially unchanged.

According to the Constantinople war office the Turkish left wing on the Gallipoli peninsula is gradually advancing, taking trenches which the forces of the entente allies have occupied.

The Russians have won another success on the Galician front, Petrograd reports, but the Germans are pressing strongly on the lines to the north and making headway toward the strategic railway systems centering on Vilna and Brest-Litovsk.

The French freighter Ville de Maestaganem has been sunk in the Mediterranean by gunfire from a German submarine. Three men were wounded. They with thirteen other members of the crew were picked up.

Paris, Sept. 11.—Last night saw interrupted artillery fighting at several points along the line in France, according to the communication given out by the French war office today. There has been furthermore a particularly violent artillery engagement in the department of the Meuse and along the front in Lorraine.

A dispatch to the Havas agency from Algiers says that the steamer Ville de Maestaganem has been sunk by gunfire from a German submarine. Sixteen members of the crew, three of them wounded, have been picked up. The steamer was on the way from Cette, France, to Maestaganem, Algeria. The

MURDERED MEN ARE BURIED IN WEST

Word has been received by John J. Snider, son of Morris Snider who, together with Edward Pfeiffer, were murdered at the Pfeiffer cabin, near Gold Bar, Wash., last Saturday night, that the bodies of the two men will not be brought to Fort Wayne for burial. Funeral services were held for the two victims at the St. Anne's Catholic church at Seattle, Saturday morning. The bodies were in such condition that it was not thought best to attempt to bring them to this city. Details concerning the murder are still lacking. However, a letter is expected from John N. Pfeiffer, 320 Columbia avenue, brother and brother-in-law to the murdered men, who is now in Seattle, giving full information, within the next day or two.

One Injured When Ford Collides With a Jitney

Carl and Harold Gerke, two brothers, were hurled a distance of several feet, and the Ford automobile in which they were riding turned a complete somersault in a collision with a jitney bus driven and owned by Herbert Breyer, 3524 South Wayne avenue, Saturday afternoon about 12:30 o'clock, at Harrison and Downing streets. Harold was slightly injured while the car in which he was riding was damaged.

ton street, the wind shield was broken, a piece of the glass penetrating the right eye of C. Gerke, the driver. While the injury was painful he kept at his post and never stopped his car until the scene of the smash-up had been reached.

James Ruxley, a boy living on South Wayne avenue, was the only passenger in the jitney bus. In an effort to get out of the way of the car, he was hurled into the air and landed on his back.

FORT WAYNE BOY TO JOIN ENGLISH ARMY

Hugh Elliott Enters Service as a Canadian Aviator.

Hugh Elliott, until a few days ago a soda dispenser at Meyer Brothers' drugstore, at Calhoun and Wayne streets, has joined the Canadian aviation corps for service in the conflict now being waged in Europe. Word to that effect was received by Fort Wayne friends Saturday.

Elliott resigned his position at the Meyer Brothers' drugstore a few days ago with the intention of entering Purdue university. He has two brothers in the Canadian aviation corps and for months they have been prevailing upon him to join them. By chance he met his brother in Chicago and he consented to join. Elliott will have to spend eight months in preparation before he will be permitted to elude for the scene of the conflict. His home is in Ontario, Canada, and he lived at with G. M. Smith, on Washington boulevard, west.

FUNERAL UNDER TALMUDIC RITES

St. Louis, Sept. 11.—For the first time in the history of St. Louis a funeral will be held here tomorrow in strict accordance to the most minute requirements of the Talmud, the most ancient book of Jewish laws. It will be the funeral of Rabbi Zachariah Rosenfeld, noted for his knowledge of and adherence to Talmudic law and Hebrew lore, who died here yesterday. Details of the funeral rites were written by the rabbi who for many years had watched the death of his father, the rabbi of the St. Louis synagogue, who died in New York.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON TELLS OF THREATS

Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 11.—Governor Hiram Johnson announced in a formal statement here today that "Industrial Workers of the World and other persons had threatened with wholesale devastation of the industries of California 'and even worse' unless Richard Ford and Hermann Super, two members of the organization serving life sentence for murder, were pardoned by a certain date, which has passed."

Admitting that a survey of the entire case might justify a mitigation of the sentence imposed, the governor declared: "So long as, in behalf of these men, the threats of injury and sabotage continue, so long as the preaching exists in their behalf in California, so long as incense is attempted I will neither listen to appeals for executive clemency in behalf of Ford and Super nor in any fashion consider the shortening of their terms of imprisonment."

RUCKER NOW TRAINS GUNS ON T. TAGGART

Declares Democratic Leader Collected Slush Fund From Breweries Not Accounted for in Report.

Indianapolis, Sept. 11.—Alleged methods by which the so-called machine candidates were nominated in the primary of May 5, 1914, were related by Prosecutor A. J. Rucker, who continued throughout the short session today of the trial of Mayor Joseph E. Bell for election conspiracy his opening statement.

He also told the jury that Thomas Taggart, who was indicted with Mayor Bell and more than 100 others, "collected a slush fund of about $1,000 from breweries which was not accounted for in any of the campaign expense reports required by law."

Rucker has occupied about seven hours with his statement and it probably will be late Monday before he finishes, as there was no court session this afternoon.

Perrott Also Accused.

The prosecutor also declared that the evidence would show that Samuel V. Perrott, chief of police, and also indicted, "accepted bribes from saloon and brothel keepers, permitting them to ply their nefarious trade in order to get money for the slush fund," and that Mayor Bell "blackmailed many citizens of the county, threatening them with arrest," to add to the fund.

In the primary, Rucker asserted, there was no attempt made to tally the vote in many of the corrupt precincts. "The rotten election officials—hand-picked by the machine—merely gave the entire vote to the machine candidates without even making a pretense of tallying the vote. Now and then they would give the other candidates a few votes, but we will show you, gentlemen of the jury, some cases where anti-machine candidates were not credited with the single vote cast by themselves in their own precinct."

Shortly after Rucker had made his attack on Perrott, the chief of police entered the court for the first time since the trial started and took a seat beside Mayor Bell, with whom he chatted frequently.

Juror Timberlake was ill today, requiring the attention of a physician before court convened. He was able, however, to take his place in the box.

At the first meeting of the year the senior class of the Central Catholic High school, composed of thirteen members, the largest class to enter the last year of the four term course, officers for the coming year were elected. Joe Brennan was named as president; Charles Harkender, vice president; Paul Fohey, secretary; Leo N. Weber, treasurer.

The senior class also elected two members on the athletic committee of the entire school who will have charge of all events. Donald Beck and Frank Flaherty were the two seniors named.

These two members of the committee will begin work at once and have called a meeting of all those interested in football to be held Tuesday evening at Lawson park, where the first try-out practice will be held.

AUSTRIA HAS MADE NO RESPONSE AS YET

Washington, Sept. 11.—Austria had not responded today to President Wilson's request for the call of her ambassador, Dr. Constantin Theodor Dumha.

American officials declined to comment on the situation and likewise had nothing to say to Count Von Bernstorff's declaration that he gave no communication to James F. J. Archibald, the American, who carried Dr. Dumha's message.

Nothing further was done today in the cases of Captain Franz Von Papen, the German military attaché, or Consul General Nubel, of Austria, both involved in the incident which resulted in the request for Dr. Dumha's recall.

Annual Exhibit of Children's Work is Held at Playgrounds.

WIDE VARIETY IS SEEN IN DISPLAYS

Wonderful Showing Along Many Lines of Youthful Endeavor.

Under the auspices of the Women's league, the school children of Fort Wayne, Saturday afternoon, presented the largest exhibit of their work at the Gullin playgrounds that has ever been shown. This display was opened to the public at 1 o'clock and throughout the remainder of the afternoon the playgrounds were visited by hundreds of people anxious to see the work accomplished by the children of the city. The exhibit included vegetables and flowers, baking, sewing, crocheting, canning, carpentry work, baskets, poultry, rabbits, etc.

As an encouragement to the children the civic committee of the league has offered achievement buttons to all boys and girls who have done satisfactory work in gardening this summer and to those making the best exhibits in other lines. Awards also were offered by the educational committee as follows: For the best account book of the expense and profit of a garden this summer; for the best garden plan with explanation; for the best composition the subject being selected from the following list: "Why I Made a Garden," "How I Made My Garden Pay," "Insect Friends," "Insect Enemies," "All for Ten Cents."

The exhibit was really remarkable and a credit to the children who contributed to it.

BANKRUPTCY CASE TO BE HEARD BY JURY

For the first time in the history of the federal court in Fort Wayne a bankruptcy case will be heard by a jury at the next term of court which convenes in December.

Some time ago a petition was filed in the federal court by the First National bank of this city, asking that Julius Haug, of Decatur, be declared a bankrupt. Soon after an answer was filed by Haug, setting forth that he could pay all his indebtedness including the claim of the First National bank and still have left $25,000. He alleges, however, that he does not owe the First National bank. In his petition he asks that the case be heard by a jury of twelve men.

ONE FUGITIVE WAS SENT UP FROM HERE

Edward Kelly, one of the five men sentenced to two to five years in Michigan City prison for escaping from the state penal farm at Putnamville, was sent up from Fort Wayne, June 10, for getting away. On Sunday, June 27, Kelly escaped a silver watch containing $1.75 from a baby carriage on East Wayne street. It belonged to Mrs. Harry Kinnear, 744 East Wayne street. Kelly was picked up by a crowd and sent to the police station. He was held in the police station for several days.

NEVER ATTEMPTED TO USE ARCHIBALD

German Ambassador Says He Made No Effort to Have Secret Messages Carried by American.

New York, Sept. 11.—Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, emphatically denied that he had used or attempted to use James F. J. Archibald, the American messenger of Dr. Constantin T. Dumba, Austrian ambassador, as a message bearer to Berlin.

"In view of the repeated assertions by several newspapers that I sent messages to my government by Mr. Archibald," said Count von Bernstorff, "I wish to state that I never gave Mr. Archibald a single paper or anything else. I thought I made this plain in Washington, but feel a repetition is now needed."

"I did not attempt to use Mr. Archibald as a messenger chiefly because I did not think it safe, and he certainly did not prove safe."

Dr. Constantin T. Dumba, Austro-Hungarian ambassador, whose recall has been requested by President Wilson, left here today for his summer home at Lenox, Mass.

Dr. Dumba was accompanied by his secretary, Prince Zu Hohenlohe, who waived aside newspaper men when they attempted to interview the ambassador. Dr. Dumba spent several hours with Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, last night. At the conclusion of this meeting both diplomats declined to say anything regarding President Wilson's action.

Early today, however, Count von Bernstorff issued a statement denying that he had been connected in any way with the messages carried by James F. J. Archibald, Dr. Dumba's messenger.

MERE MESSENGER BOY.

Archibald Proclaims Innocence of Intentional Wrong.

Falmouth, England, Sept. 11.—James F. J. Archibald, the American newspaper correspondent who was carrying the Dumba letter to Vienna when intercepted in England, has issued the following defense of his position:

"The letter from Ambassador Dumba to the Austrian minister of foreign affairs was given to me at the foot of the gangplank at the moment of sailing by Dr. Dumba's secretary, who asked me to deliver it. I thought it merely was some suggestion to Minister Burian as to granting me privileges at the front."

"There was absolutely no secrecy or suggestion of the letter's importance. I had absolutely no idea whatever of its contents. Nor did I know what the real trouble was until I read it here in the papers."

"I don't think Dumba thought of the serious position it would put me in. He had already given the several letters of introduction. He probably thought merely it was a chance to deliver a note quickly and directly."

"I simply put the letter with all the rest of my papers and with some personal letters accompanying trifling gifts from persons in New York to friends abroad."

"The fact that I did not hide the letter, which would have been perfectly easy, should prove I was unaware of its natural importance."

"I can truthfully say I was absolutely in no way a messenger in any sense—except as nearly every traveler when sailing accepts a note or trifle to be delivered or mailed."

"When I left Berlin last spring I carried letters and packages for Ambassador and Mrs. Gerard and several attaches in exactly the same friendly spirit. I had asked others not to send anything important. But this Dumba letter, coming at the last moment, I did not give it any special thought, as it was handed to me in such a very casual manner."

BERLIN WILL SEEK TO JUSTIFY ORDUNA CASE

contended as governing submarine warfare.

There were indications in official quarters today that the United States had received more unofficial intimations that despite the attacks on the Arabic and the Hesperian, the German government actually had finally accepted the principle that unarmed merchantmen should not be attacked without warning unless they attempted to escape or resisted capture. There was no out and out official backing for the assumption, but it appeared to prevade official quarters.

The new note of the United States will probably be delayed until the second note from Germany, now on its way, has been received. It probably will point out for one thing, that the mere assumption by a submarine commander that his ship is about to be attacked, cannot be accepted as justification for torpedoing an unresisting merchantman. Such a stand by the United States is not expected to lead to complications. Officials consider that the future depends on Berlin.

attack occurred Thursday at a point seventy miles northeast of Mostaganem. Effort of Crown Prince Fails.

The violent fighting in the Argonne on Wednesday and Thursday was the result of an effort of the army of the German crown prince to break through the French lines. The attempt was made with powerful artillery and a large number of troops. Apparently it has had no appreciable result. The Germans were able to penetrate the French trenches on a pair of the front, but were checked. They renewed their attacks again and again, but with such severe losses that they gave up the effort. This offensive movement, it is said on good authority, has not modified the situation in the Argonne. In making it the Germans have had greater losses, according to the French official figures, than they have inflicted. The army of the crown prince has attempted on several times in previous months to break through the French front, but so far has scored no definite success. The statement is made here that this army has lost upwards of 100,000 men, one corps alone losing 40,000 from the ranks, which are being constantly depleted.

CLAIMING NEW VICTORY.

Russians Report German Defeat on South Galician Front.

London, Sept. 11.—Another success on the south Galician front, resulting in the capture of 3,000 men, is announced by the Russians.

Even the Petrograd newspapers, however, admit that this section of the fighting area is not of the most vital importance, since Field Marshal von Mackensen is still hovering along the line of minor fronts, which form the last remaining defenses in the way to complete control of the railroad system desired by the invaders.

Russians declared that the initiative in the isolated engagement on the southern wing is gradually passing in to their hands. Nearer the center of the line von Mackensen is still pushing his way vigorously through the Pripiet marshes toward Pinsk. North and south of his headquarters strong movements have been developed, near Grodno, and on the road to Rovno.

On the other fronts there is not as much action as in the east, so far as the official reports indicate. Sharp fighting is in progress along the Austro-Italian battle line, but no fresh news has been received from the Vosges and the Argonne, where the Germans have launched heavy attacks against French trenches.

The only new feature of the new eastern diplomatic puzzle is the assertion from Bulgarian sources that Sofia feels her past neutrality is a sufficient reward for Turkish concessions.

GERMAN OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

Berlin, Sept. 11.—The following statement on military operations was issued by the German army headquarters:

"Western theater: The trenches on Hartmanns-Weilerkopf (in Alsace) which we captured on the 9th of September have been retained despite two attacks by the French.

"Eastern theater: Army group of Field Marshal von Hindenburg: During battles southeast of Friedrichstadt and east of Vilkomir an additional 1,050 prisoners were taken. Four machine guns were captured.

"On the front between Jezory and Zvenov in the Melvinknaka the Russians are still offering fierce resistance. Our troops were able finally to take Skidel and the village of Nickrasza, to the northwest of Skidel, during the night. We took 2,700 prisoners and two machine guns. Railway junctions between Wielejka, east of Vilna and Lida were liberally bombed by our aircraft.

GRAIN ELEVATOR BURNS.

Edinburg, Ind., Sept. 11.—The big grain elevator owned by Martin Outisager, of this city, was burned today. The loss is estimated at more than $60,000. The elevator contained 40,000 bushels of wheat. The origin of the fire is unknown. Several Pennsylvania freight cars also were burned.

OVER 100 BOYS AND GIRLS FROM HANNA EXHIBIT AT CHILDREN'S FAIR

The city school children's fair was held Saturday afternoon at the Guldin playground on Van Buren street, and thousands of local youngsters have contributed exhibits of their summer's work. Livestock, flowers and vegetables made up the lists of entries. The Hanna school had a delegation of a hundred exhibitors, the largest in the city, and these kiddies are seen in the top picture. The lower cut shows the exhibits piled up waiting to be taken to the grounds.

LIKELY TO ACCEPT CARRANZA PROPOSAL

Washington, Sept. 11.—Gen. Carranza's rejection of the pan-American appeal for a peace conference in Mexico and his counter proposal for a meeting with the diplomats at some point along the Rio Grande to discuss Mexican affairs "solely from an international point of view" will be considered by Secretary Lansing and the other conferees at a meeting to take place in Washington within the next few days. It was suggested here today that Carranza's proposal probably would be accepted as possibly opening the way to a discussion through which an agreement for the settlement of the republic's affairs might be reached.

The text of Carranza's last deferred reply, submitted to Consul Silliman, at Vera Cruz yesterday, caused no surprise in Washington. It had been known here for a long time that Carranza would reject the offer of the pan-American diplomats and intimations had been circulated that he would make a counter proposal.

It was pointed out here today that if the Carranza suggestion was accepted, the question of the establishment of a provisional government in Mexico might be discussed as an international question, at the meeting, because practically all world powers have interests in the republic and are eager to have the long years of turbulence brought to an end. Subjects for discussion at such a meeting would be claims of foreign governments, growing out of the Mexican revolutions and the ability of the Carranza administration to protect lives and property of foreigners.

BULLETIN.

El Paso, Texas, Sept. 11.—A report that Gen. Francisco Villa and General Roldofo Fierro had been killed on a visit to the ranch of Gen. Tomas Urbina, at Nivies, near Santa Barbara, Chihuahua, was received here today by American officials from sources which they said were worthy of consideration.

Gen. Fierro is said to have accompanied Villa to Urbina's ranch with a force of 400 men to secure for the Villa government some of Urbina's loot, said to amount to $5,000,000.

CARRANZA WARNS TROOPS.

Will Hold Them Responsible for Border Trouble With U. S.

Brownsville, Tex., Sept. 11.—Carranza commanders on the border have been notified by their "first chief," General Carranza, that they will be held strictly accountable for any complications arising with the American government as a result of any overt acts by Carranza soldiers on the border. From an authoritative source it was learned that Carranza notified Gen. E. F. Nafarrete, commander in Matamoros, that carelessness and inattention to troubles on the border will not be countenanced. Similar notifications have been sent to Gen. Alfredo Ricaut, Carranza commander at Nuevo Laredo.

DISCOURAGING TO JOURNALISM.

Shanghai, China, Sept. 11.—A bomb explosion occurred today at the plant of the Asiatic Daily News, a newspaper published in the Chinese language which appeared yesterday for the first time, having been launched for the purpose of pushing the propaganda for a non-archival form of government in China. The front of the newspaper property was blown in. Two arrests were made. Two persons were killed and three injured by the explosion.

WHERE VOTES WERE CHEAP.

Corpus Christi, Tex., Sept. 11.—Further testimony concerning the alleged buying of Mexican votes in the last general election in Nueces county was given today in the United States district court in the trial of forty-one persons, charged with election frauds. Matt L. Dunn, a cousin of Tom Dunn, one of the defendants, testified to an alleged conversation he had with his cousin. He said he spoke of the votes as a staple commodity, and asked "how much are Mexican votes worth today?" to which his cousin replied "A little cheaper; between $2 and $3." He said Tom Dunn told him he had bought twenty-five with $50.

AMERICAN LINER SAILS.

New York, Sept. 11.—With 528 passengers on board, of whom 48 gave their nationality as American, the American line steamship New York sailed today for Liverpool. Among the passengers was Clifford N. Carver, private secretary to Ambassador Page at London, who when he arrived here last week was reported to be the bearer of special documents relating to the Arabic case. Mr. Carver declined to say anything further than that he had come over on a leave of absence. He is returning to his post in London.

The Anchor liner Camerania also sailed today. She carried 151 passengers, including two Americans.

A fast trotting stallion died of fright in a New York state stable a short time ago during a thunderstorm. He was saved from the stable.

WIFE FIGHTS WITH CROSS-COMPLAINT

Huntington County Fair in Allen County With a Peck of Trouble.

In the superior court Effie Clark has filed a cross-complaint to the suit of Virgil Clark for divorce, an action brought to this county on a change of venue from Huntington county, where the troubles of the young couple have attracted much attention. Mrs. Clark says her husband wholly abandoned her July 16, 1914, little more than six months after their marriage, and went to the home of his parents, leaving her no means of support. At the time of the birth of her baby, in October, 1914, she says he gave her no support or attention. The husband's complaint is that his wife would not live with him in a home he provided, but insisted on residing with her parents in Wells county, and that she had him arrested for non-support, the suit being dismissed.

Petitions to Sell Property.

E. W. Cook, receiver for the Bash Fertilizing and Chemical company, has petitioned the superior court for an order to sell the personal property of the company, except the outstanding accounts, and all of its real estate that is free from liens. The court has fixed September 30 for hearing on this petition and given order for publication of notice. The receiver already has disposed of some of the assets of the company by order of the court.

St. Joe Club Will Make No Contest.

Through William Miller, one of its officers, the St. Joe Athletic club announced Saturday that the organization would waive all its rights as a legatee under the will of the late Edward L. Gearhart, who bequeathed the club one-third of his estate, and would make no contest of the suit brought against the club and other beneficiaries by Mrs. Bertha Gearhart, the widow of the testator. Mr. Miller states that the club held a meeting Friday evening and decided on this course. The sentiment of the club members is that the widow is entitled to and should have her just share of her husband's estate and that the club does not want any of the property. Mrs. Gearhart has brought suit in the circuit court to have the will declared null and void and has made the St. Joe club, the local aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles and John G. Baral, all beneficiaries of the will, defendants to the suit.

Kingman Trial Monday.

Judge Eggegan, in the circuit court, has fixed Monday, September 13, for the trial of Tracy J. Kingman, charged with grand larceny for the theft of Clifford L. Bornschein's automobile, which he took to New York and sold. Kingman pleaded not guilty when arraigned late Friday afternoon.

Notes of the Courts.

Caroline W. Straughan has begun suit in the circuit court against Alexander B. White and John W. White on a note, demanding $3,600. Walter Ohls is her attorney.

In the superior court Henry Wiegman has brought suit for a writ of ejectment and $100 damages against George Smith. M. H. Lucke is attorney for the plaintiff.

The circuit court has set November 10 for the trial of the suit of the Tri-State Loan & Trust company vs. Hallie Reichard.

The superior court has granted a divorce to James J. Noonan from Frances Donnelly Noonan.

The term-end in the superior court was reached Saturday and on Monday the September term will begin.

The suit of Andrew J. Keller, sr., vs. the Fort Wayne Trunk & Leather company, has been dismissed from the superior court on showing that the defendant is in bankruptcy and its assets in the hands of Sol A. Wood, trustee.

C. Tresselt & Sons have sued the White Fruit House and Edward White in the superior court on notes, demanding $575.

Albert U. Custard has begun action in the superior court against Julian Groejan and others to foreclose a lien, demanding $150. C. J. and W. C. Ryan are attorneys for the defendant.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

OPEN TABERNACLE SUNDAY.

Markle, Ind., Sept. 11.—The town of Markle is awake to evangelistic work, having erected the Deatur-Ossian tabernacle here and will dedicate it on Sunday afternoon. The services Sunday afternoon will be largely under the auspices of the personal workers of Ossian who have been invited to attend in a body and take charge of the exercises. The Markle people, in twenty autos, plan to visit all the church Sunday morning within a radius of several miles and boost the afternoon services. A large number of autos will leave Ossian after dinner Sunday to be present at the opening of the tabernacle meeting. The meetings will continue for several weeks under the control of a noted evangelist, and the personal workers' league of that place.

WOMAN ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

Warsaw, Ind., Sept. 11.—Mrs. Arthur Reece, residing south of this city several miles, is lying at the point of death as the result of an attempt at suicide on Friday by taking a large portion of a poisonous soda washing compound. Mrs. Reece has been suffering terribly since an operation of some time ago at Fort Wayne. Her condition has been growing worse recently, which is given as the cause of the attempt at self-destruction. Attending physicians hold little hope for her recovery from the effects of taking the poisonous medicine and stated that should she rally from its effects the recovery would be but temporary.

SUDDEN DEATH OF AVILLA MAN.

Avilla, Ind., Sept. 11.—This community was severely shocked by the sudden death of Lawrence Ueber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louie Ueber and one of the popular young men of the town. The young man had just arisen from bed in response to his mother's call that it was time to get up, when he was attacked with apoplexy and fell to the floor. He died almost instantly. Apparently he had been in his usual health when he retired in the evening. Mr. Ueber was born and reared in Avilla. He would have been 25 years of age had he lived until October 25. He was a stone and brick mason by trade, having worked with his father for some years.

STROH PLANT TO BE ENLARGED.

Lagrange, Ind., Sept. 11.—Engineers and architects are at work on plans for the enlargement of the Wabash Portland cement plant at Stroh with a view to more than doubling its capacity. The plant now employs an average of about 100 men and is one of the largest cement plants in the state. There is an abundance of raw material in the lakes about Stroh, the supply being apparently inexhaustible. While preparations are being made for the enlargement the plant will be kept running full blast till its regular closing time about the first of the year. The new additions will include all the modern ideas in cement making.

MOTHER AND BABE DIE.

Huntington, Ind., Sept. 11.—Mrs. Robert G. Mitchell, 43 years old, shortly after giving birth to a child, died at the Mitchell home on South Jefferson street. The child is dead also, dying a few minutes after its birth. It was a girl and was the first in the family. Mrs. Mitchell's death was due to a blood clot near the heart.

GIVES BLOOD TO SAVE RELATIVE.

Columbia City, Ind., Sept. 11.—Homer Thomas, 19 years old, 301 South Columbia street, sacrificed half a pint of his blood, endangering his own life to a small extent, to increase the life chances of a relative. The transfusion was made by Dr. C. C. DuBois at the home of young Thomas' grandmother, Mrs. Florence L. Thomas. Young Thomas, who is a healthy, full-blooded youth, although a trifle weaker than usual today, seemed to be suffering little from the loss of blood and is happy in the knowledge that his sacrifice

ROANOKE WANTS PROTECTION.

Roanoke, Ind., Sept. 11.—With memory of the death of two young boys and many near-accidents at a street crossing over the tracks of the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company still fresh, the residents of the town of Roanoke have filed a petition with the public service commission of Indiana asking that the commission issue an order requiring the placing of gongs or bells at Vine and Coe streets in Roanoke. The petition was circulated by James H. Barbour, and was signed by twenty-three other business men of Roanoke.

ETNA GREEN MAN IN JAIL.

Warsaw, Ind., Sept. 11.—Charles Sams, of Etna Green, was brought to this city and placed in jail on complaint of his family, who charged that he had threatened to kill them. Sams, it is said, became intoxicated and went to his home and throwing himself into a rage threatened each member of his family with death. His wife and children hurried to the home of a neighbor where they stayed until the arrival of Officer Copelin, who took Sams into custody and brought him to this city.

OLD DRUG STORE CLOSED.

Montpelier, Ind., Sept. 11.—The Golden Rule drug store, formerly owned by Emshwillers, but later sold to Harry R. Maddox, of the Pioneer drug store, has been closed up, there will be no drug store in the building where the business has been for nearly thirty years. When Mr. Maddox purchased the store, he did not know whether he would keep the place open for any length of time or not, but has been running it as a separate store for several months.

DRIVER KNOCKED UNCONSCIOUS.

Huntington, Ind., Sept. 11.—Chester Steerhoof, 18 years old, was knocked unconscious when the delivery car of the South Side Rees grocery which he was driving, rammed into the rear of a car on William street belonging to Grover Nier. The Nier car which was empty, was standing in front of his residence. Steerhoof recovered soon after being dragged from the wreck but beyond bruises was not badly hurt.

WHITE PLAGUE SLAYS GIRL.

Huntington, Ind., Sept. 11.—Miss Inez Ellis Buckingham, 17 years old, died yesterday morning at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Buckingham, following a long illness from tuberculosis. She had been ailing for more than a year. The deceased was born in Union township and was brought to this city when she was an infant, living the remainder of her life here.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS ELECT.

Hartford City, Ind., Sept. 11.—The Knights of Columbus have elected the following officers: Grand knight, A. N. Pursey; deputy grand knight, William McCaffrey; chancellor, Grant Welsh; financial secretary, Francis Knecht; recording secretary, Gus Andre; treasurer, Emil Schwieler; warden, Clarence Clore; advocate, Victor Panyard; inside guard, Gus Duffy; outside guard, Theodore Zellers.

DIES OF TYPHOID NEAR WAWASEE

Syracuse, Ind., Sept. 11.—Vern Wogoman, aged 20 years and son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wogoman, is dead at the home of his parents in Syracuse of typhoid fever. Surviving are his father and mother, four sisters, one of them Mrs. Orle Plank, of north of Goshen, and one brother, William Wogoman, of Goshen.

NEW PASTOR FOR WARREN.

Warren, Ind., Sept. 11.—Rev. Gilbert, pastor of a church in Lima, Ohio, has announced that he will accept the pastorate of the Christian church in Warren and will occupy the pulpit October 1. Rev. Gilbert will succeed Rev. C. B. Kershner, who resigned in March and is now serving at Swayzee and Gt. town.

ACID THROWN IN GIRL'S FACE.

Brazil, Ind., Sept. 11.—After receiving several anonymous letters warning her of danger, Miss Dorothy Englehart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Englehart, south of Brazil, stepped out of her home and the contents of a glass of carbolic acid was thrown into her face. She was painfully burned on her cheeks and chin, but none of the acid got into her eyes.

Miss Englehart has been receiving these letters for some time. She has beautiful blond hair, and it is said that part of it was cut off during her sleep, after she had received a letter stating that this would be done. Miss Englehart has no enemies that she knows of and is at a loss to know why she would be assailed. Two young women of the vicinity are under suspicion.

$5,000.00 PAID TO MRS. NICHOLS

Banker's Widow Receives Check Promptly From Fort Wayne Mercantile Accident Association.

CASHIER WAS DROWNED WHILE FISHING

The many friends of Mrs. Rachel M. Nichols, widow of the late Frank M. Nichols, cashier of the State Bank of Lima, at Howe, Indiana, will be pleased to know that she has received from the Fort Wayne Mercantile Accident association a check for $5,000.00 on account of the accidental death of her husband on the 12th day of August.

Had Paid in Only $30.

The check was issued to Mrs. Nichols within three days after the proof of death were in the hands of the association—another instance of the absence of "red tape" in settling claims against this splendid Fort Wayne institution.

Mr. Nichols had paid in to the association only $30 in assessments. How the Accident Occurred. Mr. Nichols, one of the best-known business men of his community, had gone fishing at Ferrell Lake on the fatal day, accompanied by a little son. He was standing in a boat, several rods from shore, when, in making a cast, he lost his balance and fell into the water. At the same time, the boat was tipped to such an extent as to let in a quantity of water which almost caused it to sink with the boy.

Just at this moment, F. G. Smeltzley came driving by. He heard the boy's cry of distress and hastened to attempt to give relief to Mr. Nichols who had risen to the surface. On wading into the water, however, he became partially mired in the mud which costs the bottom of the lake. He was also unable to save Mr. Nichols after a boat had been procured, although the boy was rescued. The body of Mr. Nichols was removed shortly afterward.

Mrs. Nichols' Grateful Letter.

The gratitude of Mrs. Nichols for the prompt payment of the claim against the Accident association is expressed in the following letter which the association received from her:

Howe, Ind., Aug. 30, 1915.
Fort Wayne Mercantile Accident Association, Fort Wayne, Ind., Gentlemen:

I am today in receipt of your check, No. 7933, on the First National Bank, of Fort Wayne, Ind., for Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00), in full settlement of my claim against the Association, on account of the accidental death of my late husband, (Frank M. Nichols), who met death by accidental drowning on August 12th, 1915. My proofs were completed and sent to you under date of August 25th, 1915.

I wish to thank you for the courtesy extended to me under these circumstances, and also wish to thank you for the promptness with which my claim has been handled and paid.

RACHEL R. NICHOLS, Beneficiary.

Splendid Growth of Mercantile.

The past year has been one of marked growth of the Fort Wayne Mercantile Accident association, due largely to the growing knowledge among the people of Fort Wayne and various other parts of the state that the Mercantile provides the best protection at the lowest cost; that it pays its claims promptly and without the usual annoying delays in such instances.

Costs $10 a Year.

The low cost of protection in the Mercantile is one of its attractive features. At no time have policy-holders paid more than $10 per year for protection which may be presented briefly as follows:

Death by accident, $5,000.00.
Loss of both arms or legs, $5,000.00.
Loss of both eyes, $5,000.00.
Loss of one hand or foot, $1,250.00.
Loss of one eye, $1,250.00.
Loss of one leg, $2,500.00.
Loss of one arm, $2,500.00.
Total disability, $25 per week.
Partial disability, $12.50 per week.
Best Protection at Lowest Cost.

A study of the above figures will convince the honest investigator that the Mercantile provides the best of protection at the lowest possible cost. This condition is due to the fact that the effort from the beginning has been to provide accident insurance at actual cost. A small, efficient office force is maintained, and no large salaries are paid to those in charge of the management of the association.

Louis F. Curdes is the president of the association; George W. Pixley, vice president, and L. H. Ransom, secretary treasurer. The directors, in addition to the gentlemen mentioned, are: R. D. Hudgel, chairman; William Lawson, U. S. Shoff, J. A. Rossell, James C. Craig and Wm. M. Leedy. Mr. Ransom is in direct charge of the association offices.

Fort Wayne people, especially, are recognizing in ever-enlarging measure the value of the Mercantile in the commercial life of the city and are showing their confidence and appreciation by joining the association as policy-holders.

Secretary Ransom will welcome the visit of any who are interested in securing the best accident insurance at the lowest cost. His office—third floor of the People's Trust building—is convenient to reach. The phone number is 2494. Many who have joined the Mercantile are delighted with their common-sense move. The readers of this paper are urged to identify themselves with this substantial home institution.

POOR LO NOW ROLLS IN GOLD—EVERY OSAGE A MILLIONAIRE.

Abject poverty to riches! Above Cato Sells, Commissioner of Indian Affairs and Chief Fred Lookout of the Osage Indians, with the latter's wife and son, standing in front of the modern bungalow Lookout built when the tribal lands became worth millions by discovery of oil and gas. Below, left to right—Ex-Chief Bacon Rind, Ex-Chief Big Heart, Commissioner Sells and Chief Lookout.

Oklahoma City, Sept. 11.—It was a strange trick Providence played when it changed the Osage Indians of Oklahoma from among the poorest people on earth to the richest, and it was a joke on the white race and the government.

The Osages were driven from their ancestral home in Eastern Kansas prior to 1870, and drifted south in search of hunting grounds. They found a stopping place close to the Cherokees in the country then known as the Indian Territory and, the government paid them a pitifully small sum for their reservation in Kansas.

The government then bought from the Cherokees a tract of 1,500,000 acres of wild, desolate land, hilly and covered with blackjack, and gave it to the Osages. The government paid 70 cents an acre for the land. The tribe moved to the tract and it became known as the Osage nation.

It is now Osage county, and through the development of oil and gas is the richest tract of land in the United States.

The Osages do not belong to the Five Civilized Tribes, but they soon established a government similar to that of the Chickasaws, Choctaws, Cherokees, Creeks and Seminoles, under the direction of the department of the interior.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when the inflammation is not removed, deafness is the result. It is entirely closed and cannot be taken out of the tube. The only way to cure deafness is by the use of Catarrh, which is a natural remedy. THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Mark 14:60-72.

60 And the high priest stood up in the midst, and asked Jesus, saying, Answerest thou nothing? what is it which these witness against thee?

61 But he held his peace, and answered nothing. Again the high priest asked him, and said unto him, Art thou the Christ, the Son of the Blessed?

62 And Jesus said, I am: and ye shall see the Son of man sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven.

63 Then the high priest rent his clothes, and saith, What need we any further witnesses?

64 Ye have heard the blasphemy: what think ye? And they all condemned him to be guilty of death.

65 And some began to spit on him, and to cover his face, and to buffet him, and to say unto him, Prophesy: and the servants did strike him with the palms of their hands.

66 And as Peter was beneath in the palace, there cometh one of the maids of the high priest:

67 And when she saw Peter warming himself, she looked upon him, and said, And thou also wast with Jesus of Nazareth,

68 But he denied, saying, I know not, neither understand I what thou sayest. And he went out into the porch; and the cock crew.

69 And a maid saw him again, and began to say to them that stood by, This is one of them.

70 And he denied it again. And a little after, they that stood by said again to Peter, Surely thou art one of them: for thou art a Galilaean, and thy speech agreeth thereto.

71 But he began to curse and to swear, saying, I know not this man of whom ye speak.

72 And the second time the cock crew. And Peter called to mind the word that Jesus said unto him, Before the cock crow twice, thou shalt deny me thrice. And when he thought thereon, he wept.

Spread of the Primary Idea

While unusual attention to the question of the primary has recently been awakened in Indiana by the attack upon the constitutionality of the new state-wide primary law, and nobody knows as yet whether it will "hold water" or not, it is interesting and surprising as well to note the spread of the primary idea in the past few years. As an illustration, a Washington writer for the Cincinnati Enquirer has discovered that a clean-cut majority of the delegates to the next republican national convention will be chosen by voters at a primary, and not "hand-picked" as in former years. The hand-picked national delegate has very nearly seen his day.

In at least eighteen states, which will have a total of 574 delegates to the republican convention next year, these must, under the statute, be chosen by primary vote. It is compulsory, and there is no way of circumventing the law, so that ambitious gentlemen who aspire to bedeck themselves in national convention delegate badges will be forced to go out among the people to press their claims instead of "fixing it up" with a few of the party leaders in their district. These 574 legally created primary delegates in the republican body next year will come from the following states: California, 26; Illinois, 58; Indiana, 30; Iowa, 26; Maryland, 16; Massachusetts, 36; Michigan, 30; Minnesota, 22; Nebraska, 16; New Jersey, 28; New York, 90; North Dakota, 10; Ohio, 48; Oregon, 10; Pennsylvania, 76; South Dakota, 10; West Virginia, 16; Wisconsin, 26. The present probability is that the total of delegates to the convention will be 1,005, so that the 574 above listed will constitute a clear-cut majority, while other primary states yet to hear from will undoubtedly increase that figure.

The republican congressional committee has listed Indiana on March 7 as the first primary state to choose its national delegates next year—assuming, of course, that the Indiana law is upheld by the courts in the fight now on the docket, and it is conceded in Washington that these thirty Indiana delegates will be for Charles W. Fairbanks as the favorite son in the presidential race. Whether the primary-chosen delegate is in point of fact any better than the variety which has been "picked by hand," is, of course, altogether dependent upon the individual and his conception of responsibility to his party in the district. He may prove to be no improvement whatever over the old style, but the primary will at least give the rank and file of the voters of any party an opportunity to say who shall be their spokesman—a matter with which they have heretofore had but very little to do.

Congressman Cline has just forwarded to the chief of the board of army engineers a very strong plea for federal aid in accomplishing flood prevention in Allen county. From the inception of the movement the congressman has taken an active interest in it and has overlooked no opportunity to be of service to the people of Fort Wayne and of Allen county in this connection. His contention that since the federal government has assumed jurisdiction over the Maumee river it may fairly be expected to share the flood prevention burden is well taken, and it should prove convincing in Washington. In any event, the people may rest assured that they can depend upon Congressman Cline to render all the assistance in his power in the furtherance of flood prevention plans.

Prosecutor Rucker unmercifully lambasted Mayor Joseph E. Bell, of Indianapolis, in his opening statement at the trial of the latter on charges of conspiracy involving the primary and the elections, his verbal castigation of the executive amounting to bitter execration. As a denouncer, Prosecutor Rucker is showing a good deal of class, but it is going to be the jury's duty to decide whether the evidence he shall later produce supplies adequate justification for the bedazzling glare and the infinite variety of the prosecutor's oratorical fireworks display.

The Indiana state fair has had an extremely prosperous week, the indications being that both attendance and financial records will have been admittedly broken when the auditors make their final checking of accounts. In view of the general state of the fair business in the past few years, financial rehabilitation is likely to prove something of a shock to the promoters. In most instances recently it has been necessary to dig down into the treasury to make up a deficit and call on hope for a heavy overdraft when the next annual exhibition time comes 'round.

Indiana progressives have resolved to refuse to mix in the fight to test the constitutionality of the new Indiana primary law when it shortly comes to trial in Vincennes, but will assume the role of "a friend of the court" and allow the democrats and the republicans to wage the battle. The mooners have evidently either overlooked the usual fate of the innocent bystander or have determined to defy it, and all political traditions are overturned when the militant progressives decline an opportunity to mix in a political melee.

TYPHOID FEVER SEASON.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)

The health authorities at Washington City, by way of impressing upon people the importance of contributing to the suppression of typhoid fever, has stated the subject on an economic basis as to consequences other than death. The typhoid season is just at hand. Probably 200,000 persons in the United States will contract the disease, of which some 15,000 will die. About 50 per cent. of these will be between the important ages of 15 and 35 years. Each case will involve at least a month of invalidism. Add to this the total loss by 18,000 deaths and the reader may approximate from himself the annual toll exacted from mankind by this disease alone.

Scientific knowledge of typhoid fever is most complete. The death rate has been cut in two since 1900, but still it is much higher with us than in countries which we are inclined to regard as not nearly so progressive as our own. If it were possible to figure out with reasonable accuracy the cost, through invalidism and death, of other diseases than typhoid fever, the country would appreciate all the more the significance and value of the great service rendered by the National Health Bureau, and also by state bureaus. Health is a conspicuous blessing, personal and general. And much of that which the civilized world enjoys has been literally forced upon us by the power of government—in direct opposition often to the wishes of the beneficiaries themselves.

Careful precautions will keep away typhoid fever. It thrives on dirt. Therefore be cleanly. It can only get into the body through absorption of waste products from one who has had the disease. The means of carriage of these products from one person to another are usually drinking water, milk and flies, and by sewage contact.

WANTS MORE MIDSHIPMEN. Daniels Will Recommend Increase in Naval Academy.

Washington, Sept. 11.—Secretary Daniels will recommend to congress that the number of midshipmen in the naval academy be increased to capacity. That would mean the appointment of practically 300 more midshipmen than will be enrolled this fall, or about 1,200.

RHODE ISLAND WAR GOVERNOR IS DEAD

Paris, Sept. 11.—William Sprague, famous war governor of Rhode Island, and twice United States senator from that state, died at his residence here early this morning at the age of 84 years. His death was due to meningitis, coupled with infirmities of age. The body will be taken to Rhode Island for burial.

At the outbreak of hostilities he converted his apartment in the rue de la Popolo into a convalescent hospital for the wounded of all nationalities. He was assisted in the work by his wife, who gave up her dressing room for use as a hospital pharmacy.

Governor Sprague had lived in Paris several years. He became critically ill late in 1910 and his death was expected, but he became much better, although he continued to be a semi-invalid.

WOMAN USES HATPIN.

Jabs Two Mashers in Chase Through South Bend Streets.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 11.—Long hatpins in the hands of a pretty woman are effective in putting mashers to flight. This was demonstrated here yesterday when Mrs. Oscar Bennett turned on Jeremiah Archibald and Frank Noble, jabbing both of the men in the arms and legs as she pursued them through the business district.

"They insulted me," Mrs. Bennett said. "When the police fail to stop this overbearing habit of young men accosting women when they are in the shopping district, we must use our own method of defense."

The men were later arrested and each was fined $30 in the city court.

ANOTHER FORT WAYNE SOCIETY YOUNG WOMAN.

MISS CARRIE STIEFEL.

The largest social affair which the young people enjoyed during the current week was Miss Carrie Stiefel's dancing party at the Country club on Tuesday evening. Over one-hundred of the society young folks danced to music furnished by Franklin's orchestra. Miss Stiefel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Stiefel, and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Levy chaperoned the company. Miss Stiefel has not always lived in Fort Wayne, but she has made many friends during her residence here, although she has been away part of the time attending school, her last year being at Milwaukee Downer college. Miss Stiefel is an Indiana girl, her native town being Angola.

Baritone Singer Comes to Ft. Wayne

Fort Wayne is to have an addition to her musical ranks a part of this season that will lend prestige to her musical power as David Baxter, the widely known baritone is coming here to teach and do recital work. Mr. Baxter was heard in this city several seasons ago appearing under the auspices of the Morning Musical society and received praise from all who heard him. With such a cello performer as Emmeran Stoeber and with a number of first-class violinists, singers, pianists, organists and orchestra performers of high rank, musical circles welcome so fine an example of vocal art as is employed in Mr. Baxter. The music loving public is demanding much of a singer these days, as it is of a performer on any instrument. Owing to the education of the ear through victrola records and by reason of the better class of music being performed in excellent style in a number of the moving picture houses, people are distinguishing the difference between good music played badly or indifferently, with that well done. It is no longer so easy for the charlatan to impose upon the people from a musical standpoint. Pupils' recitals during the month of June invariably exhibited a better standard of endeavor than ever before.

Mrs. C. M. Becker, of 1225 Lillie street, a well known employee of the Wolf and Dessauer store, Miss Becker has been teaching in the Fort Wayne public schools for several years with much success.

Kaiser Family Reunion.

The fourth reunion of the Kaiser family was held on Sunday, Sept. 6th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kaiser, of Marion township, on the Decatur road in spite of a continuous rain throughout the entire day relatives and friends gathered at this reunion to more than eighty in number. A bountiful dinner and supper was served to all, which was prepared by the hostess and her assistants. A general good time was enjoyed until a late hour. Those present were Mrs. Louise Kaiser and daughter Minnie, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Kaiser and daughter Clara, Mrs. Minnie Sherer, daughter and son, Helen and Norman, Mr. and Mrs. Will Kaiser and son Walter, Ernest Fenker, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Moutz and family, Mrs. Sadie Moutz and son Floyd, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Pook and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, son and daughter, Carl and Hilda, all of Columbia City; Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Hauptmeier, of Fort Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. Simon Hilsmeier and family, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. DITTO SAVES A SECOND: BUT COSTS $10 FINE.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—If you're shipping sells or sauce dishes to South America, don't use ditto marks on the customs invoices. They'll fine you, like as not, $10 or so, and the consignee will pay the fine and write back kicking—and you'll enclose the $10 and won't use ditto again. But if this hasn't happened to you, be warned; it has happened to several, and the department of commerce is sending out warnings to manufacturers and jobbers that the ditto is illegal. Mathematical sharpsharps say it only saves a second, anyway.

IN THE THEATERS

AT THE MAJESTIC.

VOGEL'S COMBINED MINSTREL AND GIRLIE SHOW COMING

At the Majestic next Wednesday and Thursday with daily matinees, John W. Vogel will offer the newest thing in theatricals, "Japland," a happy combination blending the better elements of opera, minstrelsy and farce.

The aim of the alliance is to satisfy the eye with gorgeous stage settings and beautiful costumes, and please the ear with lyrics and tunes both new and old, real gems from grand and comic opera. The principals have the support of a girl chorus of twenty picked voices and Mr. Vogel's own Symphony Orchestra. And while the performance smacks of opera, it contains many wise and witty sayings such as are heard in farce, boasts of much grandeur in a scenic way, and is elaborate enough for extravaganza.

Minstrelsy is not forgotten for the comedians with cork, singers of the better type, dancers of the new school and specialties of the acceptable kind are a part of the program.

In short, "Japland" is one grand melody of mirth, song and color, with fifty nifty boys and pretty girls who can and do amuse.

AT THE EMPRESS

FALL FREAKS OF FASHION

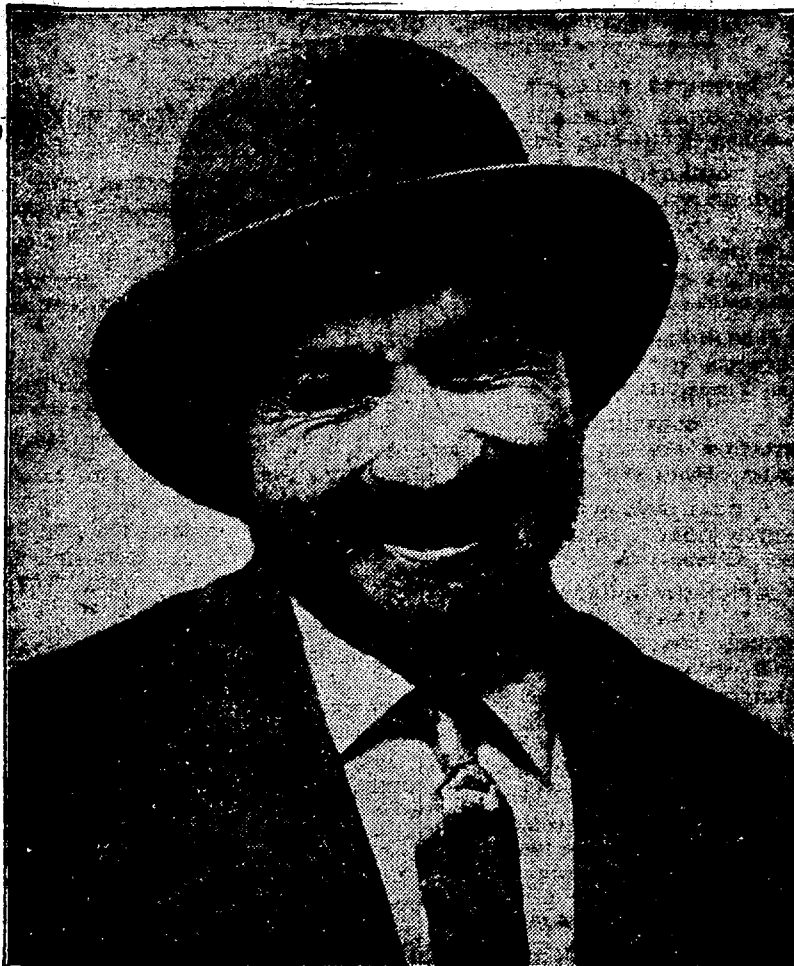

Will All Be Shown at the Empress Next Week By "The Queens of the Follies."

"The Queens of the Follies Bergere," which comes to the Empress theater next week, takes great pride in the costumes and gowns that are worn by the ladies in the cast. The leading lady will appear each day in the coming fall fashions, which have just recently been imported from the seat of style. The high boots, the ankle watch, the short voluminous skirt, the pantaloons with cuffs and the joffe cape are among some of the articles of ladies clothing that will be worn.

Josephine Barlow, the principal lady character in this cast, started her theatrical career as a show girl in a musical production, where she was discovered by a well known burlesque manager, who immediately engaged her when he saw her ability of acting and singing. Her success was instantaneous and she made a decided hit at the opening performance. One of the chief characteristics is that she knows how to wear gowns and besides has a wonderful personality and magnetism and possesses a beautiful voice.

The Queens of the Follies Bergere is a French folly in two frocks and is headed by a number of the most celebrated actors, such as Meyer Harris, the leading comedian; George Hart and Fred DuBois, who takes the juvenile lead role. Flo Clark, a soubrette, and

MEYER HARRIS AT THE EMPRESS.

Leading comedian with "The Queens of the Follies Bergere," at the Empress all next week.

Katherine Mack, two other handsome and accomplished actresses, are included in the cast.

The Winning Widow, which has pleased thousands of people this week, including two full houses of Fort Wayne ladies, appears for the last time at the Empress this evening. Princess Ionia proved her ability as a dancer last evening when she gave her special number, "The Dance in Gold."

AT KEITH PALACE

FRANK FOGARTY AT PALACE.

Celtic Wit, Internationally Famous, Tops Coming Bill.

The internationally famous wit, Frank Fogarty, whose quaint, humorous and human observations of life, whose sparkling stories and scintillating wit-lights are known wherever humanity is loved, is the splendid feature attraction on the second big bill at the New Palace. It opens Monday afternoon, Mr. Fogarty coming here directly from the Majestic theater in Chicago, where all week Mr. Fogarty has had the captious Chicago crowds at his feet with his clean, brilliant manner of telling his stories of Celtic folk lore and his human character paintings. By no means is Mr. Fogarty alone as a headliner attraction on this program, however, as Ernest R. Bell, the celebrated composer of the songs "Mother McCree," "Love Me and the World is Mine," "In the Garden of My Heart," "Till the Sands of the Desert Grow Cold," "A Little Bit of Heaven Called Ireland" and a host of others, is on the bill and will offer a singing parlour in which he will use nothing but his own songs. Agnes Scott and Harry Keane, too, are on this program, presenting Miss Scott's latest contribution to vaudeville, "The Final Decree." She is the woman who wrote "Drifting," a sketch that lives in the memory of vaudeville lovers as quite the most beautiful ever penned. A dancing, posing creation that introduces Miss Melissa TenEyck for the first time to Fort Wayne for the first time is another of the unusual portions on this menu. These two remarkable dancers style their offering, "The Gamboling of the Gods." Other features on the second Keith bill of the season are Margaret and William Cutty, two of the famous Cutty family; Harry Adler and Anna Arline, in "A New Idea," the Four Janleys, risley equilibrista of note and the Jaunts and Journeys.

The current bill is featured by the bewitchingly beautiful dancing act presented by Mlle. Maryon Vadie and her lovely corps de ballet, and includes Eva Taylor and company in "Suspicious of Baby," James B. Donovan and Miss Marie Lee; Moore Gardner and Rose; the Brightons; Derkins' wonderful dog and monkey pantomime; Young and Cummings, and the Keith Jaunts and Journeys.

AT THE TEMPLE.

"THE GIRL IN THE TAXI"

A Roof Raising Laugh "The Girl in the Taxi" at Temple Monday.

Opening with the evening performance on Monday, the Temple Stock Players, will for a solid week indulge their public in the roof raising, rib rupturing comedy hit of the age "The Girl in the Taxi," a play built for laughing purposes only and with never a slow moment during the time it is fulfilling its mission. It is a story of several sets of gay men, both young and old, who disport themselves in the all-night restaurants of New York and frivel with the dashing actresses they encounter in their rambles. The fun starts with Young Stewart, a boy who on an allowance of $5 a month is endeavoring to buy flowers for a lady contortionist in the apartment above that of his parents. He has abstracted his father's clothes to secure money for the blooming presents, but the real riot opens in the grill room at the Cafe Churchill, where the complications ensue with a rapidity that keeps the audience in a howl of delight. The climaxes are heightened by being postponed by devious tricks, until a veritable tumult of comedy results. Two years ago this comedy was the hit of Broadway and in this farce Fort Wayne is in for a week much gayer than the one enjoyed when the Temple Players were in the midst of the laugh "Hello, Bill."

"What Happened to Mary?" The wholesome, clean little drama of life, "What Happened to Mary?" will remain at the Temple tonight. In this adaptation from Owen Davis' stories about "Mary" which appeared in the "Ladies World" several years ago, the Temple Players are presenting a little problem play, sans the salacious features of which the theater going public long since has so completely tired.

CONCORDIA CADETS

RATED EXCELLENT

The Concordia college battalion has been rated as excellent by the war department, according to information that has been received by Director Martin Luecke. The battalion was inspected early this summer by an army officer and it was upon his recommendation that the rating of excellent was given. Regular drills were resumed this week and will be held throughout the term every Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons at 3:30 o'clock. New uniforms are expected next week.

Since the opening of Concordia fifty-six new students have been enrolled, making a total number of students of 261.

Cecil Pike, 14 years old, residing in Toronto, Canada, one of the freshmen in the Sexta class, was held up by immigration officers at Detroit and though he left his home on August 30 he did not arrive here until Friday. The immigration officers were under the impression that Concordia college is a charitable institution and under the law persons liable to become subjects of public charity are not admitted. Pike enlisted the aid of a Lutheran minister in Detroit and was finally permitted to continue his journey to this city.

SENTINEL WANT ADS ALWAYS GET RESULTS

BETTER THAN EVEN BREAK ON WEATHER

Forecaster McDonough
Makes Guess on Meteorology of Fair Week.

"More fair days than bad ones." This is the official prognostication by Weather Observer McDonough on the prospects for the coming week given to the Fort Wayne Fair management on their annual autumnal show which opens its five days of existence on Tuesday. The observer would go no stronger than merely that announcement, but that is better than he has been able to promise any other week during this so-called summer.

The setting for the great fair is practically complete. The grounds have been thoroughly groomed, the buildings refreshed and brightened and the track worked until it promises to be in prime shape for the races that open Tuesday with a meet for Fort Wayne horses, and close Saturday with a big motorcycle day. On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the professional horsemen will have their innings on the track, racing for the $300 purses hung up by the management.

"Pike" attractions by the dozen have been refused by the fair management until some way can be found to squeeze them in. Every available foot of space in sight has been contracted for already, and the management is endeavoring to find some other spot within the grounds on which to locate a sort of annex to the "pike." This feature of a fair is what makes this manner of amusement popular with the fun-loving public. The raucous invitations of the barkers to investigate the mysteries behind the flashing "fronts," the noisy, laughing throng that surges up and down between the rows of girl shows, wild men, mummified mysteries, strong men shows, more girl shows, etc., and the bantering of the good natured crowd are the jewels in the setting of a fair.

The 1915 horse show, especially the heavy draft horse department, promises to eclipse anything of the character ever attempted at a fair, for more of the great animals have been entered already than ever shown in Fort Wayne before. The Allen county breeders are taking an unusual interest in this year's show and are entering their stock against the cream of the importer stables. The management this year paid little attention to the professional importers, being content to exploit the Allen county product alone, but in spite of this fact practically every big stable in this district will have entries in the big horse show. Madame Marantette's champion horses, including St. Patrick, the highest jumping horse in the world, and two high schooled saddle horses, Gancho, the racing ostrich, and his equine mate, have arrived in their special car in anticipation of a big week. These wonder animals will constitute one of the big free attractions at the grounds.

Concert at Robison Park Sunday

If the day be warm and fair, Robison's Orchestra, consisting of fourteen pieces, will give a miscellaneous concert of popular music at the grove band stand tomorrow. The concert will begin at 3 o'clock.

W. C. T. U. RE-ELECTS OFFICERS FOR YEAR

Mrs. Martha Ridenour
Again Heads Temperance Forces of Allen County.

At the Friday afternoon session of the annual meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union held at the First Evangelical church the members re-elected all the old officers to serve another year. Mrs. Martha Ridenour was chosen to guide the temperance forces of the county through another year's time. The other officers are: Vice-president, Mrs. Joe Welty; recording secretary, Mrs. Nellie Smith, of New Haven; corresponding secretary, Mrs. M. A. Smith, of Monroeville; treasurer, Mrs. Ida Youse, of Monroeville; Y. P. B. secretary, Mrs. Benner; L. T. L. secretary, Mrs. Lucy Youse.

The judges in the gold medal contest had a very difficult time in deciding the winner, but later awarded the medal to Mrs. S. W. Teeple, of Oak Knoll Place, of this city. Her nearest competitor was Mrs. Alma Bosseman, of Monroeville.

Many Appointments.
The appointments of superintendents and heads of various departments follow:

WORLD'S MOST FAMOUS STATUE AGAIN IS IN HIDING

Venus De Milo Is Removed Secretly From the Louvre In Paris—History Repeats Itself With This Wonderful Marble Woman Now In Retirement In Fear Of Falling Into the Hands Of the Germans—This Marvelous Work Of Sculpture Has On Previous Occasions Been Removed to a Place Secure From Military Vandalism

Venus de Milo again is in hiding from the hands of the invaders and is complying with her 1800-year record of never having fallen into the hands of her foes.

When the Germans started their famous drive on Paris more than a year ago the famous statue was removed to a place of hiding where she with other art treasures remains in hiding, secure from both the knowledge of her friends and foes.

When the German drive was heralded this famous statue with 720 marbles of the great Parisian schools was placed in a moving van and taken to some spot where only a few may find her.

This statue, weighing 6,600 pounds was carted away into seclusion and thus for her hundredth time escaped destruction from the hands of her enemies—for Venus de Milo is Pagan and any of her enemies might wish to destroy her on such a ground.

Two thousand years ago she was the loveliest of Pagan idols, worshipped as the queen of the victorious as well as the pitiless. In a white temple on a hill she reigned victorious amid the scenery of a Grecian island.

She was the heathen goddess of love, yet of vain desire, cruel pain, strife, jealousy and the conflicts of men. Then came Christianity and those inflamed with zeal in the new cause shattered images to right and left regardless of their intrinsic value.

CARRIED AWAY 2,000 YEARS AGO.

But Venus, that beautiful yet nude masterpiece of the sculptors, had her defenders and they carried her (rather the sculptured reproduction of the goddess) away to safety to a secret vault in a hillside. The statue was sealed up with mysterious ceremony and guards placed about the cavern to protect the statue with their lives.

The stone was covered with dirt and sod and to add to the Pagan rites two little mysterious goddesses were placed beside the tomb to protect the statue.

Eighteen hundred years passed. In March, 1820, Yorgos Bottonis, a peasant of the island of Melos in the Mediterranean, with his son and nephew were plowing their ground one day. The field was in two terraces. On the edge of the upper terrace Yorgos noticed certain big rocks of antique stone and desired to use them. Prying one up he found a fissure. Feverishly they broke in and on their knees beheld in the shadows beneath them, the spectre of a woman, larger than normal.

Frying further they pushed over a section of the wall into the lower field. They jumped down, looked in, and were struck with strange awe. There stood a goddess, white and radiant, beautiful with the beauty of the "immortals" of the old songs! Who had hid and sealed her up? A mystery. During 1,800 years that marvelous form, born of the light, had been a captive in the darkness, the victorious!

Yorgos guessed her value. He knew that antique Greek statues had, in foreign eyes, great price; and his statue was entire!

Fifty years later Yorgos' son and nephew, still living, protested that she had been found entire. President Thiers of the French Republic, being interested in the Venus of Milo, had sent Jules Ferry as ambassador to Greece, around 1872, to pick up local traditions at Melos. Ferry did more. He found Antonio and Yorgos Bottonis, Jr., who, as youths of 18, had participated in the great discovery.

"They are the son and nephew," reported Ferry, "grown to be beautiful, white-bearded old men, robust, ruddy, bright-eyed. Examined separately before the French Consul, they declared forcibly, with details, explanatory poses and ardent speculations, that the Venus, when they found her, was standing upright on her pedestal, the left arm extended and its hand holding an apple!"

"The popular story of the countryside, also," reported Ferry, "is a tale of strife and battle. The discovery, the dispute, the fight on the beach—all impressed the islanders; and the impression remains."

So, now, the story.

CROUCHING VENUS — LOUVRE

It was only recently revealed. And it is queer! The minute she came out of hiding—strife of men! and smash!

HIDE THE STATUE.

Yorgos and the two boys put their find in safety.

They found her to be in two superposed blocks, joined invisibly at the waist. Also, the left arm could be unhooked from the shoulder, to which it was cunningly fixed by an iron tenon.

They hid her precious upper half in a cabin. And they blocked the niche to hide her lower half, the pedestal and two little guardian figures.

Almost immediately the French naval stores ship La Chevrette anchored in Melos harbor. On board was a young ensign, curious of art antiquities, who was later to become celebrated—M. Dumont d'Urville. Castro, the village, had an antique marble amphitheater, broken columns, mutilated carvings, tombs and blocks of the old walls of Melos. Snooping through this, d'Urville got news of Yorgos' find. He took aside his friend, Lieut. Matterer. "Matterer," he said, "a peasant has found a peerless statue. Let's go see it."

Yorgos was hot to sell. He showed them the find, then took them to the cabin to see the upper half. Their eyes were for a moment blinded by the sunlight. Then, in the dark cabin, a sunbeam from a little window gilded the face and bust of a supernatural beauty, rising from the lower regions! d'Urville says, "like a lily rising from the soil." Venus seemed rising from the cabin floor. In her left hand she held an apple! d'Urville agreed to buy her. The bargain was made. The Chevrette sailing immediately to Constantinople, he informed the French Ambassador, the Marquis de Riviere; and in a few days the Ambassador's secretary was sent to make the payment, "complete the acquisition at any price" and take possession.

Unhappily, Secretary Marcellus arrived a trifle late. The primates of the island had taken it on themselves to make a gift of the Venus to a certain Greek Prince inhabiting Constantinople. So Yorgos had sold her to them—also. Half the purchase price had been paid.

At this moment arrived the French war schooner L'Estafette, sent by the ambassador to take the statue. When she anchored in Melos Harbor, May 30, 1820, her commandant, Robert, saw a brig flying the Turkish flag anchored near by; and to the consternation of himself and Secretary Marcellus, there appeared at the foot of the hill a crowd of Greek and Turkish sailors laboriously transporting the upper half of the peerless one toward that same Turkish brig!

half was already on the brig; and here they were lugging the lovely torso on a stretcher, equilibrium kept by ropes tied to her bust and neck—which still bear traces of their wearing on the soft marble! "There's just time," said Robert to Marcellus.

They armed a squad of marines, took the longboat and reached the shore just as a Turkish longboat crew came running to protect their brethren. Cutlasses and clubs opened the dance.

The Turks dropped her to defend themselves. Slash, parry, wrestle and roll! A cutlass takes off a Turkish ear. Enough carnage for a graven image! They pull for their brig. The French have captured the Peerless One!

They were excited and hurried. Quick, put rollers under her! Attention, she's falling over! Malheur, she's toppled! Now, my children, yet an effort. Here's the boat. Embark. It was hot work. Best say nothing about it.

And nothing was said. No mention of a fight with Turks. In time of peace. No mention of rough-housing Venus in a scrimmage.

They squared the Turks, who ceded them the statue's lower half. Yet, when the "Estafette" sailed, Venus here and wounds.

ful left arm, which d'Urville and Matterer saw entire on her shoulder, lifting high the apple.

SAFE IN THE LOUVRE.

Her doom is to get one swat, each time she moves!

Behold, we say, Venus Victrix safe in the Louvre, at Paris.

"The bust and front have scarcely suffered from the ravages of time," reported the Comte de Clarac, the Curator. "They keep the velvety skin of a master of the Greek period, who, after polishing, once more skinned the chisel over the perfect work. But here and there are slight lesions, due, probably to careless pick work in digging her up."

But he knew that she was not dug up.

He delighted in "fragments of arm," which he assumes to have been "happily found" with the statue. He notes in them "the same quality of marble and of work, the same velvety effects of chisel skimming." The shoulders have been most damaged. Traces of cords indicate that she may have been "dragged," shoulders and hips are "scraped." Yet, a few lines after, he mentions the left shoulder being "broken" at the joining point. All of which is assumed to have happened long ago.

But, he time passed, strange talk fitted.

Matterer began to get uneasy. Naval officer, he had a horror of "bullying in" and seemed to dislike the "rough" and "roughing" of the statue. He was a great admirer of the statue, but he was a great admirer of the statue.

Greek period!

In 1854, a famous classical archaeologist, Charles Lenormant, summed up the strange talk in an article in The Correspondent, containing these singular words:

"I have always believed that, from the beginning, to better accredit a production which is its own best proof, they designedly caused to disappear accessories which might derange the idea that they had discovered a chef d'oeuvre of the grand period of Greek art. Thus, besides the arms, they suppressed the debris of an inscription."

ALWAYS GETS A SWAT.

Who is "they?"

Marcellus, who was still alive, came out indignantly in the Revue Contemporaine, "defending himself, the ambassador, and the naval officers of the 'Estafette' against 'an attack involving alleged vandalism.' Yet he did not breathe a word concerning the fight on the beach.

Lieut. Matterer seems to have had a smaller suspicion that the arms were broken deliberately, either on the ship or after her arrival at Paris. Neither he nor d'Urville—both of whom saw Venus "intact"—formed part of the conquering party, but they know about it!"

Matterer began to get uneasy. Naval officer, he had a horror of "bullying in" and seemed to dislike the "rough" and "roughing" of the statue. He was a great admirer of the statue, but he was a great admirer of the statue.

wrote three notices, one for The Archives de l'Art Français, one secretly confided to the curator of Tullon Museum and a third confided to Jean Alcard of the French Academy. He made a sketch of the perfect Venus as he had seen her in the niche, and added simply: "For the rest they (the arms) have been mutilated, the one and the other."

In 1858 he wrote another article, telling for the first time publicly that Venus was acquired by force, but not even here does he imagine that she got all her hurts in the fight on the beach.

"No," wrote Alcard a few years ago. "Matterer thinks, tranquilly, that they committed the act of further mutilating her in Paris, and designedly! He shares this strange opinion with the archaeologist, Lenormant, and each without the knowledge of the other. And he is not a writer, but a naval officer!"

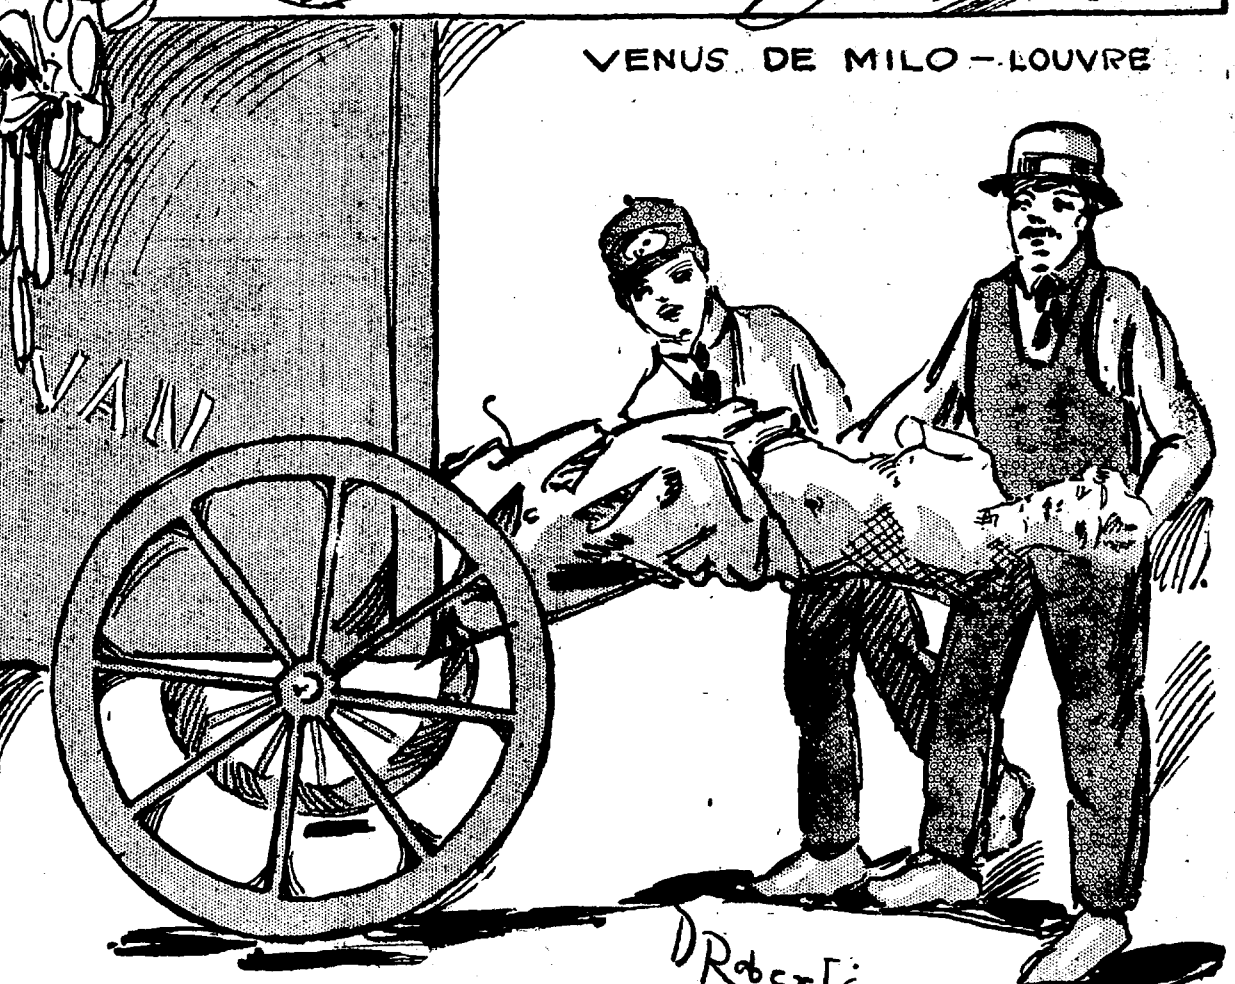

Here says that the pedestal underwent a change in the workshops of the Louvre, and that "the inscription is no longer there," but "it would be an insult to the authorities to suggest that they destroyed it—to remove evidence that their treasure belongs to a date later than the grand Greek period."

So there we are.

And Venus has made another move. Each time she moves she gets a swat. We shall see what happens to the statue.

VENUS DE MILO — LOUVRE

Historians Find Traces of Trail of Harmar's Ford One and a Quarter Centuries After Famous Battle

LOOKING DOWN
STREAM FROM HARMAR'S FORD.

THE TRAIL DOWN THE BANK STILL IS DISTINCT

CHILDREN PLAY ON SITE OF MASSACRE

On October twenty-second it will be just one and a quarter centuries since the fearless regulars and ungainly militiamen of General Josiah Harmar went down to their deaths in one of the most terrible Indian battles of pioneer days in the famous battle of Harmar's ford. Although it is one of the most spectacular pages of American history, this slaughter in the Maumee, and the sit of it is within the Fort Wayne city limits, there are not a dozen people in the whole community who could point out accurately just where it occurred.

Last week J. M. Stouder, the local historian, and Calvin Young, publisher and investigator of Indiana history, made a trip of inspection over the territory that figured in the fight, and found a distinct trail down the bank of the Maumee river, made over a hundred years ago, and which was the route taken by Harmar's men in the march that ended so disastrously for them.

Harmer Not There.
Contrary to common opinion, General Harmer was a full day's ride from the scene of the battle on the fateful morning of October twenty-second, 1790, and the 400 men were under the command of Colonel Hardin.

On October the nineteenth, the militiamen had been defeated by the Indians, and Colonel Hardin, smarting with the sting of defeat, felt that he could revenge the deaths of his men in a second attack. Colonel Hardin was a fearless soldier and an able officer, but the raw recruits who formed the militia under his command were untrained and afraid. Harmer and his men were encamped far down the river on the night of the twenty-first of October, and early in the evening Hardin went to Harmer and asked permission to lead a body against the Indians. The Red man by this time was full of confidence following the victory of two days before, and Harmer saw the advisability of further subduing the natives before much further troop movement was made.

Started in Night.
Hardin then collected the men about him and sixty regulars and 340 militiamen were told to be ready for a flying trip. They felt that they could reach the Indian village in what is now the Lakeside junction of the St. Joe and the Maumee, before daylight and that surprise attack would completely humble and subdue the Reds.

The regulars were under the command of Major Wyllie and the soldiers the center and the militia on the outside. Wyllie and Hardin led the line and Captain Ashton was in direct command of the regulars.

The militiamen were a set of soldiers rarely encountered today, for when they wanted to stop, they stopped, and it was only after considerable prodding that they continued their march. The delay thus made the march take the entire night, and it was daybreak before they reached the banks of the muddy Maumee or Omece, as it was called then.

The Indians lay ambushed in the swamps in what now is Lakeside, and when the soldiers entered the water, they did not notice the skulking Red men on the opposite bank. The ford runs up stream nearly six hundred feet and then crosses abruptly to the northern bank. When the whole body of men, with the exception of a small scouting party that had gone up the St. Mary's, were in the water, the Indians opened fire. Chief Richardville, then a boy of twelve years, tells a remarkable story of the attack. He tells of the cries of the men, the splashing of the horses and then of the piles of dead in the shallow water, and the river running red with blood.

Where It Is.
There has been much discussion regarding the exact location of the ford. The fact that it was said to be at the foot of Harmer street always was confusing. The south side of the ford, where the men went down, is plainly visible even today, and is located at the west end of Cochrane street. A distinct track worn in the bank marks the spot. This was used by Indians and whites for years before and after the Harmer episode. It is seen in the top right hand picture. The children playing in the little pathway at the bottom right hand picture are frolicking on the spot in which the ambushed Indians lay in wait for Harmer's men. The point at which the ford enters the river is just below a little summer house that overhangs the bank, and back of the houses that line Cochrane street the bodies of the soldiers who died in battle lie in unmarked trenches. Some day the exact location of these graves will become known, but as the little building has been down and they are undiscovered.

The ford then runs up stream along the south bank, and the shallow riffle still is visible in low water. Just opposite a great white leaning sycamore it crosses abruptly and the north track was forever lost when the Lakeside dike was thrown up.

SENSELESS JUMBLES OF LETTERS AND FIGURES FLASH OVER WIRES AND UNDER SEA—THAT'S WILSON'S NOTE GOING TO GERMANY.

WILSON'S NOTE—HOW IT TRAVELED TOLD IN SKETCHES.

A few old employes whose reliability is unimpeachable. The coded message is generally deciphered and the result compared with the original before it is put on the wire.

Then it is wired to a New York cable office. The government tries to distribute its patronage fairly among them all. The last message before this went via the cables of the Commercial Cable company.

In sending the message to New York by telegraph a second translation was made from the code into Morse, but the cable systems use the so-called Continental code; so an operator at a small typewriter-like instrument which punches holes in a traveling strip of paper, translates the Morse into the Continental code.

Then the message, racing forward at the rate of 40 words a minute, dived under the sea at Coney Island or at one of the other cable starting points along the Atlantic coast and comes on the way to Ireland. Thence by land it is telegraphed to London, and thence by cable to Denmark and

When it is finally put in the hands of Ambassador Gerard, having been re-translated from the Continental code into the original secret code of the United States, he must decipher it. And as in the case of the preceding note, he had it translated again, from English into German, before delivering it to Minister Von Jagow.

The most interesting part of the note's journey is that over the thousands of miles of wire under the Atlantic the cable is only seven-eighths of an inch thick at its deepest point, that is for a distance of about 1,400 miles under the sea. At the terminals it is two and one-half inches thick. A strong current cannot be used on the cables, so the usual system of reading the message at the receiving end cannot be employed.

Here a delicate instrument, including a hollow needle, suspended by a golden thread, carrying a tiny inkwell, registers a message in irregular curves on a traveling strip of paper. If the needle is carried too far, the inkwell will tracts Them.

New York, Sept. 11.—New York held a larger gathering of ring enthusiasts today than at any time since boxing flourished here under the Horton law. The ten-round bout between Paackey McFarland, of Chicago, and Mike Gibbons, of St. Paul, tonight, has brought spectators from all over the country. Nearly 200 admirers of McFarland arrived today from Chicago on a special train. The Brighton Beach motorhome, where the fight will take place, has seating capacity of 50,000 and while the promoters do not expect to fill it, they are confident that the gate receipts will more than equal the purse of $32,500.

The money will be divided $17,500 to McFarland and $15,000 to Gibbons. It is the richest stake offered at a ring contest here in some time. McFarland's last fight was on Dec. 8, 1914, a ten round decision bout with Jack Epton in Milwaukee. The fact that he has not taken part in a battle for nearly two years placed him slightly below Gibbons in the betting today. Gibbons' last appearance in the ring was in Brooklyn on May 21, 1915, when he fought ten rounds with Soldier Bartfield, no decision.

MAKES CLAIM AS "BOUND BOY."

Claude White Files Unusual Suit at Columbus.
Columbus, Ind., Sept. 11.—Alleging that he served the late John White, the last surviving veteran of the Mexican war in Bartholomew county for nineteen years as "bound boy," Claude V. White has filed a claim for $4,000 against his foster father's estate. It is alleged the claimant was bound out to White by his mother in 1881.

SOME CLARKEOGRAMS.

Here are some of the theories Clarke has held through twenty-three years of baseball:
"It is useless to fret over bad luck and poor work."
"Don't worry about what has passed but plug hard for better results next time."
"In handling men don't jolly too much or pound too hard. There's a half way point."
"Don't play with the 'if' deck. The man who figures 'if this' or 'if that' makes a mistake."

Claim Johnston Will Be Greatest Tennis Player the Game Ever Produced.

William Johnston, of San Francisco, who won two titles in two days, is picked to be the greatest tennis player the game ever produced. He is only 20, slight in build and growing. It is thought that with natural gain in strength and improvement in his wonderful game he will be unbeatable for years. The photo shows Johnston being carried from the court at Forest Hills, N. Y., where he won the singles championship one day, beating McLoughlin, then with Clarence Griffin, also of Frisco, as his partner, won the doubles title, beating McLoughlin, of Frisco, and Bundy, of Los Angeles.

WHAT'S THE ANSWER
IN THE MINORS?

(By Jack Murphy).
What's the answer in the minors? Baseball men, the men who have money invested or money to invest in the national pastime, are confronted by this question. The past season, the one just coming to a close, has proved that the question is there, and baseball men are struggling for an answer.

It is very plainly evident from the experience gained in this and the past half dozen years that minor league baseball is a bet against heavy odds. Some minor league clubs have made money this year, but they could be counted on the fingers of your hands. A few broke even, hundreds lost.

There is a demand for minor league ball. The small town wants it, it is a necessity as a training school for the big leagues. But baseball is business and men with money will not invest in a losing business. A new minor league scheme has to be worked out. It has to be discovered within two or three years at the most or baseball will be only a memory.

Shrewd sportsmen and financiers in several of the minor clubs have picked up and sold ball players to the big leagues this year and made money. Men less shrewd have picked up players by the score and dropped them. The old system of trying and training the unknown, as Gipeles to their horses, is doomed.

The farm system probably will follow. Youngstown, in the central league, is an example of this system worked down to a fine point of that difficult combination to achieve, business-sport.

The Youngstown club is virtually owned by the Pittsburgh Nationals. The stockholders in one hold the stock in the other. Here the green player is tried out for the minors here he stays, but if he shows big league speed he goes up. It is a great saving in expense. It takes out of the game a great deal of the gambling that faces every club owner. It makes baseball a surer proposition.

Youngstown and Pittsburgh made money this year. The idea, although an old one, was worked down to a real system here and the major-owned minor club here is a success. Sooner or later this or some like practice will come into being all over the country, and minor league baseball will be saved. And with it will be saved the major leagues.

CLARKE GOES BACK TO FARM LEAVING ONLY FOUR WHO STARTED WITH HIM.

(By Brown Holmes).

Fred Clarke, who resigned as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is going back to the farm as soon as the season closes. He has been in baseball twenty-three years and is tired of it. He longs for open fields and life at home.

Clarke has been in the game so long he will leave only four men in active service who were in the majors when he broke in at Louisville in 1895. McGraw, Jennings and Robinson were with Baltimore then and Griffith with Chicago. The Pirate boss started at Hastings, Neb., in 1892. He was with St. Joseph in 1893 and Savannah in 1894.

In his first game as a big leaguer he created a sensation by getting five hits in five times up. The feat has been duplicated only once. Danny Murphy got five hits in his first game with Connie Mack's team in 1902. Murphy, by the way, did not get to the grounds until the second inning or he might have made seven hits.

This is Clarke's fifteenth season as a manager. There is no telling in what position his club will finish, but here is what he accomplished in the other fourteen seasons:

- Won four pennants.
- Finished second five times.
- Finished fourth three times.
- Finished seventh once.

Fourteen years as a manager and below the first division only once is a great record. Finishing one-two in nine of the fourteen seasons is even greater.

Clarke is retiring from baseball a rich man. Money made on the diamond was invested in land in Kansas and he owns several hundred acres near Wichita. His wheat crop this year was a record breaker, prices were high and he made a clean-up.

Clarke has wanted to quit for several years but an ambition to land one more flag caused him to stick. He built a new team this season and had a chance. Now the chance is gone and Clarke is going to rest.

The Pirate's retirement marks the passing of one of the game's greatest players. He always hit around .300 and as a base runner was the peer of them all until Ty Cobb arrived.

Clarke was fair in all things. Not a single ball player who ever worked for him has ever been known to say a word against him. That's a record in itself.

ALEC GETS 1,000 BEANS FOR PULLING DOWN 25 VICTORIES.

Grover Alexander, Philadelphia's National pitcher, is the owner of a check given him by President Baker, Phila. president, in addition to the hurler's salary of about $5,000 a year. Alec was promised $1,000 extra if he won twenty-five games in the season. He hung up his twenty-fifth victory by shutting out the Giants.

COBB AGAIN SLUMPS
BUT HEADS THE LINELeads American Batters
Despite Five Point Drop for the Week.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—Ty Cobb has again fallen into a batting slump. But despite a drop of five points below his mark of last week, the Detroit star still is leading the American league with an average of .370, according to averages published here today.

Cobb maintains his speed on the bases, however, and is leading the league with 52 stolen bases. He also has strengthened his margin as the leading run getter, having scored 130. Crawford, Cobb's teammate, drove Ty from the top of total base column with a total of 249 bases, twelve more than Cobb's mark.

Other batters hitting in the .300 class are: Jackson, Chicago, .327; Speaker, Boston, .321; E. Collins, Chicago, .318; Crawford, Detroit, .318; Fuernier, Philadelphia, .314; Veach, Detroit, .313; McInnis, Philadelphia, .310; Strunk, Philadelphia, .303; Malsel, New York, .300.

Burns, of Detroit, holds the lead in home runs with five. In club batting the pennant contenders are bunched, with Detroit leading with 269 and Boston and Chicago close behind with 265 and 262 respectively.

The leading pitchers are: Foster, Boston, won 18 and lost 6; Scott, Chicago, 21 and 9; Ruth, Boston, 14 and 6; Shore, Boston, 15 and 7; Coveleskie, Detroit, 22 and 11; Daus, Detroit, 22 and 10; Fisher, New York, 18 and 9; Faber, Chicago, 21 and 11; Boland, Detroit, and Leonard, Boston, 11 and 8; Johnson, Washington, 22 and 13; Dubuc, Detroit, 17 and 11; Ayres, Washington and Benz, Chicago, 12 and 8.

Captain Doyle has again batted himself into the lead in the National league. The New Yorker has an average of .327. Following him are Luderus, Philadelphia, .325; Long, St. Louis, and Daubert, Brooklyn, tied with .309; Snyder, St. Louis, .307; Merkle, New York, and Hinchman, Pittsburgh, tied with .304; Griffin, Cincinnati, .295; Grogh, Cincinnati, .294; Fisher, Chicago, and Collins, Pittsburgh, tied with .293; Robertson, New York, .292. St. Louis leads in club batting with .257. Cincinnati is next with .254. Doyle leads in total bases with 215; Cravath, Philadelphia, leads in runs scored with 76, and in home runs with 19. Carry, Pittsburgh, with 34, leads the base stealers.

The leading pitchers are: Marmatz, Pittsburgh, won 20 and lost 7; Alexander, Philadelphia, 25 and 9; Toney, Cincinnati, 11 and 4; S. Smith, Brooklyn, 12 and 6; Pierce, Chicago, 11 and 6; Dale, Cincinnati, 18 and 11; Pfeiffer, Brooklyn, 14 and 9; Meadows, St. Louis, 12 and 5; Standridge, Chicago, 3 and 2; Ragan, Boston, 16 and 1; Mayers, Philadelphia, 18 and 13.

The ten leading batters of the Federal league are: Kauff, Brooklyn, .350; Magee, Brooklyn, .348; Fischer, Chicago, .315; Konethy, Pittsburgh, .315; Deal, St. Louis, .314; Roush, Newark, .315; Campbell, Newark, .312; Yerkes, Pittsburgh, .311; Plack, Chicago, .310; Magee leads in runs scored with 82; Kauff with 43, leads the base stealers; Konethy has the most total bases, 246, and Chase, Buffalo, with 16, leads the home run department. In pitching the leaders are: F. Allen, Pittsburgh, won 21 and lost 3; McConnell, Chicago, 21 and 4; S. Smith, St. Louis, 18 and 9; Barger, Pittsburgh, 8 and 4; Reulbach, Newark, 16 and 9; Schulz, Buffalo, 20 and 12; F. Smith, Brooklyn, 10 and 6; Anderson, Buffalo, 16 and 10; Cullop, Kansas City, 17 and 11; Plank, St. Louis, 15 and 10; M. Brown, Chicago, 12 and 8.

Brooklyn with 271, leads in club batting, and Pittsburgh is second with 267. Compton, Kansas City, no longer holds the lead in the American association. This honor goes to Leliveld, Kansas City, who has an average of .344. Compton's mark is .343. Others among the first ten are: J. Beall, Milwaukee, .341; Simpson, Minneapolis, .340; Rounddeau, Minneapolis, .333; Hinchman, Kansas City, .326; Corridon, Louisville, .323; Chappelle, Milwaukee, .317; W. Smith, Minneapolis, .308; Willie, Cleveland, .308; Ikon, Cavanaugh, .308; Cemons, Louisville, .307. Minneapolis leads in club batting with .282.

Compton's mark of nine homers has not been equaled. Kelly, Indianapolis, leads the base stealers with 58; Altizer, Minneapolis, is first as a run getter with 107. Leliveld leads in total bases with 257. The leading pitchers are: Hall, St. Paul, won 23, lost 9; Burk, Indianapolis, 14 and 8; R. Williams, St. Paul, 23 and 6; D. C. Williams, Minneapolis, 23 and 14; Schardt, Indianapolis, 19 and 11; Northrop, Louisville, 20 and 10; Ylingling, Minneapolis, 18 and 10; Deidt, Kansas City, 20 and 13; Tipple, Indianapolis, 12 and 8; Leineld, St. Paul, 17 and 12.

WERE TRADED FOR JOE JACKSON

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 11.—If five stars in any minor league were bunched together and traded for Joe Jackson, each of them would undoubtedly, esteem it an honor.

Therefore the selection of "Zeb" Terry and Fred McMullin, shortstop and second baseman, respectively, of the Los Angeles team, by the Chicago White Sox, as payment for Jackson is a recognition not to be sneered at.

Terry and McMullin were sold to the White Sox recently for the purpose, it is said, of repaying Cleveland for the loss of Jackson. It is understood that the two boys will report to the Sox in training but will be quietly transferred to the Indian club.

Terry is an example of a player who refused to be released. He was discharged by the Los Angeles club last year because he lacked experience. The young man absolutely refused to accept his discharge as final, and lingered about the clubhouse until Manager Frank Dillon resigned him in self-defense. Terry is a graduate of Stanford university, California.

McMullin, like Terry, has been in baseball for more than three years. It was not until he joined the Angels that he had an opportunity to prove his worth on a high-class club. McMullin spent his first two years in the "bushes."

Terry has been the sensation of the Pacific coast league this year. His fielding has caused him to be compared favorably with "Buck" Weaver, who graduated from the Pacific coast league. He is an opportune hitter and has been particularly dangerous in the pinches.

McMullin's fielding, coupled with Terry's work, has made the Angel keystone the talk of the minor leagues. The two youngsters have participated, starting and finishing, in more double plays than any other pair in the league. McMullin is hitting over .200. He was once given a brief try-out by the Detroit Americans but was rejected.

AMERICAN WOMEN ARE BECOMING LOPSIDED

High Street Car Steps and Continuous Strap-Hanging Is Responsible for This Growing Evil, Says a Medical Expert—Tennis and Other Things Also Blamed—Only Cure Is Exercise Planned to Correct the Abnormal Development Which Has Been Induced By the One-Sided Strain

Scientists say we are becoming a race of lop-sided from the fact our women have to take high steps in boarding street cars and that once aboard they have to hang from straps.

The high step and the strap hanging causes one side of the body to develop more than the other so the result is one side is higher than the other.

The strap-hanging develops a tendency to throw the weight of the head, shoulders and upper part of the body on one hip bone or the other thus causing lop-sidedness.

The debutante slouch has the same affect while the new military walk has the opposite and allows the weight to be thrown on the entire system.

The lop-sided tendency can be cured by those exercises intended to develop the muscles of the back.

By bending over a number of times and then straightening, or by lying on the back and lifting the legs to an angle of 80 degrees a number of times the muscles of the back can be properly strengthened.

High steps on street car platforms have other effects than showing silk hose.

They and the despised strap from which many have to hang are causing a race of lop-sided women, scientists warn. The usual exertion in climbing a high step is throwing the pelvis out of position and literally making women higher on one side than on the other. The painful half hour or so of dangling from a strap is having the same effect and, my, but our women will look funny in several more decades, according to medical forecasters.

The pelvis is made up of the two innominate bones joining in the front and the sacrum and coccyx in the rear. The innominate bone really is three bones fused together—the pubis, ileum and another.

They fuse in what is called the acetabulum and into this fits the neck of the femur or long bone of the leg. When one steps upward as upon boarding a car, the femur ascends and forces upward the bones of the pelvis, which are movable. As the first step is usually about six inches higher than the upper, the side on which a woman takes the first step naturally is higher and on this side, the medical experts say, the woman naturally will "become higher" and proportionately lop-sided.

Dangling from a strap has a similar effect. The side on which the person is reaching, naturally is elevated while there is a tendency to allow the other side to lag so that the weight of the body is not borne by the backbone, but by one side of the pelvis. Result the same—a lop-sided woman.

SCIENTISTS IN EARNEST

Scientists are in earnest in their warning and foresee a race of women larger on one side than another in 20 or 30 years.

More than likely these women of the future will be larger on the right side while their left will be diminutive and you may look forward to babies being born in a similar condition. What effect it will have on men is not predicted, but it is expected there will be none as the pelvic bones of the female are more mobile and soft than those of the male. As his pelvis is more firm it can be seen that the street car lop-sidedness will not effect him.

The actual effect of this new malady is proportionate to the way persons board street cars. There is, of course, the rather robust old lady who grasps both rails with her hands, with an effort raises one foot, brings up the second and then remains on the first step a few minutes before repeating the laborious process. As she is old and her bones more or less well knit and very immobile, the effect upon her will hardly be noticeable.

But then there is the pretty girl with the rounded ankle and "fatted calf" who gets all of the effect of the street car step to the delight of the male rubberneck in back of her. When she takes the first step she leans forward so that quite a space of silk hose is shown. She does the same in taking the second step. In both processes she almost throws her hips out of joint and it is plainly evident that she is larger on one side than on the other. She is the one marked by the scientists as the best subject for the future lop-sided woman. If her twice daily stunt of ascending the high steps of street cars were not enough to cause the gradual transformation the way she hangs from a strap would quickly accomplish the result.

With her right hand she grasps the strap bringing the right hip up and then slouching so that all the weight is thrown on the left hip. For perhaps half an hour she remains in this position. The result is her backbone is weakened because it is not used in its proper capacity, the right hip is gradually becoming higher than the left and many of the organs are displaced and affected, those on the left being cramped while those on the right are given more space than they require.

GIRL RETAINS POSE.

This girl, if you were to follow her, remains in a lop-sided position most of the day, thus increasing her probability of becoming so. More than likely she is a salesgirl. If so you will find her in an unnatural position all day. She is either standing stooped forward with her weight resting on the muscles of the abdomen rather than on her backbone, or with one hip elevated above the other, thus throwing the weight on the lower hip. If she goes to a party or a dance you will find her during the resting period in the same unnatural position, with the result she is practically always lop-sided.

Then of course there is the athletic girl who swings onto the car while it is still moving and with brisk action mounts the two steps in a jiffy. The effect on her is little. She is used to allowing the weight of the upper portion of her body to rest squarely upon her spine, to stand erect even while strap-hanging. She more than likely never will become one of the future lop-sided sisterhood.

A woman who is rather slender is more liable to the effect of the high step on the street car than one robust. In the first place her bones are smaller and more mobile. In the second she usually is more or less careless about her step while the other woman is more careful and deliberate in making the two-step ascent.

Not only are high stepping and strap hanging to have such results but various other occupations and pleasures as well. The housewife as a rule is subject to a tendency to become lop-sided. A woman carrying a baby also. The latter tries to throw the weight upon one high hip so as to relieve the pressure on the spine. The result is she becomes lop-sided and it is not unusual to see a mother who has raised a number of children already in that condition of lop-sidedness that scientists now are uttering a warning about. While standing at the sink washing dishes or while preparing a meal the housewife finds herself falling unconsciously into that peculiar slouch. Washing and lifting heavy weights adds to the effect upon her hips.

THE HIGH CAR STEP—CAUSE OF LOPSIDEDNESS

Girls who play tennis frequently are said to be developing the same tendency on the side on which the racket is carried. In serving and in returning high balls the body necessarily is distorted so that the muscles on one side are always in play while those on the other are comparatively at rest—that is the muscles in the upper part of the body.

EFFECT OF TENNIS.

So there is real danger of women becoming lop-sided. The effect will be noticeable in a generation or two. The effect on the body itself will be but little other than organs on the smaller side may become abnormally small while those on the other become proportionately larger.

The effect may be prevented by taking proper exercise. In the first place a woman always should remain upright. The body is so constructed that the weight of the head, shoulders and upper part of the body is equally distributed to every part of the body. The weight first falls upon the backbone but later is distributed to the pelvis and then to the bones of the leg. If the person remains upright, shoulders erect, there will be no tendency to shift the burden of this weight upon any particular set of bones, but rather to allow the entire system to bear the weight.

The military walk now in vogue is doing much to establish this rule and causing women to walk properly erect.

Its predecessor, the debutante slouch, was just the thing to cause women to become one sided. It threw the weight of the body forward, and if it were indulged in to any great extent would have caused the person walking that way to become a rather freakish looking figure in a very few years. It was founded on that tendency to throw the weight of the upper part of the body on one set of bones instead of upon the entire system.

Fortunately with the advent of the war there came the new military walk that is doing much to restore women to proper erectness.

Then there is exercise to aid in straightening out the figure. The muscles of the back need daily exercise to keep the spinal column erect. By bending over and touching the floor and then straightening up again and doing this a number of times each evening or morning, the back will be straightened and strengthened so that there will be no tendency to allow it to shift its burden at the expense of some other set of bones.

The mechanical exercises, such as the elastic ropes with handles, attached to the wall, also has the desired effect. Women also may attain proper exercise by lying flat on the back on the floor and slowly raising the legs to an angle of 80 degrees. This is a rather hard exercise, but it has a wonderful effect on strengthening the back and really it is a weak back that is the whole cause of the difficulty.

Women of sedentary occupation also should follow this exercise. A girl who sits at a typewriter all day naturally allows herself to become bent or stooped from constantly bending over the machine. She remains all day without any support of her backbone and naturally her back becomes weak. If she will take the above exercises the back will be strengthened and there will be no tendency to become either stooped or lop-sided.

PROPER EXERCISES.

Mothers and housewives who have a tendency to become stooped also should take such exercises, and especially those women who have to carry their baby about in their arms and become stooped from doing it.

But beside these cares of the lop-sided evil, there is a growing tendency in many cities to do away with the high step as well as strap-hanging. The new trailers being employed in numerous cities have a very low step and they cause no tendency to swing the body weight to one side. The cars with folding steps are a bit shorter than those of old-fashioned cars, but they do not obviate the necessity of high-stepping. In a number of cities the height of the step has become a matter of litigation and the cities have decided to lower the car steps.

Strap-hanging, too, is a matter that has been taken up with more or less force by the Public Service Commissions of various states. Efforts are being made to do away with the straps by running enough cars at all hours to give each passenger a seat.

The railways, however, argue that during the rush hours of the morning and evening it is impossible to find a seat for everyone and therefore some will have to hang by the straps. This is caused by a great effusion of persons from office buildings and the desire of all to board the first car.

So while the tendency to lop-sidedness cannot wholly be eliminated because some must cling to straps and because the steps of cars are high, they can prevent this becoming a lop-sided race of women by taking the step in a proper manner and by taking plenty of exercise—especially that to strengthen the muscles of the back.

He Felt Small.

Dr. Oliver W. Holmes was small in stature. Upon one occasion he was present at a meeting which happened to be attended by a number of very large men, thus making his diminutive size rather conspicuous. One of these men—doubtless wishing to make him feel at ease—came up to him and said:

"Well, Dr. Holmes, I should think you would feel rather small among all these fellows."

"I do," replied the doctor. "I feel like a 3-cent piece among a lot of pennies."

Beautiful Women Spies

More Dangerous, Harder to Capture and They Die Just as Bravely as Men

Some of the most thrilling chapters in the history of the world's wars are those in which women have played a conspicuous part. The stories of their escapades in the role of spies in many cases baffle the ingenious imaginations of such authors as Jules Verne and H. G. Wells, and are far too intricate and complex for the art of the cinematograph actor.

Women of a certain type of mind and character lend themselves admirably to the precarious and highly dangerous profession, and their services have been retained by many of the continental powers. In peace, as well as in war, they carry on their work, and are far more dangerous and far less subject to capture than their male colleagues.

When caught women spies go to their death quite bravely. This has been true in all wars, and the present titanic struggle in Europe is no exception. A dispatch sent to London from the north of France illustrates this fact. Said the dispatch: "The shooting of spies in this and other towns of the district takes place daily, and nearly as many women have been shot as men. The most seasoned veteran loathes the task of shooting women, but according to the laws it must be done."

"They are lined up with the men, often mere girls or women of refinement at the zenith of their charm and beauty, who, according to their lights, give their lives for their country and meet death as bravely as any man."

BRITISH DEPORT 'BEAUTY SPECIALIST.'

One of these female spies was only 17 years old. In her possession were the plans of all the roads and bridges around Paris.

Mme. Bertha Trost, declared by British officials to be the most dangerous spy in the world, has just been deported from England as a German spy. For thirty years, according to the Scotland Yard officials who have been investigating her career, she has lived in England in expensive apartments that were far beyond her visible income.

During most of that period she operated an exclusive little beauty parlor that served rather to place her in touch with titled English women than increase her revenue. As months went on influential women fell deeper and deeper into her debt. Although Mme. Trost never demanded payment she revealed an insatiable curiosity—a curiosity that dealt largely with affairs of state. The women who had revealed their physical ailments to Mme. Trost feared to refuse and—Well, Mme. Trost is charged with obtaining any information she desired.

Emboldened by her continued success, she recently began to make the acquaintance of wounded British officers. Then she endeavored to gain access to the camp where German prisoners of war are held. The Scotland Yard officials interfered then, with the result that Mme. Trost—now known to be of German birth and possessing a husband in Germany—was deported.

Long before the war, say the English, Germany employed hundreds of feminine spies—beautiful society women, in many cases. These women have played important parts in the present campaign.

ONE SYSTEM DETAILED.

Here is a typical case as cited in London: By accident a woman handed a sentry the very note that she was to have given to the Germans, in mistake for the permit that she had to show in order to cross the bridge between Varangville and St. Nicholas. She was charged before a court of war and later executed.

Another woman "dropped a letter, which read: "Hurry up; the Twentieth Corps arrives this evening." She dropped it at the gates of Nancy, and was straightway arrested. During the battle of the Aisne a woman was one night discovered signaling from a window to the Germans by means of an electric torch.

Perhaps the most daring espionage exploit by a woman at the front was that of a pretty Italian in the pay of Germany. Until her arrest in November she traveled about in a motor car and managed to give the enemy much valuable information about the French troops. She had somehow provided herself with faked passports bearing the forged signature of Sir John French and General Joffre.

S. Emma E. Edmonds, One of the Most Famous Woman Spies of History, Served the Union Forces During the Civil War. Here, She is Shown Disguised as a Negro and Studying the Fortifications of the Confederate Army.

Attached to the garrison at Posen was a young officer named Schorveder, who was very poor. He was deeply in love with a girl named Ida Mullerthal, but, owing to his poverty, the prospect of their getting married was very remote. The lovers' trouble was known to a Russian secret agent, who approached the lieutenant and offered him $25,000 for a plan of the fortress of Posen. Dazzled by this offer, the lieutenant agreed, but he found it difficult to carry out his task. His sweetheart then suggested a cunning way out of the difficulty.

"You shall tattoo a plan of the fortress on my back," she said. "I shall easily be able to travel to Russia with it without being discovered."

They carried out their fantastic idea successfully, but the silly extravagance in which the newly wedded couple indulged after the girl returned to Posen aroused suspicion, and they were both arrested.

"You were trapped by a woman who is the agent of a foreign power, and so I am going to show leniency toward you; but it cannot be much, the crime is too great."

These words were spoken by Justice Darling some time ago before sentencing George Herbert Parrott, formerly a gunner in the navy, to four years' penal servitude for divulging British naval secrets to a German woman spy. The man met this beautiful woman at a London music hall and soon became passionately in love with her. He was so completely in her power that he complied with her demand for information.

During our civil war S. Emma E. Edmonds was on the field and participated in numerous battles—among them the first and second Bull Run, Williamsburg, Fair Oaks, the Seven Days in front of Richmond, Antietam and Fredericksburg—serving in the capacity of spy and field nurse for more than two years. While in the secret service as a spy she penetrated the lines of the confederate army no less than eleven times, always with complete success and without detection.

During other recent wars the most notable cases in which women spies figure have been the France-

German war, the Russo-Turkish war, the South African war, and the Russo-Japanese war, while during the hostilities among the Balkan states in 1913 there were one or two cases of espionage in which women played a part.

There is the story on record of a German woman, Fraulein Petsche, who succeeded in giving considerable assistance to the Prussians in their war with France. Attired as a simple and innocent French peasant woman, she managed to elude the French sentries and enter the camp. No one suspected she was a spy, and, being a woman of rather attractive looks and able to converse fluently in French, she succeeded in captivating the heart of several soldiers. While in the camp she gave considerable assistance to the men, and even helped to minister to the sick and wounded. When the fighting relaxed a little she made violent love to a young captain. This was all for a purpose.

QUICK WIT OF A WOMAN.

The captain was commanded to undertake dispatch duty, and was sent by MacMahon with letters to Bazaine, with whose forces MacMahon was endeavoring to unite. It was natural that the young dispatch rider should desire to bid farewell to his new sweetheart. They left the camp together, the captain leading his horse, and they walked to a considerable distance from the view of the outpost. It was beginning to get dark, and under the cover of the trees the woman took the opportunity of securing the officer's message. Pretending to feel the parting keenly, she commenced to weep, and pulling out a handkerchief, clapped it over the captain's face. He immediately became insensible and fell to the ground. With desperate haste the woman must have forced a phial of poison into his mouth, and rode away with the dispatch toward the German camp. That incident took place near Metz, and the Prussians afterward rapidly advanced and won the battles of Vionville, Mars-la-Tour and Gravelotte, where, at the latter battle, the woman, while preparing for another expedition, was wounded and died an hour later, on August 18, 1870.

The Cub's Story. Not long ago a cub reporter on one of the large dailies was assigned by the city editor to cover a meeting of the board of trustees of a public library. "Bring a story of about 400 words," said the editor.

At a late hour that night, his story not being forthcoming, the youngster was sent for. "How about that story of the board meeting?" asked the editor.

"It isn't finished yet. You told me to make 400 words of it. So far I have managed to get only 300. "What did the board do?" "They met, called the roll, and adjourned until Tuesday evening."

EDDYTORIUL ON OTTUM.

While we was a sitting with our head in our hands a trying to think up somethink to write a eddytorial about it okurrd to us that so far this Fall we aint dasht off enny eddytorial on Ottum and that unless we do so without delay it will be too late for this season being as it wont be long enny more until the blasts of Winter will be a blasting about Bingville and to dash off a eddytorial on Fall in the Winter time would simply be ridiculus in the extreme and subject us to public crittysizm & contumely.

In other words heretofore we have allus made it a rule to write a sentimental & pathetic eddytorial on the subject of Ottum and now sinst the matter has okurrd to us we shant make no exception to the rule in this instants.

Ottum is somethink which happens onct per annum about this time of year and over whitch not even ourself as Editor of the Bugle nor ennybuddy else has enny control. It is at this season of the yr that the foliage in Bingville & vicinity persents a most beautiful & exschrooshiating appearance being deckt out as we mite say in all the cullers of the rainbow and then some.

Some of the leaves of different trees is yaller and some is red and some is purple and some is brown while others is of different hues altogether making a galaxy whitch beggers description and whitch even our eddytorial pen, graffick as it is, cannot do justice to at this time. It is said that pote cannot portray nor painter depict with a paint brush the menny beauties of the leaves whitch Ottum causes.

Be that as it may Ottum allus causes in our chest a melancholly feeling espeshially when the leaves lose their holt upon the trees and fall to the ground where they lay withered & dead to sitch a extent that they become a noosants and haft to be raked up into piles and burnt to git shet of em. After the leaves all falls off the trees persent a naked & nood appearance and will look ridiculus to the casual observer until next Spring when they begin to put out their leafs again.

Ottum allus makes us melancholly personally, but we calculate this partickler Ottum makes us more melancholly than usual being as we are mutch depressed becuz we have jest went over our books and have discuverd to our consternation & disgust that about three fourths of our total number of subscribers owes us anywheres from $5. to $10 each, doggone em ennyhow!

If our deadbeet subscribers would pay their detts like men (or wimmen as the case may be) ort to we wouldnt be plunged into the depths of melancholly this Ottum like we be at present.

POLAND REJOICES UNDER GERMAN RULE

Nation That Has Lived In Turmoil For Five Hundred Years Accepts Kaiser's Offer Of a Free Government—People Say They Feel Closer to the Germans Than they Ever Did Toward Russians.

Will Germany restore freedom to Poland?

This is the big question concerning that country since the Germans captured Warsaw, and it is felt that the victors will concede the liberty and establish a new Polish nation, particularly as the German government promised it was not out for aggrandizement, but to avenge its wrongs.

Poland would act as a great buffer between Russia and Germany in preventing the former country from attacking the Kaiser's troops when they are engaged with other invaders.

At the same time, German military protection in Poland would allow that nation to go back to its agricultural and artistic pursuits for which it is well noted.

So confident were the Polish that they were to be kindly treated by the Germans that they cheered the victors as they entered the great capital at Warsaw and the peasantry marched back to their farms with their cattle with the confidence that as long as the Germans remained victors their work would not be disturbed.

The feeling is that after five centuries of being the bone of contention and the battlefield of nations, Poland at last is to win her freedom and be established as an independent nation with her own absolute government.

The Imperial German government at the beginning of the war promised that it was not seeking additional territory and that in the event it captured Warsaw, the capital of Poland, that nation would be restored to its own independence after 500 years of warfare in which it was subjected to the main losses.

When the Germans marched as victors into the city they were hailed as liberators for it was felt certain that they will keep their promises and there is no indication that this will not be the case. When the defeated Russians fled they left the Polish people in charge of the capital and the latter turned the great city of contention over to the Germans with the greatest of confidence.

It was understood that the Germans were not a barbarous people and that when they took a city they were very considerate of the residents. So when the victorious troops entered, the farmers, who long had remained within the fortresses, drove their stock back to their farms and in this were not hindered. They went back to their agricultural pursuits with great resolve and the German indifference or rather sanction of their movement gave them sufficient encouragement to recontinue their farming.

POPULACE REASSURED.

With this same air of ease pervading the captured city of Warsaw, the city streets were continued operations and banks and stores were opened with as much confidence as if an alien foe were not in their confines. All of which indicates that Germany is anxious to restore Poland to her rights as an independent nation. Berlin declares that it has never sought to keep Poland from her privileges and now she surely is to finally obtain them.

Warsaw is the third city in point of size in besieging Russia. It is situated on the banks of the Vistula river. For five centuries this ancient capital of Poland has been the battleground of kings and from each successive ruler she has suffered more and more abuse.

Before it has been under the rule of the Brandenburgers, the Austrians and the Russians, at one time being in the possession of the Swedes. Yet it always was felt that if Germany should ever capture the territory it would lend aid in establishing the land under its own government and exercising over it only those rights that would secure the best interests and proper protection of the new monarchy or republic as the possible new country may be.

It appears to the interests of the Germans to establish a new and powerful nation in Poland, free by the power of the great forces of the Kaiser from invasion, and yet a friendly nation willing to ward off from the German empire the attacks possible coming from Petrograd at a time when Germany is attacked from other sides.

At the outbreak of the present war the German government promised Poland should be free if she were to stay off the Russian attack. The feeling is that Germany, single-minded, can drive the Russians back without great effort, but the real difficulty is in being attacked by great hordes of men at a time when other nations are pressing the great Imperial German government. The Poles are more closely allied in character and habits, language and customs with the Germans than they are with the Russians. The Poles are more or less of German nature and they will find a handy ally and a great physical and financial inspiration in their possession of the new ally Germany.

GRAND DUKE MICHAEL AND HIS WIFE, COUNTESS SOPHIA OF TORBY

GERMANS IN TYPICAL POLISH COUNTRY

IN ACTS AND SCIENCE.

This restored nation (if it is restored) may give more confidence to its new ally than it could to Russia. The latter's government was one of oppression with all rights limited even when the Polish people were doing their best to aid their ally. With Germany Poland feels that all of its religious and other rights will be restored and that arts and sciences will be encouraged, for Germany's trend in this direction is well known.

Poland, essentially is a land of learning with its greatest interests centered in the advancement of the sciences. Whatever may be said of the Germans it is known that even in a captive city they never fail to encourage the greatest steps forward in this regard. Germany has great scientists and artists, surgeons and diagnosticians and so has Poland and the two factors, it is believed, will cause a happy combination that will redound to the gain of Poland and to the material protection of Poland.

The latter country, if it is allowed to enter such an alliance, cannot but feel its own safety. While the Russians dealt out only abuse and curtailment of privileges to the Polish people, Germany can offer her only freedom and advancement. In the arts that these brilliant people love, Germany will offer Poland, so it is said, absolute protection against invasion from the East. Poland will agree to being properly protected by German forces it will be given the freedom that it so desires

KING OF BAVARIA FIRST TO ENTER WARSAW

—and Poland could desire nothing more than this after five centuries of being the great battleground of nations—to practice its own industrial pursuits under protection of any friendly country.

Russia never has shown this friendliness to Poland, nor when war was declared has it shown, as has been the case in recent invasions, that Poland was to be anything but a sort of buffer to resist the foe until the Russians could advance.

A BEAUTIFUL CAPITAL.

Warsaw is one of the most beautiful cities of Europe. Its progress has been retarded by Russian oppression, but the Polish spirit never has been crushed. Hope of national unity has arisen in the hearts of the Poles as the result of the promise of the czar of autonomy given at the outbreak of the European war.

In Warsaw the finest educational institutions of Russia are situated. At one time it was the center of medical learning. Even under Russian oppression the city has made its name in the world of medicine, science and art. Warsaw is the home of Faderewski, the greatest pianist of the world. Madame Curie, co-discoverer of radium, with her French husband, is a Pole, and she has made many of her wonderful scientific experiments in Warsaw laboratories.

The city once had the finest library in the world, but the Russians plundered it and took it to Petrograd, at the close of one of the insurrections against Russian authority. Since then the library has been partly replaced.

Warsaw is the great railroad center of Poland and, also before the war, was the great center of commerce between Russia and Austria and Germany. Railroads radiate out from Poland to Petrograd, Vienna and Dantzic. The Poles are more highly educated than other Russians and, in spite of the last century of oppression, are the leaders in industry in the Russian empire.

Located in the center of the fruitful Vistula valley, Warsaw naturally would be expected to become one of the most prosperous cities of Europe. Its natural advantage has been offset by continuous wars and oppressions.

The streets of Warsaw are lined with many beautiful buildings, due to the artistic tendencies of the former rulers. The pride of Warsaw is its theater in the Lazienki gardens, which were laid out in an old bed of the Vistula. It has beautifully shaded alleys, artificial ponds and an elegant palace. The city has many palaces which were built by the old-time rulers and which have been taken over by the Russian government.

A BIT OF HISTORY.

The history of Warsaw is linked with that of Poland from the year 1572 when the capital of Poland was moved from Cracow to Warsaw. The city was founded by Slavic immigrants from Asia early in the Christian era. The first castle was erected there by the Duke of Mazovia as early as the ninth century. In the sixteenth century it was fortified by Casimir the Just and since that time has been an important battling point in contests between the kings of Europe. It was from Warsaw that John Sobieski set out in 1683 to save Europe from the onslaught of the Turks, who had overrun all of Hungary and had besieged Vienna. With 10,000

Poles Sobieski attacked 210,000 Turks, according to historians. The battle resulted in a complete rout of the Turkish army. Thousands of prisoners were taken back to Warsaw and Sobieski compelled them to build a palace for him and to work at beautifying the city. From the time of Sobieski to the present the city has steadily receded in splendor.

While Sobieski was dying the Russians took some of his outlying provinces. Sobieski's successor allowed himself to be drawn in war with Sweden, and Charles XII, king of Sweden, captured Warsaw and other large cities of Poland and held them for one year. Late in that same century Russia, Prussia and Austria, forgetting the services of Sobieski, conspired to divide the land. Attacked from three sides at once Poland lost her outer provinces, Russia taking the eastern provinces, Prussia taking what is now called East Prussia and Austria taking Galicia.

FROM NAPOLEON'S TIME.

Warsaw and the surrounding territory was left free. It was at this time that Kosciuszko and Pulaski made a desperate effort to regain the lost provinces. Failing in this they fled to America and joined George Washington in his fight for American liberty in the revolutionary war. At the conclusion of the American war for independence Kosciuszko returned to Poland and again fought for his country.

Great honor was held out for Polish liberty when Napoleon's armies swept over Europe. Hundreds of Poles enlisted in Napoleon's army, but aside from occupying the city for a time Napoleon did little for the country.

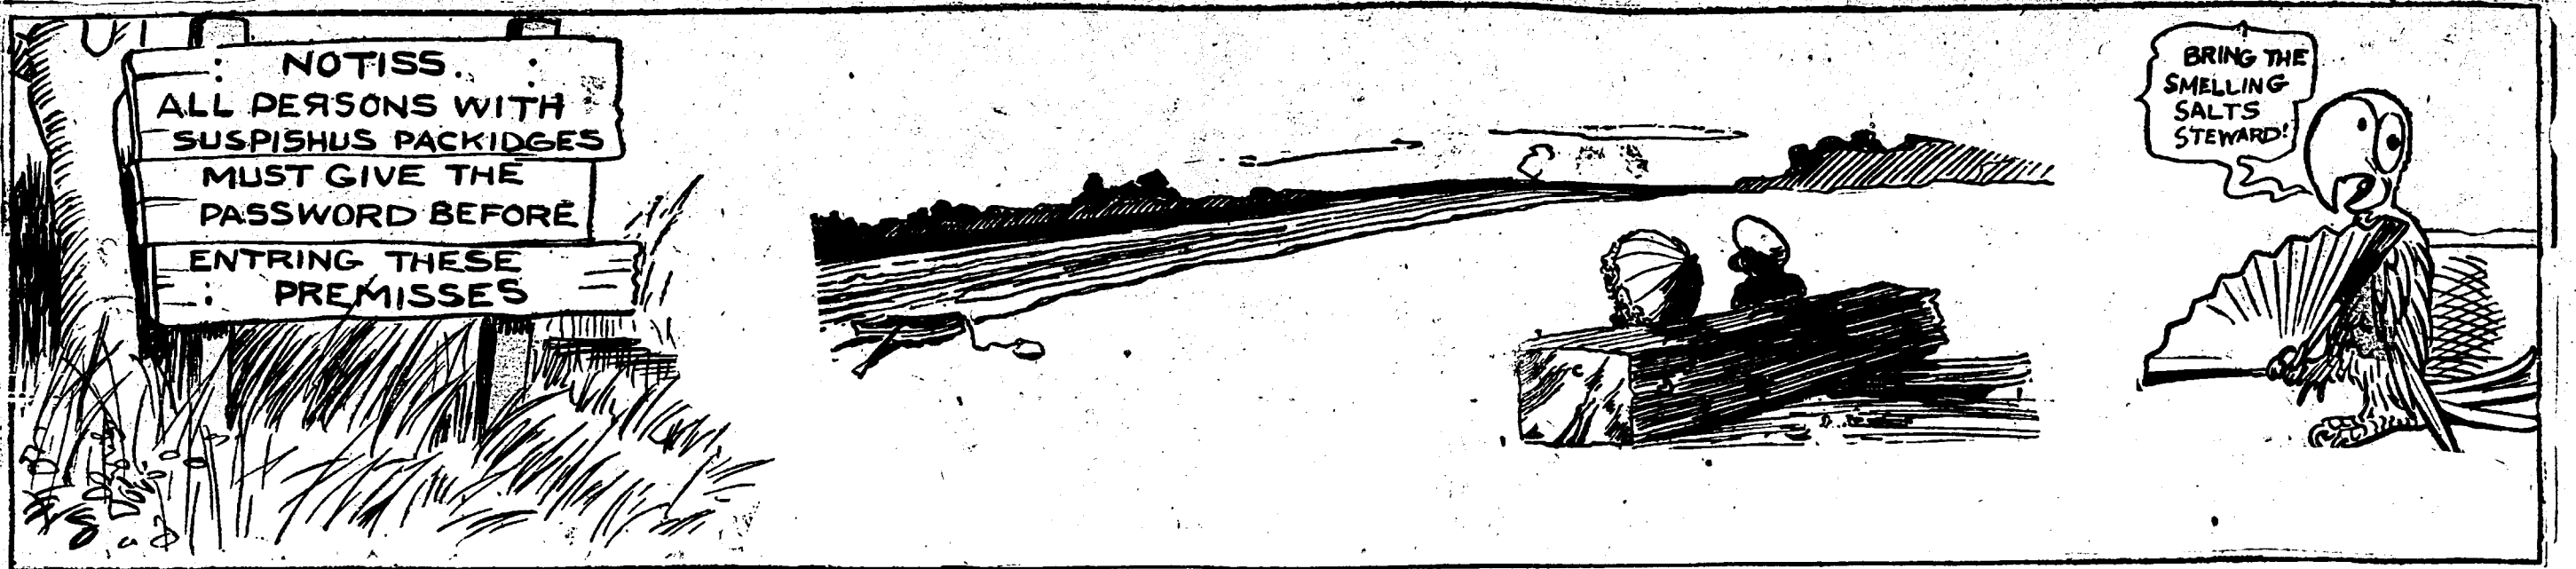

After Napoleon's defeat at Moscow the Russians occupied what remained of free Poland, including Warsaw. At the congress of Vienna in 1814 the final partition of Poland was agreed upon. The present boundaries of Prussia, Russia and Austria were fixed except that Cracow was left a free city. Austria annexed Cracow in 1846 without the consent of Napoleon.

After the final partition of Poland the Prussians Germanized the residents in their domains, compelling all the children to learn German.

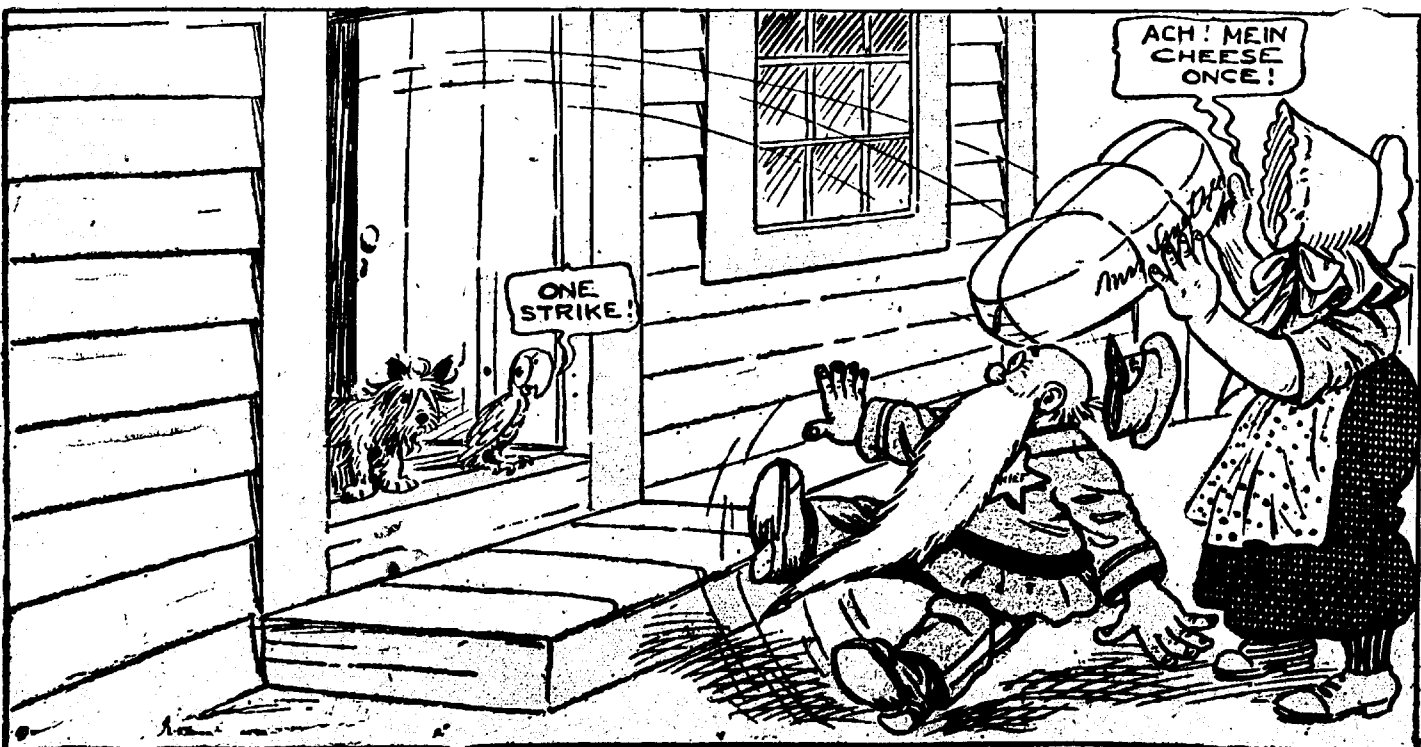

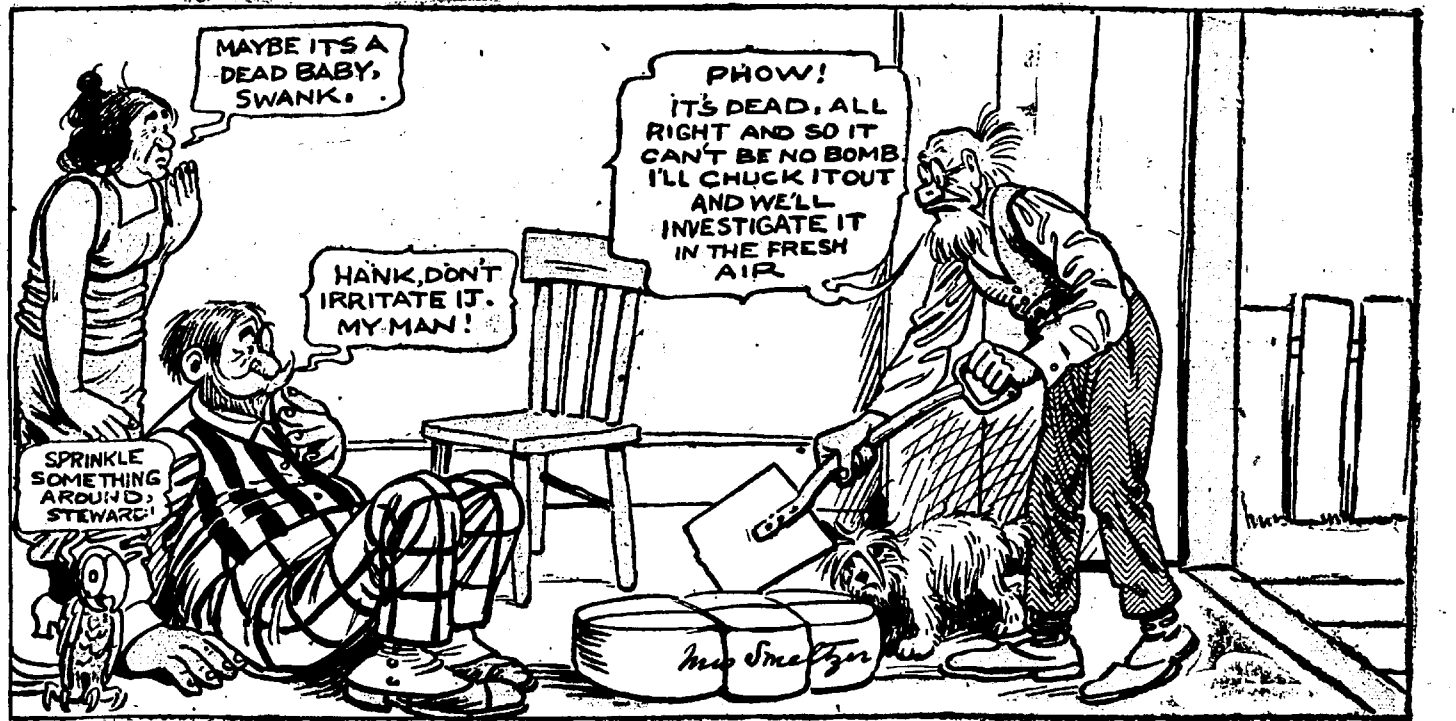

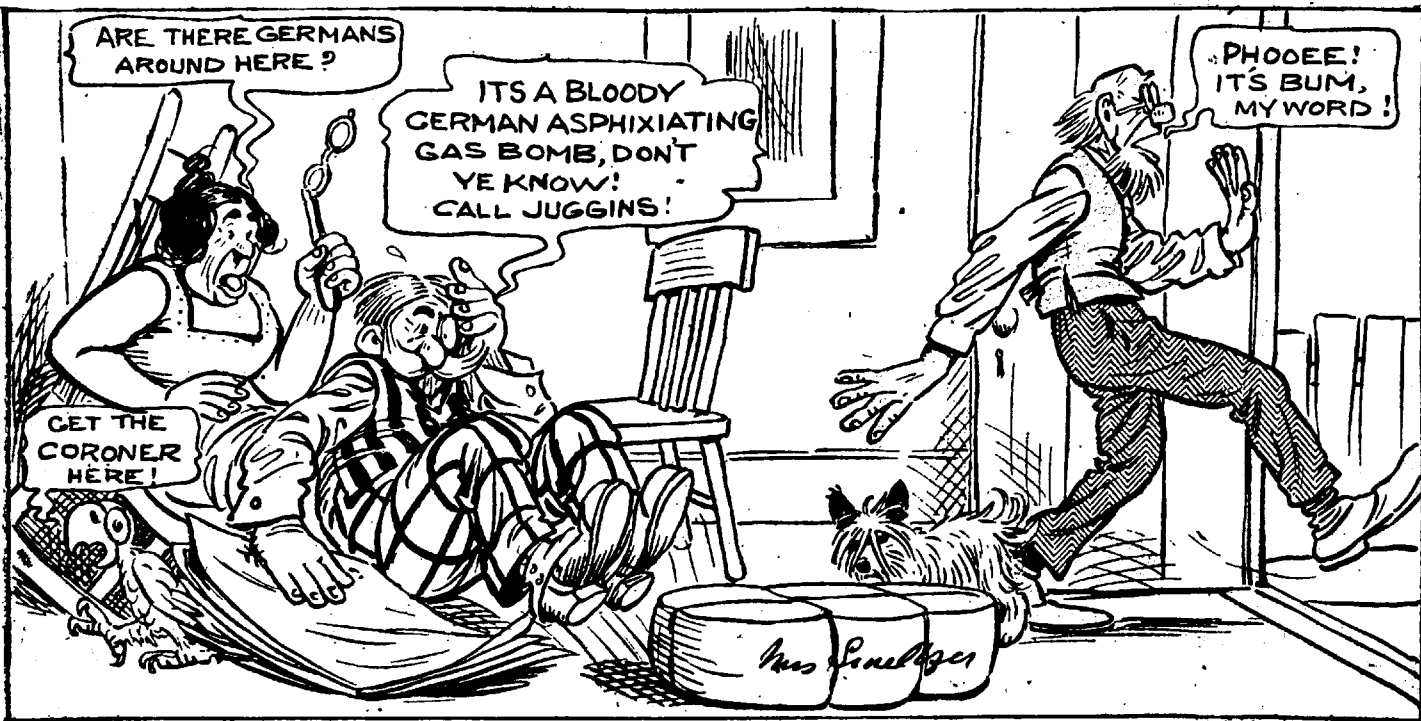

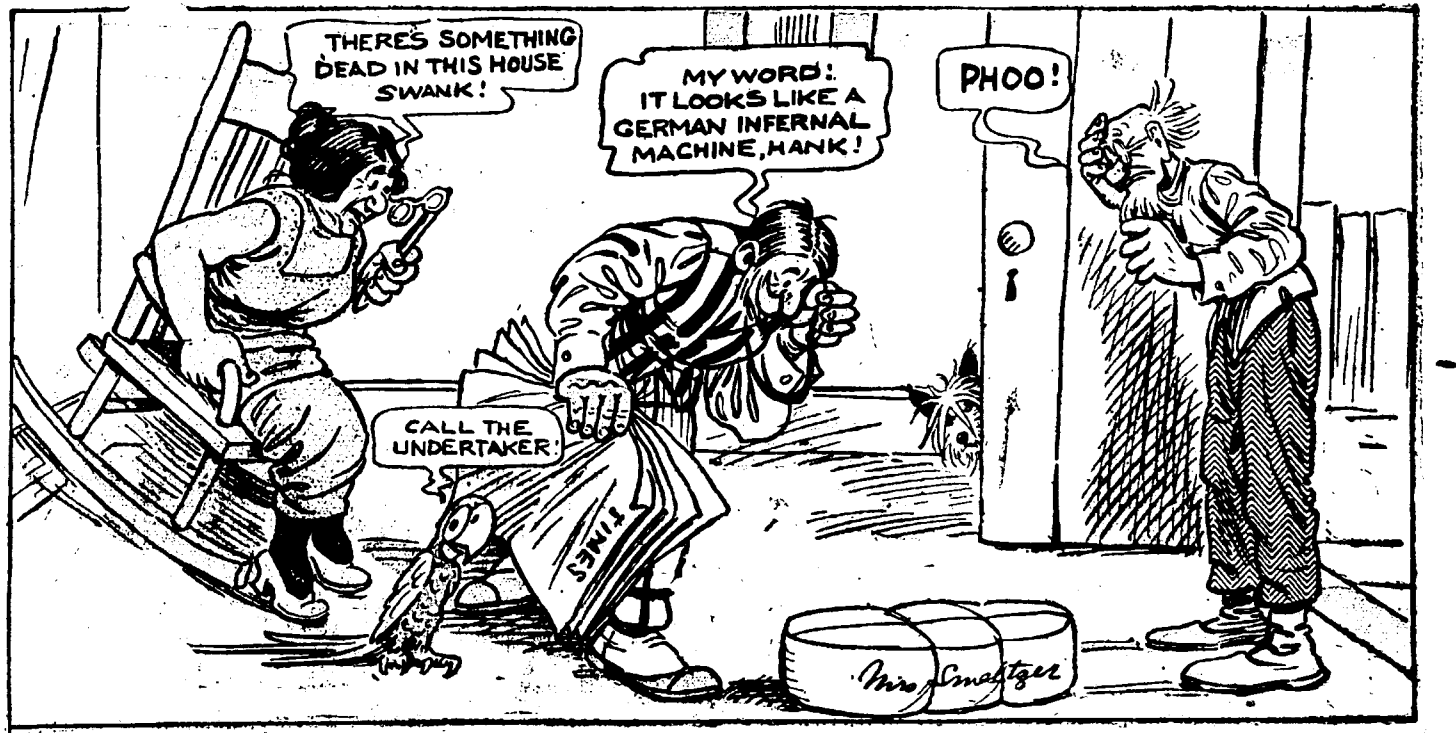

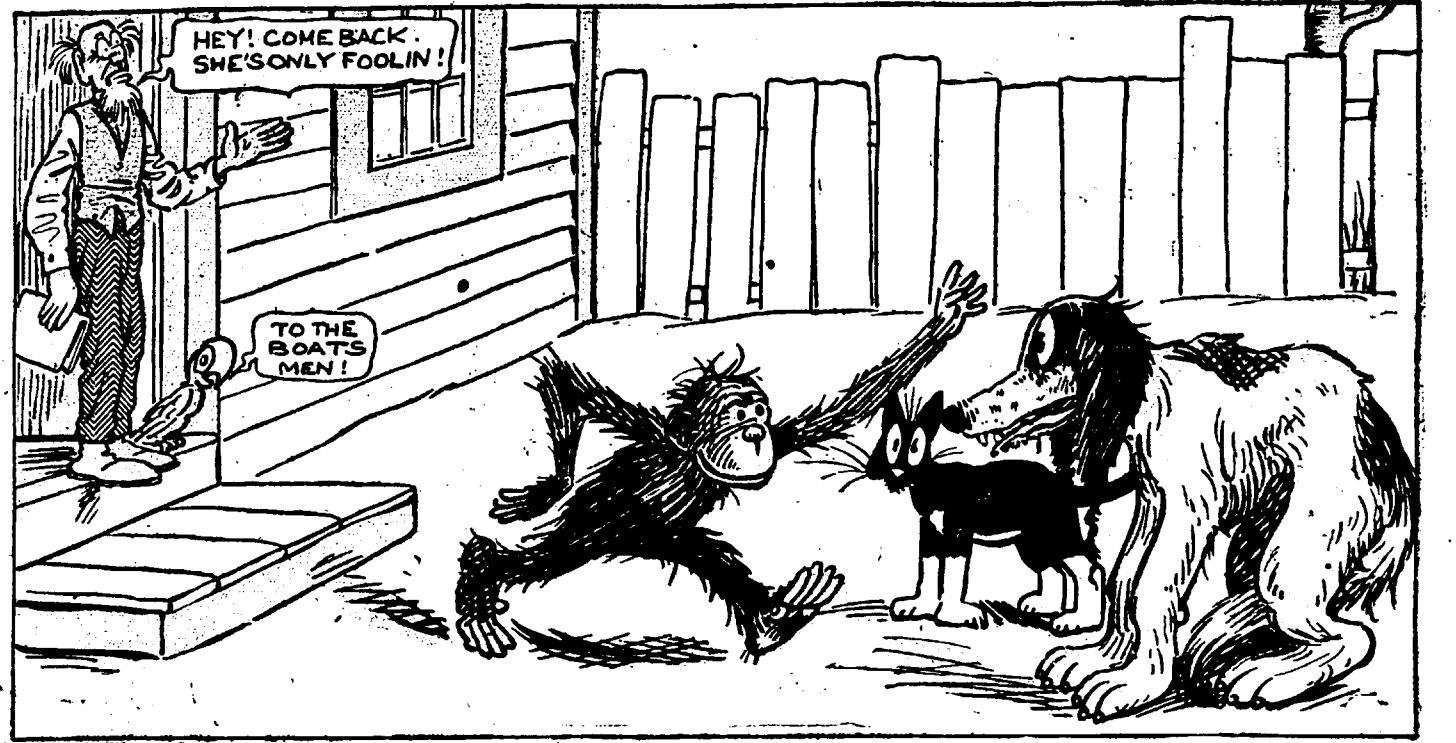

Austria and Russia have never succeeded in killing the Polish spirit in their domains. Warsaw has been the scene of many bloody insurrections. These outbreaks centered in the famous Warsaw universities, where the students became uncontrollable when studying about the past of Poland.

These insurrections have been put down with steel. The result has been deportation of citizens, curtailment of liberty and the quartering of large bodies of troops in the city. So down-trodden Poland again dreams of her Kosciuszko and her Sobieski and longs for the future era when she can look up with her former pride and call herself one of the bravest nations. Not that she has ever accepted entire defeat and hidden her disgrace by becoming servile but that she all along hoped that some victor would unshackle her and given her the freedom for which the heart of the nation craves and which no nation in Europe in physical and scientific advancement can more properly enjoy.

If the European war with all its tragedies but accomplishes the freedom of Poland, a great object that will never be forgotten in the future history of advancement will have been accomplished.

BERLIN WILL SEEK TO JUSTIFY ORDUNA CASE

New Note Delivered to Gerard Likely to Increase Already High Tension Between U. S. and Germany.

AWAITED IN WASHINGTON WITH MUCH ANXIETY

Washington, Sept. 11.—The note addressed to Ambassador Gerard by the German foreign office yesterday which was believed to be a supplemental communication on the sinking of the Arabic now is understood to be a note on the unsuccessful attempt to torpedo the Cunarder Orduna several weeks ago.

What effect an attempt to justify the Orduna case would have on the situation already delicate by Germany's stand on the Arabic was the subject of wide speculation today among officials who regarded the atmosphere as far from favorable. The note is being awaited with much anxiety.

The note had not been received in Washington early today and the state department had no information of its whereabouts. In circles close to the German embassy, however, it was said the note contained the Orduna and that when its contents were known it probably would be found that the German government claimed some sort of justification for the attack on the liner.

The Orduna Case.

The Orduna was chased and shelled by a submarine after a torpedo had missed her stern by a few yards on July 9. She was on a trip to the United States and carried as passengers twenty-two Americans. Ambassador Gerard made some inquiries by direction of Washington and the German note now on its way is understood to be the result.

HEAVY GUNS AGAIN ROAR

Artillery Combat at the French Front Renewed Once More.

ALLIES BEAT OFF REPEATED ATTACKS

Claim to Have Balked Effort of Crown Prince to Break Lines.

Today's War News Given in Summary.

There has been a renewal of the heavy artillery combat on the front in France. No infantry engagements are reported.

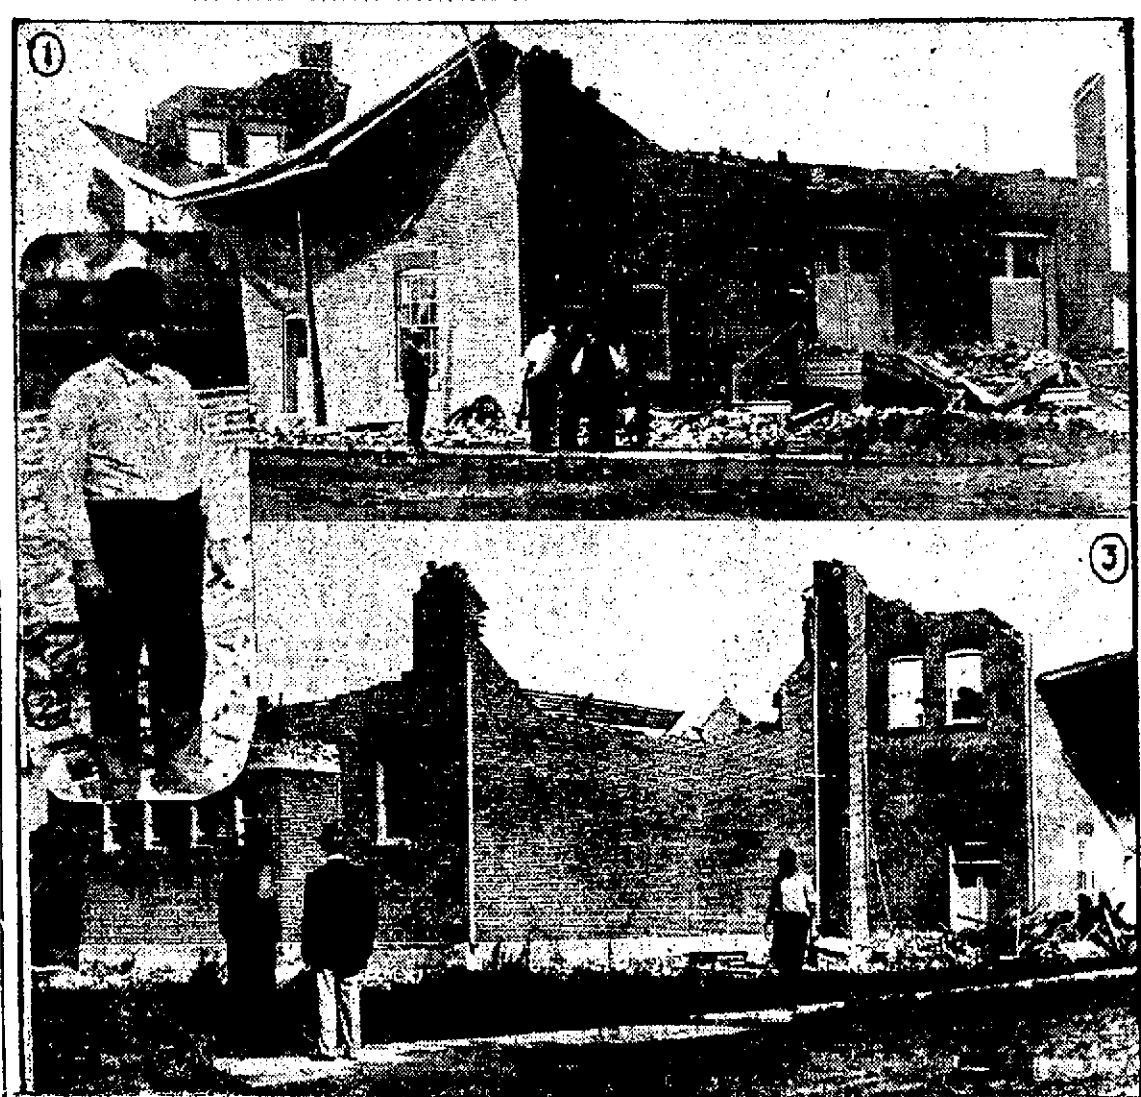

Recent attacks by the army of the German crown prince in the Argonne were made with powerful artillery and heavy infantry forces in an effort to break through the French lines, Paris advices state. Although some trenches were taken the attempt to break through failed, repeated attacks being beaten off with heavy losses to the Germans, it is declared, leaving the situation in the Argonne essentially unchanged.

According to the Constantinople war office the Turkish left wing on the Gallipoli peninsula is gradually advancing, taking trenches which the forces of the entente allies have occupied.

The Russians have won another success on the Galician front, Petrograd reports, but the Germans are pressing strongly on the lines to the north and making headway toward the strategic railway systems centering on Vilna and Brest-Litovsk.

The French freighter Ville de Mostaganem has been sunk in the Mediterranean by gunfire from a German submarine. Three men were wounded. They with thirteen other members of the crew were picked up.

FORT WAYNE BOY TO JOIN ENGLISH ARMY

Hugh Elliott Enters Service as a Canadian Aviator.

Hugh Elliott, until a few days ago a soda dispenser at Meyer Brothers' drugstore, at Calhoun and Wayne streets, has joined the Canadian aviation corps for service in the conflict now being waged in Europe. Word to that effect was received by Fort Wayne friends Saturday.

Elliott resigned his position at the Meyer Brothers' drugstore a few days ago with the intention of entering the Canadian aviation corps, and for months they have been prevailing upon him to join them. By chance he met his brother in Chicago and he consented to join. Elliott will have to spend eight months in preparation before he will be permitted to leave for the scene of the conflict. His home is in Ontario, Canada, and during his residence in Fort Wayne he lived at with G. M. Smith, on Washington boulevard, west.

Admitting that a survey of the entire case might justify a mitigation of the sentence imposed, the governor declared, "so long as, in behalf of these men, the threats of injury and sabotage continue, so long as the punishment exists in their behalf in California, so long as incense is attempted I will neither listen to appeals for executive clemency in behalf of Ford and Super nor in any fashion consider the shortening of their terms of imprisonment."

LAST MINUTE NEWS

SIR WILLIAM VAN HORNE, RAILWAY BUILDER, DIES.

TROOPS IN FULL CONTROL OF BORDER SITUATION NOW.

Washington, Sept. 11.—The border situation now is under full control of federal troops, Maj. Gen. Funston reported today to the war department. The arrival of the Sixth cavalry brings the force up to two full regiments between El Tigre Arroyo and Brownsville, a force sufficient, according to the general, to put down any uprising or trouble by marauding bands.

RUCKER NOW TRAINS GUNS ON T. TAGGART

Declares Democratic Leader Collected Slush Fund From Breweries Not Accounted for in Report.

Indianapolis, Sept. 11.—Alleged methods by which the so-called machine candidates were nominated in the primary of May 5, 1914, were related by Prosecutor A. J. Rucker, who continued throughout the short session today of the trial of Mayor Joseph E. Bell for election conspiracy his opening statement.

He also told the jury that Thomas Taggart, who was indicted with Mayor Bell and more than 100 others, "collected a slush fund of about $1,000 from breweries which was not accounted for in any of the campaign expense reports as required by law."

Rucker has occupied about seven hours with his statement and it probably will be late Monday before he finishes, as there was no court session this afternoon.

Perrott Also Accused.

The prosecutor also declared that the evidence would show that Samuel V. Perrott, chief of police, and also indicted, "accepted bribes from saloon and brothel keepers, permitting them to ply their nefarious trades in order to get money for the slush fund," and that Mayor Bell "blackmailed many citizens of the county, threatening them with arrest," to add to the fund.

In the primary, Rucker asserted, there was an attempt made to tally the vote in many of the corrupt precincts. "The rotten election officials—hand-picked by the machine—merely gave the entire vote to the machine candidates without even making a pretense of tallying the vote. Now and then they would give the other candidates a few votes, but we will show you, gentlemen of the jury, some cases where anti-machine candidates were not credited with the single vote cast by themselves in their own precinct."

Shortly after Rucker had made his attack on Perrott, the chief of police entered the court for the first time since the trial started and took a seat beside Mayor Bell, with whom he chatted frequently.

Judge Timberlake was ill today, requiring the attention of a physician before court convened. He was able, however, to take his place in the box.

SENIOR CLASS OF C. C. H. S. NAMES OFFICERS

At the first meeting of the year the Senior class of the Central Catholic High school, composed of thirteen members, the largest class to enter the last year of the four term course, officers for the coming year were elected. Joe Brennan was named as president; Charles Harkender, vice president; Paul Foley, secretary; Leo N. Weber, treasurer.

The senior class also elected two members on the athletic committee of the entire school who will have charge of all events. Donald Beck and Frank Flaherty were the two seniors named.

These two members of the committee will begin work at once and have called a meeting of all those interested in football to be held Tuesday evening at Lawton park, where the first try-out practice will be held.

AUSTRIA HAS MADE NO RESPONSE AS YET

Washington, Sept. 11.—Austria had not responded today to President Wilson's request for the call of her ambassador, Dr. Constantin Theodore Dumba.

American officials declined to comment on the situation and likewise had nothing to say to Count Von Bernstorff's declaration that he gave no communication to James J. A. Archibald, the American, who carried Dr. Dumba's documents.

Nothing further was done today in the cases of Captain Franz Von Papen, the German military attaché, and Consul General Nibner, of Austria, both involved in the incident which resulted in the request for Dr. Dumba's recall.

Annual Exhibit of Children's Work is Held at Playgrounds.

WIDE VARIETY IS SEEN IN DISPLAYS

Wonderful Showing Along Many Lines of Youthful Endeavor.

Under the auspices of the Woman's league the school children of Fort Wayne, Saturday afternoon, presented the largest exhibit of their work at the Guildin playgrounds that has ever been shown. This display was opened to the public at 1 o'clock and throughout the remainder of the afternoon the playgrounds were visited by hundreds of people anxious to see the work accomplished by the children of the city. The exhibit included vegetables and flowers, baking, sewing, crocheting, canning, carpentry work, baskets, poultry, rabbits, etc.

As an encouragement to the children the civic committee of the league has offered achievement buttons to all boys and girls who have done satisfactory work in gardening this summer and to those making the best exhibits in other lines. Awards also were offered by the educational committee as follows: For the best account book of the expense and profit of a garden this summer; for the best garden plan with explanation; for the best composition the subject being selected from the following list: "Why I Made a Garden," "How I Made My Garden Day," "Insect Friends," "Insect Enemies," "All for Ten Cents."

The exhibit was really remarkable and a credit to the children who contributed to it.

BANKRUPTCY CASE TO BE HEARD BY JURY

For the first time in the history of the federal court in Fort Wayne a bankruptcy case will be heard by jury at the next term of court which convenes in December.

Some time ago a petition was filed in the federal court by the First National bank of this city, asking that Julius Haugk, of Decatur, be declared a bankrupt. Soon after an answer was filed by Haugk, setting forth that he could pay all his indebtedness including the claim of the First National bank and still have left $25,000. He alleges, however, that he does not owe the First National bank. In his petition he asks that the case be heard by a jury of twelve men.

ONE FUGITIVE WAS SENT UP FROM HERE

Edward Kelly, one of the five men sentenced to two to five years in Michigan City prison for escaping from the state penal farm at Putnamville, was sent up from Fort Wayne, June 28, for petit larceny. On Sunday, June 27, Kelly snatched a silver mesh-bag containing $2.75 from a baby carriage on East Wayne street. It belonged to Mrs. Harry Kamlsarow, 748 East Wayne street. Kelly fled pursued by a crowd and was found by Detective Sergeant Walter Immel hiding under the porch at the residence of F. W. Gallmeyer, 1118 Maumee avenue. Next day he pleaded guilty in the city court and was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to ninety days at the penal farm. He had only a little over a month to serve when he escaped.

MURDERED MEN ARE BURIED IN WEST

Word has been received by John J. Snider, son of Moritz Snider who together with Edward Pfeiffer, were murdered at the Pfeiffer cabin, near Gold Bar, Wash., last Saturday night, that the bodies of the two men will not be brought to Fort Wayne for burial. Funeral services were held for the two victims at the St. Anne's Catholic church at Seattle, Saturday morning. The bodies were in such condition that it was not thought best to attempt to bring them to this city. Details concerning the murder are still lacking. However, a letter is expected from John N. Pfeiffer, 329 Columbia avenue, brother and brother-in-law to the murdered men, who is now in Seattle, giving full information within the next day or two.

FUNERAL UNDER TALMUDIC RITES

St. Louis, Sept. 11.—For the first time in the history of St. Louis a funeral will be held here tomorrow in strict accordance to the most minute requirements of the Talmud, the most ancient book of Jewish laws. It will be the funeral of Rabbi Zacharia Rosenfeld, noted for his knowledge of and adherence to Talmudic law and Hebrew law, who died here yesterday. Details of the funeral rites were written by the rabbi who for three years had watched over the body of the deceased, according to physicians almost solely by his extraordinary will power. The body will be buried in a coffin which will contain no metallic substance, even the nails being of wood. Barfentose men will carry the coffin on their shoulders to each of the four congregations over which Rabbi Rosenfeld ruled.

NEVER ATTEMPTED TO USE ARCHIBALD

German Ambassador Says He Made No Effort to Have Secret Messages Carried by American.

New York, Sept. 11.—Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, emphatically denied that he had used or attempted to use James F. J. Archibald, the American messenger of Dr. Constantin T. Dumba, Austrian ambassador, as a message bearer to Berlin.

"In view of the repeated assertions by several newspapers that I sent messages to my government by Mr. Archibald," said Count von Bernstorff, "I wish to state that I never gave Mr. Archibald a single paper or anything else. I thought I made this plain in Washington, but feel a repetition is now needed. I did not attempt to use Mr. Archibald as a messenger chiefly because I did not think it safe, and he certainly did not prove safe."

Dr. Constantin T. Dumba, Austro-Hungarian ambassador, whose recall has been requested by President Wilson, left here today for his summer home at Lenox, Mass.

Dr. Dumba was accompanied by his secretary, Prince Zu Hohenlohe, who waived aside newspaper men when they attempted to interview the ambassador. Dr. Dumba spent several hours with Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, last night. At the conclusion of this meeting both diplomats declined to say anything regarding President Wilson's action.

Earlier today, however, Count von Bernstorff issued a statement denying that he had been connected in any way with the messages carried by James F. J. Archibald, Dr. Dumba's messenger.

MERE MESSENGER BOY.

Archibald Proclaims Innocence of Intentional Wrong.

Falmouth, England, Sept. 11.—James F. J. Archibald, the American newspaper correspondent who was carrying the

Dumba letter to Vienna when intercepted in England, has issued the following defense of his position:

"The letter from Ambassador Dumba to the Austrian minister of foreign affairs was given to me at the foot of the gangplank at the moment of sailing by Dr. Dumba's secretary, who asked me to deliver it. I thought it merely was some suggestion to Minister Barian as to granting me privileges at the front."

"There was absolutely no secrecy or suggestion of the letter's importance. I had absolutely no idea whatever of its contents. Nor did I know what the real trouble was until I read it here in the papers."

"I don't think Dumba thought of the serious position it would put me in. He had already given me several letters of introduction. He probably thought merely it was a chance to deliver a note quickly and directly."

"I simply put the letter with all the rest of my papers and with some personal letters accompanying trifling gifts from persons in New York to friends abroad."

"The fact that I did not hide the letter, which would have been perfectly easy, should prove I was unaware of its natural importance."

"I can truthfully say I was absolutely in no way a messenger in any sense—except as nearly every traveler when sailing accepts a note or trifle to be delivered or mailed."

"When I left Berlin last spring I carried letters and packages for Ambassador and Mrs. Gerard and several attaches in exactly the same friendly spirit. I had asked others not to send anything important. But this Dumba letter, coming at the last moment, I did not give it any special thought, as it was handed to me in such a very casual manner."

contended as governing submarine warfare.

There were indications in official quarters today that the United States had received more unflinching intimations that despite the attacks on the Arabic and the Hesperian, the German government actually had finally accepted the principle that unarmed merchantmen should not be attacked without warning unless they attempted to escape or resisted capture. There was no out and out official backing for the assumption, but it appeared to prevail official quarters.

The new note of the United States will probably be delayed until the second note from Germany, now on its way, has been received. It probably will point out for one thing, that the mere assumption of a submarine commander that his ship is about to be attacked, cannot be accepted as justification for torpedoing an unresisting merchantman. Such a stand by the United States is not expected to lead to complications. Officials consider that the future depends on Berlin.

attack occurred Thursday at a point seventy miles northeast of Mesdagum, Effort of Crown Prince Fails.

The violent fighting in the Argonne on Wednesday and Thursday was the result of an effort of the army of the German crown prince to break through the French lines. The attempt was made with powerful artillery and a large number of troops. Apparently it has had no appreciable result. The Germans were able to penetrate the French trenches on a part of the front, but were checked. They renewed their attacks again and again, but with such severe losses that they gave up the effort. This offensive movement, it is said on good authority, has not modified the situation in the Argonne. In making it the Germans have had greater losses, according to the French official figures, than they have inflicted. The army of the crown prince has attempted several times in previous months to break through the French front, but so far has scored no definite success. The statement is made here that this army has lost upwards of 100,000 men, one corps alone losing 40,000 from the tanks, which are being constantly depleted.

CLAIMING NEW VICTORY.

Russians Report German Defeat on South Galician Front.

London, Sept. 11.—Another success on the south Galician front, resulting in the capture of 2,000 men, is announced by the Russians.

Even the Petrograd newspapers, however, admit that this section of the fighting area is not of the most vital importance, since Field Marshal von Mackensen is still hovering along the line of minor forts, which form the last remaining defenses in the way to complete control of the railroad system desired by the invaders.

The Russians declared that the initiative in the isolated engagements on the southern wing is gradually passing in to their hands. Nearer the center of the line von Mackensen is still pushing his way vigorously through the Pripiet marshes toward Pinsk. North and south of his headquarters strong movements have been developed, near Grodno, and on the road to Rovno.

On the other fronts there is not as much action as in the east, so far as the official reports indicate. Sharp fighting is in progress along the Austro-Italian battle line, but no fresh news has been received from the Vosges and the Argonne, where the Germans have launched heavy attacks against French trenches.

The only new feature of the new eastern diplomatic puzzle is the assertion from Bulgarian sources that Sofia feels her past neutrality is a sufficient reward for Turkish concessions.

GERMAN OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

Berlin, Sept. 11.—The following statement on military operations was issued by the German army headquarters:

"Western theater: The trenches on Hartmann-Willerkopf (in Alsace) which we captured on the 9th of September have been retained despite two attacks by the French."

"Eastern theater: Army group of Field Marshal von Hindenburg: During battles southeast of Friedland and east of Vilkomir an additional 1,050 prisoners were taken. Four machine guns were captured. The front between Joziora and Zepora on the Mielnik river the Russians are still offering fierce resistance, our troops were able finally to take Skidel and the village of Niekrasza, to the northwest of Skidel, during the night. We took 2,700 prisoners and two machine guns. Railway junctions between Wilejka, east of Vilna and Lida were liberally bombarded by our airplanes."

"Army group of Prince Leopold of Bavaria: Battles between Wolkow and the Kila-Milowsky high roads continue with their previous ferocity. Austro-Hungarian troops have captured the village of Alba, west of Krasow."

"Army group of Field Marshal von Mackensen: The situation with this army group is generally unchanged. "Southeastern theater: Austro-Hungarian and German troops in the army of Count von Boller, reports fierce counter attacks by the enemy inflicting heavy losses on him. Our troops took more than 300 prisoners."

GRAIN ELEVATOR BURNS.

Edinburgh, Ind., Sept. 11.—The big grain elevator owned by Martin Cushing, of this city, was burned today. The loss is estimated at more than $50,000. The elevator contained 10,000 bushels of wheat. The origin of the fire is unknown. Several Pennsylvania freight cars also were burned.

OVER 100 BOYS AND GIRLS FROM HANNA EXHIBIT AT CHILDREN'S FAIR

The city school children's fair was held Saturday afternoon at the Guldin playground on Van Buren street, and thousands of local youngsters have contributed exhibits of their summer's work. Livestock, flowers and vegetables made up the lists of entries. The Hanna school had a delegation of a hundred exhibitors, the largest in the city, and these kiddies are seen in the top picture. The lower cut shows the exhibits piled up waiting to be taken to the grounds.

LIKELY TO ACCEPT CARRANZA PROPOSAL

Washington, Sept. 11.—Gen. Carranza's rejection of the pan-American appeal for a peace conference in Mexico, and his counter proposal for a meeting with the diplomats at some point along the Rio Grande to discuss Mexican affairs "solely from an international point of view," will be considered by the Secretary Lansing and the other members of the cabinet in the next few days. It was suggested here today that Carranza's proposal probably would be accepted as possibly opening the way to a discussion through which an agreement for the settlement of the republic's affairs might be reached.

The text of Carranza's long deferred reply, submitted to Consul Stillman, at Vera Cruz yesterday, caused no surprise in Washington. It had been known here for a long time that Carranza would reject the offer of the pan-American diplomats and intimations had been circulated that he would make a counter proposal.

It was pointed out here today that if the Carranza suggestion was accepted, the question of the establishment of a provisional government in Mexico might be discussed as an international question, at the meeting, because practically all world powers have interests in the republic and are eager to have the long years of turbulence brought to an end. Subjects for discussion at such a meeting would be claims of foreign governments, growing out of the Mexican revolutions, and the ability of the Carranza administration to protect lives and property of foreigners.

BULLETIN.

El Paso, Texas, Sept. 11.—A report that Gen. Francisco Villa and General Roldo Fierro had been killed on a visit to the ranch of Gen. Tomas Urbina, at Nieves, near Santa Barbara, Chihuahua, was received here today by American officials from sources which they said were worthy of consideration.

Gen. Fierro is said to have accompanied Villa to Urbina's ranch with a force of 400 men to secure for the Villa government some of Urbina's loot, said to amount to $5,000,000.

CARRANZA WARNS TROOPS.

Will Hold Them Responsible for Border Trouble With U. S.

Brownsville, Tex., Sept. 11.—Carranza commanders on the border have been notified by their "first chief," General Carranza, that they will be held strictly accountable for any complications arising from the American government as a result of any overt acts by Carranza soldiers on the border. From an authoritative source it was learned that Carranza notified Gen. F. P. Nafarrete, commander in Matamoros, that carelessness and inattention to troubles on the border will not be countenanced. Similar notifications have been sent to Gen. Alfredo Ricarte, Carranza commander at Nuevo Laredo.

DISCOURAGING TO JOURNALISM.

Shanghai, China, Sept. 11.—A bomb explosion occurred today at the plant of the Asiatic Daily News, a newspaper published in the Chinese language which appeared yesterday for the first time, having been launched for the purpose of pushing the propaganda for a monarchial form of government in China. The front of the newspaper property was blown in. Two arrests were made. Two persons were killed and three injured by the explosion.

WHERE VOTES WERE CHEAP.

Corpus Christi, Tex., Sept. 11.—Further testimony concerning the alleged buying of Mexican votes in the last general election in Nueces county was given today in the United States district court in the trial of forty-one persons, charged with election frauds. Matt L. Dunn, a cousin of Tom Dunn, one of the defendants, testified to an alleged conversation he had with his cousin. He said he spoke of the votes as a staple commodity, and asked "how much are Mexican votes worth today?" to which his cousin replied, "A little cheaper; between $2 and $3." He said Tom Dunn told him he had bought twenty-five with $25.

AMERICAN LINER SAILS.

New York, Sept. 11.—With 528 passengers on board, of whom 48 gave their nationality as American, the American line steamship New York sailed today for Liverpool. Among the passengers was Clifford N. Carver, private secretary to Ambassador Page at London, who when he arrived here last week was reported to be the bearer of special documents relating to the Arabian case. Mr. Carver declined to say anything further than that he had come over on a leave of absence. He is returning to his post in London.

The Anchor liner, Cameronia, also sailed today. She carried 151 passengers, including two Americans.

A fast trotting stallion died of fright in a New York state stable a short time ago during a thunderstorm. He was seven years old.

WIFE FIGHTS WITH CROSS-COMPLAINT

Huntington County Pair in Allen County With a Peck of Trouble.

In the superior court Effie Clark has filed a cross-complaint to the suit of Virgil Clark for divorce, an action brought to this county on a change of venue from Huntington county, where the troubles of the young couple have attracted much attention. Mrs. Clark says her husband wholly abandoned her July 18, 1914. Little more than six months after their marriage, and went to the home of his parents, leaving her no means of support. At the time of the birth of her baby, in October, 1914, she says he gave her no support or attention. The husband's complaint is that his wife would not live with him in a home he provided, but insisted on residing with her parents in Wells county, and that she had him arrested for non-support, the suit being dismissed.

Petitions to Sell Property.

E. W. Cook, receiver for the Bach Fertilizing and Chemical company, has petitioned the superior court for an order to sell the personal property of the company, except the outstanding accounts, and all of its real estate that is free from liens. The court has fixed September 30 for hearing on this petition and given order for publication of notice. The receiver already has disposed of some of the assets of the company by order of the court.

St. Joe Club Will Make No Contest.

Through William Miller, one of its officers, the St. Joe Athletic club announced Saturday that the organization would waive all its rights as a legatee under the will of the late Edward L. Gearhart, who bequeathed the club one-third of his estate, and would make no contest of the suit brought against the club and other beneficiaries by Mrs. Bertha Gearhart, the widow of the testator. Mr. Miller states that the club had a meeting Friday evening and decided on this course. The sentiment of the club members is that the widow is entitled to her husband's estate and that the club does not want any of the property. Mrs. Gearhart has brought suit in the circuit court to have the will declared null and void and has made the St. Joe club, the local arm of the fraternal order of Eagles and John G. Daral, all beneficiaries of the will, defendants to the suit.

Kingman Trial Monday.

Judge Eggeman, in the circuit court, has fixed Monday, September 13, for the trial of Tracy J. Kingman, charged with grand larceny for the theft of Clifford L. Hornschem's automobile, which he took to New York and sold. Kingman pleaded not guilty when arraigned late Friday afternoon.

Notes on the Courts.

Caroline W. Straughan has begun suit in the circuit court against Alexander B. White and John W. White on a note demanding $3,600. Walter Olds is her attorney.

In the superior court Henry Wiegman has brought suit for a writ of ejectment and $100 damages against George Smith. M. H. Lucke is attorney for the plaintiff.

The circuit court has set November 10 for the trial of the suit of the Tri-State Loan & Trust company vs. Hallie Reichard.

The superior court has granted a divorce to James J. Noonan from Frances Hopnelly Noonan.

The term-end in the superior court was reached Saturday and on Monday the September term will begin.

The suit of Andrew J. Keller, sr., vs. the Fort Wayne Trunk & Leather company has been dismissed from the superior court on showing that the defendant is in bankruptcy and its assets in the hands of Sol A. Wood, trustee.

C. Tresselt & Sons have sued the White Fruit House and Edward White in the superior court on notes, demanding $575.

Albert V. Gustard has begun action in the superior court against Julian Grosjean and others to foreclose a lien, demanding $150. C. J. and W. C. Ryan are attorneys for the defendant.

Will Have Big Picnic Sunday.

Allen County Sheriff's Protective Association to Have Family Affair.

In Fitzgerald's grove in St. Joe township, near Robinson park, Sunday, the first annual picnic of the Allen County Sheriff's Protective association will be held and a big crowd is expected. All the members of the association and their families, together with many specially invited guests, will make up the party. The affair will begin at 10 o'clock and continue until 6 in the evening. There will be various field sports with prizes for the winners. Sheriff A. C. Gladieux will make a brief address and Prosecuting Attorney H. H. Hilgemann will speak at some length to the members on matters pertaining to the work of the association. The members are expected to bring basket dinners for the big spread that is to be furnished free to all. There will be other refreshments and a good time for everybody. To reach the grove leave Robinson park cars at stop 10 or drive out the Leo road to the first Robinson park entrance, where a flag will indicate the place to turn in.

GRAIN DEALERS TURNED DOWN.

Government Refuses to Lift Regulations on Oats Shipments.

Washington, Sept. 11.—The department of agriculture today refused the request of the National Grain Dealers' association that it relax the regulations against bleached oats or oats to which water had been added.

It was represented that the regulation prohibiting transportation of such grains in interstate commerce was a hardship because of the condition of this season's oats crop brought about by unusual rains in the oat-growing sections.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

OPEN TABERNACLE SUNDAY.

Markle, Ind., Sept. 11.—The town of Markle is awake to evangelistic work, having erected the Decatur-Ossian tabernacle here and will dedicate it on Sunday afternoon. The services Sunday afternoon will be largely under the auspices of the personal workers of Ossian who have been invited to attend in a body and take charge of the exercises. The Markle people, in twenty autos, plan to visit all the church Sunday morning within a radius of several miles and boost the afternoon services. A large number of autos will leave Ossian after dinner Sunday to be present at the opening of the tabernacle meeting. The meetings will continue for several weeks under the control of a noted evangelist, and the personal workers' league of that place.

WOMAN ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

Warsaw, Ind., Sept. 11.—Mrs. Arthur Reece, residing south of this city several miles, is lying at the point of death as the result of an attempt at suicide on Friday by taking a large portion of a poisonous soda washing compound. Mrs. Reece has been suffering terribly since an operation of some time ago at Fort Wayne. Her condition has been growing worse recently, which is given as the cause of the attempt at self-destruction. Attending physicians had little hope for her recovery from the effects of taking the poisonous medicine and stated that should she rally from its effects the recovery would be but temporary.

SUDDEN DEATH OF AVILLA MAN.

Avilla, Ind., Sept. 11.—This community was severely shocked by the sudden death of Lawrence Ueber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louie Ueber and one of the popular young men of the town. The young man had just arisen from bed in response to his mother's call that it was time to get up, when he was attacked with apoplexy and fell to the floor. He died almost instantly. Apparently he had been in his usual health when he retired in the evening. Mr. Ueber was born and reared in Avilla. He would have been 25 years of age had he lived until October 25. He was a stone and brick mason by trade, having worked with his father for some years.

STROH PLANT TO BE ENLARGED.

Lagrange, Ind., Sept. 11.—Engineers and architects are at work on plans for the enlargement of the Vabash Portland cement plant at Stroh, with a view to more than doubling its capacity. The plant now employs an average of about 100 men and is one of the largest cement plants in the state. There is an abundance of raw material in the lakes about Stroh, the supply being apparently inexhaustible. While preparations are being made for the enlargement the plant will be kept running full blast till its regular closing time about the first of the year. The new additions will include all the modern ideas in cement making.

MOTHER AND BABE DIE.

Huntington, Ind., Sept. 11.—Mrs. Robert G. Mitchell, 43 years old, shortly after giving birth to a child, died at the Mitchell home on South Jefferson street. The child is dead also, dying a few minutes after its birth. It was a girl and was the first in the family. Mrs. Mitchell's death was due to a blood clot near the heart.

Mr. Mitchell is prostrated by the death of his wife and daughter and the death was a shock to the large circle of friends that the couple had in this city. The funeral services will be held at the residence on South Jefferson street, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

GIVES BLOOD TO SAVE RELATIVE.

Columbia City, Ind., Sept. 11.—Homer Thomas, 19 years old, 301 South Columbia street, sacrificed half a pint of his blood, endangering his own life to a small extent, to increase the life chances of a relative. The transfusion was made by Dr. C. C. DuBois at the home of young Thomas' grandmother, Mrs. Florence L. Thomas. Young Thomas, who is a healthy, full-blooded youth, although a trifle weaker than usual today, seemed to be suffering little from the loss of blood and is happy in the knowledge that his sacrifice

SUFFERS FROM RARE DISEASE.

Warsaw, Ind., Sept. 11.—Charles Royer, manager and inventor of the Hingro Mfg. Co., is seriously ill at his home suffering from a rare and dangerous disease, purpura hemorrhagica. Mr. Royer's condition is much improved and although he is still weak his complete recovery is probable, according to Dr. C. C. DuBois, the attending physician. Until today Mr. Royer's condition was critical, due mainly to the great loss of blood which he lost from a number of sources. The injection of blood serum last night was the cause of the much improved condition.

ROANOKE WANTS PROTECTION.

Roanoke, Ind., Sept. 11.—With memory of the death of two young boys and many near accidents at a street crossing over the tracks of the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company still fresh, the residents of the town of Roanoke have filed a petition with the public service commission of Indiana asking that the commission issue an order requiring the placing of gongs or bells at Vine and One streets in Roanoke. The petition was circulated by James H. Barbour, and was signed by twenty-three other business men of Roanoke.

ETNA GREEN MAN IN JAIL.

Warsaw, Ind., Sept. 11.—Charles Sams, of Etna Green, was brought to this city and placed in jail on complaint of his family, who charged that he had threatened to kill them. Sams, it is said, became intoxicated and went to his home and throwing himself into a rage threatened each member of his family with death. His wife and children hurried to the home of a neighbor where they stayed until the arrival of Officer Copelin, who took Sams into custody and brought him to this city.

OLD DRUG STORE CLOSED.

Montpelier, Ind., Sept. 11.—The Golden Rule drug store, formerly owned by Emshwillers, but later sold to Harry R. Maddox, of the Pioneer drug store, has been closed up, there will be no drug store in the building where the business has been for nearly thirty years. When Mr. Maddox purchased the store, he did not know whether he would keep the place open for any length of time, but has been running it as a separate store for several months.

DRIVER KNOCKED UNCONSCIOUS.

Huntington, Ind., Sept. 11.—Chester Steerhoff, 18 years old, was knocked unconscious when the delivery car of the South Side Rees grocery which he was driving, rammed into the rear of a car on William street belonging to Grover Nix. The Nix car which was empty, was standing in front of his residence. Steerhoff recovered soon after being dragged from the wreck but beyond bruises was not badly hurt.

WHITE PLAGUE SLAYS GIRL.

Huntington, Ind., Sept. 11.—Miss Inez Ellis Buckingham, 17 years old, died yesterday morning at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Buckingham, following a long illness from tuberculosis. She had been ailing for more than a year. The deceased was born in Union township and was brought to this city when she was an infant, living the remainder of her life here.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS ELECT.

Hartford City, Ind., Sept. 11.—The Knights of Columbus have elected the following officers: Grand knight, A. N. Pursley; deputy grand knight, William McAffrey; chancellor, Grant Welch; financial secretary, Frank Knecht; recording secretary, Gus Anderson; treasurer, Emil Schwier; warden, Clarence Clore; advocate, Victor Panyard; inside guard, Gus Duffy; outside guard, Theodore Zellner.

DIES OF TYPHOID NEAR WAWASEE

Syracuse, Ind., Sept. 11.—Vern Wogoman, aged 20 years and son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wogoman, is dead at the home of his parents in Syracuse of typhoid fever. Surviving are his father and mother, four sisters, one of them Mrs. Orle Plank, of north of Goshen, and one brother, William Wogoman, of Goshen.

NEW PASTOR FOR WARREN.

Warren, Ind., Sept. 11.—Rev. Gilbert, pastor of a church in Lima, Ohio, has announced that he will accept the pastorate of the Christian church in Warren and will occupy the pulpit October 1. Rev. Gilbert will succeed Rev. C. R. Kershner, who resigned in March and is now serving at Swayzee and Georgetown.

ACID THROWN IN GIRL'S FACE.

Brazil, Ind., Sept. 11.—After receiving several anonymous letters warning her of danger, Miss Dorothy Englehart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Englehart, south of Brazil, stepped out of her home and the contents of a glass of carboric acid was thrown into her face. She was painfully burned on her cheeks and chin, but none of the acid got into her eyes.

Miss Englehart has been receiving these letters for some time. She has beautiful blond hair, and it is said that part of it was cut off during her sleep, after she had received a letter stating that this would be done. Miss Englehart has no enemies that she knows of, and is at a loss to know why she would be assailed. Two young women of the vicinity are under suspicion.

$5,000.00 PAID TO MRS. NICHOLS

Banker's Widow Receives Check Promptly From Fort Wayne Mercantile Accident Association.

CASHIER WAS DROWNED WHILE FISHING

The many friends of Mrs. Rachel M. Nichols, widow of the late Frank M. Nichols, cashier of the State Bank of Lima, at Howe, Indiana, will be pleased to know that she has received from the Fort Wayne Mercantile Accident association a check for $5,000.00 on account of the accidental death of her husband on the 12th day of August.

Had Paid in Only $30.

The check was issued to Mrs. Nichols within three days after the proof of death were in the hands of the association—another instance of the absence of "red tape" in settling claims against this splendid Fort Wayne institution.

Mr. Nichols had paid in to the association only $30 in assessments.

How the Accident Occurred.

Mr. Nichols, one of the best-known business men of his community, had gone fishing at Ferrell Lake on the fatal day, accompanied by a little son. He was standing in a boat, several rods from shore, when, in taking a cast, he lost his balance and fell into the water. At the same time, the boat was tipped to such an extent as to let in a quantity of water which almost caused it to sink with the boy.

Just at this moment, F. G. Smetzley came driving by. He heard the boy's cry of distress and hastened to attempt to give relief to Mr. Nichols who had risen to the surface. On wading into the water, however, he became partially mired in the mud which coats the bottom of the lake. He was also unable to save Mr. Nichols after a host had been procured, although the boy was rescued. The body of Mr. Nichols was removed shortly afterward.

Mrs. Nichols' Grateful Letter.

The gratitude of Mrs. Nichols for the prompt payment of the claim against the Accident association is expressed in the following letter which the association received from her:

Howe, Ind., Aug. 30, 1915.
Fort Wayne Mercantile Accident Association, Fort Wayne, Ind.,
Gentlemen:

I am today in receipt of your check No. 7933, on the First National Bank of Fort Wayne, Ind., for Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00), in full settlement of my claim against the Association, on account of the accidental death of my late husband, (Frank M. Nichols), who met death by accidental drowning on August 12th, 1915. My proofs were completed and sent to you under date of August 25th, 1915.

I wish to thank you for the courtesy extended to me under these circumstances, and also wish to thank you for the promptness with which my claim has been handled and paid.

RACHEL M. NICHOLS,
Beneficiary.

Splendid Growth of Mercantile.

The past year has been one of marked growth for the Fort Wayne Mercantile Accident association, due largely to the growing knowledge among the people of Fort Wayne and various other parts of the state that the Mercantile provides the best protection at the lowest cost; that it pays its claims promptly and without the usual annoying delays in such instances.

Costs $10 a Year.

The low cost of protection in the Mercantile is one of its attractive features. At no time have policyholders paid more than $10 per year for protection which may be presented briefly as follows:

Death by accident, $5,000.00.
Loss of both arms or legs, $5,000.00.
Loss of both eyes, $5,000.00.
Loss of one hand or foot, $1,250.00.
Loss of one eye, $1,250.00.
Loss of one arm, $2,500.00.
Total disability, $25 per week.
Partial disability, $12.50 per week.
Best Protection at Lowest Cost.

A study of the above figures will convince the honest investigator that the Mercantile provides the best of protection at the lowest possible cost. This condition is due to the fact that the effort from the beginning has been to provide accident insurance at actual cost. A small, efficient office force is maintained, and no large salaries are paid to those in charge of the management of the association.

Louis F. Curdes is the president of the association; George W. Pixley, vice president, and L. H. Ransom, secretary-treasurer. The directors, in addition to the gentlemen mentioned, are: R. D. Hudgel, chairman; William Lawson, C. S. Shoff, J. A. Russell, James C. Craig and Wm. M. Leedy. Mr. Ransom is in direct charge of the association's offices.

Fort Wayne people, especially, are recognizing in ever-enlarging measure the value of the Mercantile in the commercial life of the city and are showing their confidence and appreciation by joining the association as policyholders.

Secretary Ransom will welcome the visit of any who are interested in securing the best accident insurance at the lowest cost. His office—third floor of the People's Trust building—is convenient to reach. The phone number is 2494. Many who have joined the Mercantile are delighted with their common-sense move. The readers of this paper are urged to identify themselves with this substantial home institution.

POOR LO NOW ROLLS IN GOLD—EVERY OSAGE A MILLIONAIRE.

Subject poverty to riches! Above Cato Sells, Commissioner of Indian Affairs and Chief Fred Lookout of the Osage Indians, with the latter's wife and son, standing in front of the modern bungalow Lookout built when the tribal lands became worth millions by discovery of oil and gas. Below, left to right—Ex-Chief Bacon Rind, Ex-Chief Big Heart, Commissioner Sells and Chief Lookout.

Oklahoma City, Sept. 11.—It was a strange trick Providence played when it changed the Osage Indians of Oklahoma from among the poorest people on earth to the richest, and it was a joke on the white race and the government.

The Osages were driven from their ancestral home in Eastern Kansas prior to 1870, and drifted south in search of hunting grounds. They found a stopping place close to the Cherokee in the country then known as the Indian Territory and, the government paid them a pitifully small sum for their reservation in Kansas.

The government then bought from the Cherokees a tract of 1,500,000 acres of wild, desolate land, hilly and covered with blackjack, and gave it to the Osages. The government paid 70 cents an acre for the land. The tribe moved to the tract and it became known as the Osage nation.

It is now Osage county, and through the development of oil and gas is the richest tract of land in the United States.

The Osages do not belong to the Five Civilized Tribes, but they soon established a government similar to that of the Chickasaws, Choctaws, Cherokees, Creeks and Seminoles, under the direction of the department of the interior.

For years they were so poor that they were many times on the verge of starvation. The land was held in common by the members of the tribe and could not be sold by them.

There are now 2,300 Osages, 1,300 of them mixed bloods and 1,000 full bloods. The land that was bought for 70 cents an acre now brings from $1,600 to $3,400 an acre in oil leases.

The usual bonus of one-sixth of the oil production, has made every Osage immensely rich.

Only a small part of their 1,500,000 tract has been developed, and the surface of their wealth has barely been scratched.

Several years ago a lease on 680,000 acres of Osage land was made to a man named Foster and this has since been sub-leased to many oil companies.

The department of the interior has recently ruled that production may be resumed on these sub-leases and the wealth of the Osages will now pile up into untold millions.

Rules have also been made by the department for the leasing of Osage land not covered by the Foster blanket lease, and developments in other parts of the county will be under way soon. Leases have already been made on 10,500 acres of the land, for which bonuses of half a million were paid, with a royalty of one-sixth of production.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Mark 14:60-72.

60 And the high priest stood up in the midst, and asked Jesus, saying, Answerest thou nothing? what is it which these witness against thee?

61 But he held his peace, and answered nothing. Again the high priest asked him, and said unto him, Art thou the Christ, the Son of the Blessed?

62 And Jesus said, I am, and ye shall see the Son of man sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven.

63 Then the high priest rent his clothes, and saith, What need we any further witnesses?

64 Ye have heard the blasphemy: what think ye? And they all condemned him to be guilty of death.

65 And some began to spit on him, and to cover his face, and to buffet him, and to say unto him, Prophesy: and the servants did strike him with the palms of their hands.

66 And as Peter was beneath in the palace, there cometh one of the maids of the high priest:

67 And when she saw Peter warming himself, she looked upon him, and said, And thou also wast with Jesus of Nazareth,

68 But he denied, saying, I know not, neither understand I what thou sayest. And he went out into the porch; and the cock crew.

69 And a maid saw him again, and began to say to them that stood by, This is one of them.

70 And he denied it again. And a little after, they that stood by said again to Peter, Surely thou art one of them: for thou art a Galilaean, and thy speech agreeth thereto.

71 But he began to curse and to swear, saying, I know not this man of whom ye speak.

72 And the second time the cock crew. And Peter called to mind the word that Jesus said unto him, Before the cock crow twice, thou shalt deny me thrice. And when he thought thereon, he wept.

Spread of the Primary Idea

While unusual attention to the question of the primary has recently been awakened in Indiana by the attack upon the constitutionality of the new state-wide primary law, and nobody knows as yet whether it will "hold water" or not, it is interesting and surprising as well to note the spread of the primary idea in the past few years. As an illustration, a Washington writer for the Cincinnati Enquirer has discovered that a clean-cut majority of the delegates to the next republican national convention will be chosen by voters at a primary, and not "hand-picked" as in former years. The hand-picked national delegate has very nearly seen his day.

In at least eighteen states, which will have a total of 574 delegates to the republican convention next year, these must, under the statute, be chosen by primary vote. It is compulsory, and there is no way of circumventing the law, so that ambitious gentlemen who aspire to bedeck themselves in national convention delegate badges will be forced to go out among the people to press their claims instead of "fixing it up" with a few of the party leaders in their district. These 574 legally created primary delegates in the republican body next year will come from the following states: California, 26; Illinois, 58; Indiana, 30; Iowa, 26; Maryland, 16; Massachusetts, 36; Michigan, 30; Minnesota, 22; Nebraska, 16; New Jersey, 28; New York, 30; North Dakota, 10; Ohio, 48; Oregon, 10; Pennsylvania, 76; South Dakota, 10; West Virginia, 16; Wisconsin, 26. The present probability is that the total of delegates to the convention will be 1,005, so that the 574 above listed will constitute a clear-cut majority, while other primary states yet to hear from will undoubtedly increase that figure.

The republican congressional committee has listed Indiana on March 7 as the first primary state to choose its national delegates next year—assuming, of course, that the Indiana law is upheld by the courts in the fight now on the docket, and it is conceded in Washington that these thirty Indiana delegates will be for Charles W. Fairbanks as the favorite son in the presidential race. Whether the primary-chosen delegate is in point of fact any better than the variety which has been "picked by hand," is, of course, altogether dependent upon the individual and his conception of responsibility to his party in the district. He may prove to be no improvement whatever over the old style, but the primary will at least give the rank and file of the voters of any party an opportunity to say who shall be their spokesman—a matter with which they have heretofore had but very little to do.

Congressman Cline has just forwarded to the chief of the board of army engineers a very strong plea for federal aid in accomplishing flood prevention in Allen county. From the inception of the movement the congressman has taken an active interest in it and has overlooked no opportunity to be of service to the people of Fort Wayne and of Allen county in this connection. His contention that since the federal government has assumed jurisdiction over the Maumee river it may fairly be expected to share the flood prevention burden is well taken, and it should prove convincing in Washington. In any event, the people may rest assured that they can depend upon Congressman Cline to render all the assistance in his power in the furtherance of flood prevention plans.

Prosecutor Rucker unmercifully lambasted Mayor Joseph E. Bell, of Indianapolis, in his opening statement at the trial of the latter on charges of conspiracy involving the primary and the elections, his verbal castigation of the executive amounting to bitter exhortation. As a denouncer, Prosecutor Rucker is showing a good deal of class, but it is going to be the jury's duty to decide whether the evidence he shall later produce supplies adequate justification for the bedazzling glare and the infinite variety of the prosecutor's oratorical fireworks display.

The Indiana state fair has had an extremely prosperous week, the indications being that both attendance and financial records will have been admittedly broken when the auditors make their final checking of accounts. In view of the general state of the fair business in the past few years, financial rehabilitation is likely to prove something of a shock to the promoters. In most instances recently it has been necessary to dig down into the treasury to make up a deficit and call on hope for a heavy overdraft when the next annual exhibition time comes 'round.

Indiana progressives have resolved to refuse to mix in the fight to test the constitutionality of the new Indiana primary law when it shortly comes to trial in Vincennes, but will assume the role of "a friend of the court" and allow the democrats and the republicans to wage the battle. The moozers have evidently either overlooked the usual fate of the innocent bystander or have determined to defy it, and all political traditions are overturned when the militant progressives decline an opportunity to mix in a political melee.

TYPHOID FEVER SEASON.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)

The health authorities at Washington City, by way of impressing upon people the importance of contributing to the suppression of typhoid fever, has stated the subject on an economic basis as to consequences other than death. The typhoid season is just at hand. Probably 200,000 persons in the United States will contract the disease, of which some 18,000 will die. About 50 per cent. of these will be between the important ages of 15 and 35 years. Each case will involve at least a month of invalidism. Add to this the total loss by 18,000 deaths and the reader may approximate for himself the annual toll exacted from mankind by this disease alone.

Scientific knowledge of typhoid fever is most complete. The death rate has been cut in two since 1900, but still it is much higher with us than in countries which we are inclined to regard as not nearly so progressive as our own. If it were possible to figure out with reasonable accuracy the cost, through invalidism and death, of other diseases than typhoid fever, the country would appreciate all the more the significance and value of the great service rendered by the National Health Bureau; and also by state bureaus. Health is a conspicuous blessing, personal and general. And much of that which the civilized world enjoys has been literally forced upon it by the power of government—in direct opposition often to the wishes of the beneficiaries themselves.

Careful precautions will keep away typhoid fever. It thrives on dirt. Therefore be cleanly. It can only get into the body through absorption of waste products from one who has had the disease. The means of carriage of these products from one person to another are usually drinking water, milk and flies, and by sewage contact.

RHODE ISLAND WAR GOVERNOR IS DEAD

Paris, Sept. 11.—William Sprague, famous war governor of Rhode Island, and twice United States senator from that state, died at his residence here early this morning at the age of 84 years. His death was due to meningitis, coupled with infirmities of age. The body will be taken to Rhode Island for burial.

At the outbreak of hostilities he converted his apartment in the rue de La Popolo into a convalescent hospital for the wounded of all nationalities. He was assisted in the work by his wife, who gave up her dressing room for use as a hospital pharmacy.

Governor Sprague had lived in Paris several years. He became critically ill late in 1910 and his death was expected, but he became much better, although he continued to be a semi-invalid.

WOMAN USES HATPIN.

Jabs Two Mashers in Chase Through South Bend Streets.
South Bend, Ind., Sept. 11.—Long hatpins in the hands of a pretty woman are effective in putting mashers to flight. This was demonstrated here yesterday when Mrs. Oscar Bennett turned on Jeremiah Archibald and Frank Noble, jabbing both of the men in the arms and legs as she pursued them through the business district.

"When the police fail to stop this overbearing habit of young men accosting women when they are in the shopping district, we must use our own method of defense."

The men were later arrested and each was fined $20 in the city court.

TEACHERS MEET IN FINAL INSTITUTE

Pedagogues of Four Townships Meet in Assembly Room of Court House.

The final preliminary institute of the week was held Saturday in the assembly room of the court house by the teachers of Adams, Wayne, Washington and St. Joseph townships. The opening exercises were followed by a discussion of Indian history by Miss Elsie Sheridan and Miss Millie Pratt. Trustees Henry P. Sherer, of Wayne township, and Leonard Stolle, of Washington township, gave interesting talks on how a teacher and school trustee can co-operate to the best interests of the school.

"The Teacher and the School" was handled in three chapters by the following: Chapter 1, Miss Carrie Noble; chapter 2, Miss Maud Capps, and chapter 3, Miss Jennie Archer.

At the afternoon session Misses Schow and Henderson gave a synopsis of the books on the young people's reading circle for 1915 and 1916.

"The Rise of American People" was discussed as follows: Chapter 1, Miss Inez Gorrell; chapter 2, Elmer Sweeney; chapter 3, A. A. Ringwalt; chapter 4, Miss Nellie McKay.

WANTS MORE MIDSHIPMEN.

Daniels Will Recommend Increase in Naval Academy.

Washington, Sept. 11.—Secretary Daniels will recommend to congress that the number of midshipmen in the naval academy be increased to capacity. That would mean the appointment of practically 300 more midshipmen than will be enrolled this fall, or about 1200.

Baritone Singer Comes to Ft. Wayne

Fort Wayne is to have an addition to her musical ranks a part of this season that will lend prestige to her musical power as David Baxter, the widely known baritone is coming here to teach and do recital work. Mr. Baxter was heard in this city several seasons ago appearing under the auspices of the Morning Musical society and received praises from all who heard him. With such a solo performer as Emmeran Stoeber and with a number of first-class violinists, singers, pianists, organists and orchestra performers of high rank, musical circles welcome to find an example of vocal art as is exemplified in Mr. Baxter. The music loving public is demanding much of a singer these days, as it is of a performer on any instrument. Owing to the education of the ear through the records and by reason of the better class of music being performed in excellent style in a number of the existing picture houses, people are distinguishing the difference between good music played badly or indifferently, with that well done. It is no longer so easy for the charlatan to impose upon the people's taste as it was in the past. People's recitals during the month of June invariably exhibited a better standard of endeavor than ever before.

hows of pink garden flowers decorated the rooms, and pink roses were the center attraction of the diningroom. Caters were laid for ten guests at a supper in the serving of which two young girls, Helen Krausmann and Ruth McConally assisted. Tall pink candles helped light the table and added to the beauty of the room. The guests were brilliant friends of the honor guest. After supper music was enjoyed. Miss Ruth McConally and small sister, Helen, furnished a part of the music.

Mrs. Charlotte Knudsen, of West Jefferson street, is to entertain on Monday evening in honor of Miss Adeline Becker, who is to be married this month to Raymond Backlund Ritchie, a professor in the manual training department of an Indianapolis high school. DIRECTORS ALL CRIPPLES.

Unique Society Comes to Light in New York Records.

New York, Sept. 11.—The filing in the county clerk's office here of the certificate of elections of the Cripples Welfare society disclosed today a unique board of directors, in that all are cripples and all but two have only one leg. Charles Noel Douglas, a writer, who has been a cripple for many years, is president of the society. Miss Sarah Bernhardt is first vice-president and Dr. Wm. Sheldon Coates is second vice-president. The society was organized for the purpose of supplying cripples with artificial legs, arms and appliances and securing for cripples employment for which they are best adapted.

DITTO SAVES A SECOND; BUT COSTS $10 FINE.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—If you're shipping dolls or sauce dishes to South America, don't use ditto marks on the customs invoices. They'll fine you, like as not, $10 or so, and the consigner will pay the fine and write back "Kidding," and you'll enclose the $10 and won't get ditto again. But if this hasn't happened to you, be warned: it has happened to several, and the department of commerce is sending out warnings to manufacturers and jobbers that the ditto is illegal. Mathematical sharpas say it only saves a second, anyway.

IS TO WED DAVENPORT, IA., YOUNG PHYSICIAN.

MISS MARIE MILLER.

When Miss Marie Miller, of 208 East Deward street, announced on Thursday evening that she is to wed on the twelfth of October Dr. Ray R. Kulp, a rising young physician of Davenport, Iowa, many regretful exclamations were mingled with the congratulations extended to her by the twenty girlhood friends she was entertaining. Miss Miller is very much admired and her friends entertained a sincere affection for her, so while extending their good wishes the prospect of losing a devoted friend from their immediate circle was not so cheerful. Miss Miller is very unusual and is otherwise accomplished in a manner befitting a young and a charming bride-elect. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Miller.

IN THE THEATERS

AT THE MAJESTIC.

VOGEL'S COMBINED MINSTREL
AND GIRLIE SHOW COMING

At the Majestic next Wednesday and Thursday with daily matinees, John W. Vogel will offer the newest thing in theatricals, "Japland," a happy combination blending the better elements of opera, minstrelsy and farce.

The aim of the alliance is to satisfy the eye with gorgeous stage settings and beautiful costumes, and please the ear with lyrics and tunes both new and old, real gems from grand and comic opera. The principals have the support of a girl chorus of twenty picked voices and Mr. Vogel's own Symphony Orchestra. And while the performance smacks of opera, it contains many wise and witty sayings such as are heard in farce, boasts of much grandeur in a scenic way, and is elaborate enough for extravaganza.

Minstrelsy is not forgotten for the comedians with cork, singers of the better type, dancers of the new school, and specialties of the acceptable kind are a part of the program.

In short, "Japland" is one grand medley of mirth, song and color, with fifty fifty boys and pretty girls who can and do amuse.

AT THE EMPRESS

FALL FREAKS OF FASHION

Will All Be Shown at the Empress Next Week By "The Queens of the Follies."

"The Queens of the Follies Bergere," which comes to the Empress theater next week, takes great pride in the costumes and gowns that are worn by the ladies in the cast. The leading lady will appear each day in the coming fall fashions of fashion, which have just recently been imported from the seat of style. The high boots, the ankle watch, the short voluminous skirt and the pantaloons with cuffs and the Joffe cape are among some of the articles of ladies clothing that will be worn.

Josephine Barlow, the principal lady character in this cast, started her theatrical career as a show girl in a musical production, where she was discovered by a well known burlesque manager, who immediately engaged her when he saw her ability of acting and singing. Her success was instantaneous and she made a decided hit at the opening performance. One of the chief characteristics is that she knows how to wear gowns and besides has a wonderful personality and magnetism and possesses a beautiful voice.

The Queens of the Follies Bergere is a French folly in two frocks and is headed by a number of the most celebrated actors, such as Meyer Harris, the leading comedian; George Hurt and Fred DuBois, who takes the juvenile lead role; Flo Clark, a soubrette, and

MEYER HARRIS AT THE EMPRESS.

Leading comedian with "The Queens of the Follies Bergere" at the Empress all next week.

Katherine Mack, two other handsome and accomplished actresses, are included in the cast.

The Winning Widow, which has pleased thousands of people this week, including two full houses of Fort Wayne ladies, appears for the last time at the Empress this evening. Princess Ionia proved her ability as a dancer last evening when she gave her special number, "The Dance in Gold."

AT KEITH PALACE

FRANK FOGARTY AT PALACE.

Celtic Wit, Internationally Famous, Tops Coming Bill.

The internationally famous wit, Frank Fogarty, whose quaint, humorous and human observations of life, whose sparkling stories and scintillating witticisms are known wherever humanity is loved, is the splendid feature attraction on the second big bill at the New Palace. It opens Monday afternoon, Mr. Fogarty coming here directly from the Majestic theater in Chicago, where all week Mr. Fogarty has had the captious Chicago crowds at his feet with his clean, brilliant manner of telling his stories of Celtic folk lore and his human character paintings. By no means is Mr. Fogarty alone as a headliner at this program, however, as Ernest R. Bell, the celebrated composer of the songs "Mother MacCrek," "Love Me and the World is Mine," "In the Garden of My Heart," "Till the Sands of Heaven Grow Cold," "A Little Bit of Heaven Called Ireland" and a host of others, is on the bill and will offer a singing pianologue in which he will use nothing but his own songs. Agnes Scott and Harry Keane, too, are on this program, presenting Miss Scott's latest contribution to vaudeville, "The Final Decree." She is the woman who wrote "Drifting," a sketch that lives in the memory of vaudeville lovers as quite the most beautiful ever penned. A dancing, posing creation that introduces Miss Melissa TenEyck and Mr. Max Weily to Fort Wayne for the first time is another of the unusual portions on this menu. These two remarkable dancers style their offering "The Gamboling of the Gods." Other features on the second Keith bill of the season are Margaret and William Cutty, two of the famous Cutty family; Harry Adler and Anna Arline, in "A New Idea," the Four Jaunties, risley equilibrist of note and the Jaunts and Journeys.

The current bill is featured by the bewitchingly beautiful dancing act presented by Mlle. Maryon Vadie and her lovely corps de ballet, and includes Eva Taylor and company in "Suspicious of Hubby," James B. Donovan and Miss Marie Lee, Moore Gardner and Rose, the Brightons, Derkins' wonderful dog and monkey pantomime; Young and Cummings, and the Keith Jaunts and Journeys.

AT THE TEMPLE.

"THE GIRL IN THE TAXI"

A Roof Raising Laugh "The Girl in the Taxi" at Temple Monday.

Opening with the evening performance on Monday, the Temple Stock Players, will for a solid week indulge their public in the roof raising, rib rupturing comedy hit of the age "The Girl in the Taxi," a play built for laughing purposes only and with never a slow moment during the time it is fulfilling its mission. It is a story of several sets of gay men both young and old, who disport themselves in the all-night restaurants of New York and frivel with the dashing actresses they encounter in their rambles. The fun starts with Young Stewart, a boy who on an allowance of $5 a month is endeavoring to buy flowers for a lady contortionist in the apartment above that of his parents. He has abstracted his fathers' clothes to secure money for the blooming presents, but the real riot opens in the grill room at the Cafe Churchill, where the compliments ensue with a rapidity that keeps the audience in a howl of delight. The climaxes are heightened by being postponed by devious tricks, until a veritable tumult of comedy results. Two years ago this comedy was the hit of Broadway and in this farce Fort Wayne is in for a week much gayer than the one enjoyed when the Temple Players were in the midst of the laugh "Hello Bill."

"What Happened to Mary?" The wholesome, clean little drama of life, "What Happened to Mary?" will remain at the Temple tonight. In this adaptation from Owen Davis' stories about "Mary," which appeared in the "Ladies World" several years ago, the Temple Players are presenting a little problem play, sans the salacious features of which the theater going public long since has so completely tired.

AT THE JEFFERSON.

"NEAL OF THE NAVY" STARTS.

New Serial at Jefferson With Mutual Masterpiece and Keystone.

After being advertised for weeks in advance as the biggest thing that ever happened in the serial photoplay line, "Neal of the Navy," the newest serial conception of the famous Pathe company, and the successor to "The Romance of Elaine," on the Jefferson screen of Saturdays, makes its appearance today.

Scene from "Japland," with Vogel's Big Minstrel and Girlie Show at the Majestic Wednesday and Thursday.

William Courtleigh, jr., one of the handsomest juvenile actors of the legitimate stage, and Lillian Lorraine, formerly leading woman with various of the Ziegfeld "Follies" revues at the Winter Garden in New York, have the principal parts in this amazing drama, which emanates from the fertile brain of William Hamilton Osborne.

"The Toast of Death," a stirring four-act Mutual masterpiece, produced by Thomas Ince, will provide thrills and romantic glamor during the second part of the program, while the concluding feature is one of the acrimoniously funny Keystone comedies, "The Battle of Walrus and Ambrose." Mary Pickford will be seen next week in "Esmeralda," by Frances Hodgson Burnett.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

THE AMOROUS THEBA BARA.

At Orpheum in "The Two Orphans"—John Nickelson, Former Local Favorite, Coming.

As Henriette, the older of "The Two Orphans," in the Fox Film Corporation's picturization of D'Emery's famous stage hit of that name title, Theba Bara, the wonderful star of the Fox forces, scores what is unquestionably the greatest hit of her screen career. The drama calls for even a more comprehensive display of dramatic skill than the "Vampire" in "A Fool There Was," which hitherto has been considered Miss Bara's premier character conception.

Former Local Actor in "Movies." When Irene Fenwick appears at the Orpheum in the delightful leading role of Owen Davis' trenchant drama, "The Woman Next Door," local players are due for a genuine surprise. One of the leading parts in this appealing play is taken by John Nickelson, formerly a member of "Our Own Stock Company," and one of the most popular actors who ever appeared in this city.

CONCORDIA CADETS RATED EXCELLENT

The Concordia college battalion has been rated as excellent by the war department, according to information that has been received by Director Martin Luecke. The battalion was inspected early this summer by an army officer and it was upon his recommendation that the rating of excellent was given. Regular drills were resumed this week and will be held throughout the term every Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons at 3:30 o'clock. New uniforms are expected next week.

Since the opening of Concordia fifty-six new students have been enrolled, making a total number of students of 261.

Cecil Pike, 14 years old, residing in Toronto, Canada, one of the freshmen in the Sixth class, was held up by immigration officers at Detroit and though he left his home on August 30 he did not arrive here until Friday. The immigration officers were under the impression that Concordia college is a charitable institution and under the law persons liable to become subjects of public charity are not admitted. Pike enlisted the aid of a Lutheran minister in Detroit and was finally permitted to continue his journey to this city.

SENTINEL WANT ADS ALWAYS GET RESULTS

BETTER THAN EVEN BREAK ON WEATHER

Forecaster McDonough

Makes Guess on Meteorology of Fair Week.

"More fair days than bad ones." This is the official prognostication by Weather Observer McDonough for the coming week given to the Fort Wayne Fair management on their annual autumnal show which opens its five days of existence on Tuesday. The observer would go no stronger than merely that announcement, but that is better than he has been able to promise any other week during this so-called summer.

The setting for the grand fair is practically complete. The grounds have been thoroughly groomed, the buildings reworked and brightened and the track washed until it promises to be in prime shape for the races that open Tuesday with a meet for Fort Wayne horses, and close Saturday with a big motorcycle day. On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the professional horsemen will have their mounds on the track, racing for the $300 purses hung up by the management.

"Pike" attractions by the dozen have been refused by the fair management until some way can be found to squeeze them in. Every available foot of space in sight has been contracted for already, and the management is endeavoring to find some other spot within the grounds on which to locate a sort of annex to the "pike." This feature of a fair is what makes this manner of amusement popular with the fun-loving people. The regular invitations of the parkers to investigate the mysteries behind the flashing "fronts," the noisy, laughing throng that surges up and down between the rows of girl shows, wild men, mimed mysteries, strong men shows, more girl shows, etc., and the bantering of the good natured crowd are the jewels in the setting of a fair.

The 1915 horse show, especially the heavy draft horse department, promises to eclipse anything of the character ever attempted at a fair, for more of the great animals have been entered already than ever shown in Fort Wayne before. The Allen county breeders are taking an unusual interest in this year's show and are entering their stock against the cream of the importer stables. The management of this year paid little attention to the professional importers, being content to exhibit the Allen county product alone, but in spite of this fact practically every big stable in this district will have entries in the big horse show. Madame Marantette's champion horses, including St. Patrick, the highest jumping horse in the world, and two high schooled saddle horses, Gaucho, the racing ostrich, and his equine mate, have arrived in their special car in anticipation of a big week. These wonder animals will constitute one of the big free attractions at the grounds.

Concert at Robison Park Sunday

If the day be warm and fair, Robison's Orchestra, consisting of fourteen pieces, will give a miscellaneous concert of popular music at the grove band stand tomorrow. The concert will begin at 3 o'clock.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Chicago, Sept. 11. - Wheat made a fresh upward jump today in consequence of further rains and because of predictions of additional downpours all over the domestic belt. Opening prices, which ranged from the same as last night to 5¢ up, with September at 99¢ to $1.00, and December at 94¢ to 94½¢, were followed by a quick general advance which in some cases amounted to 2½¢.

The close was weak at the same as last night to be higher, with September at 99½¢ and December at 94½¢. Corn hardened with wheat and as a result of unfavorable weather, after opening a shade lower to 1¢ advance, the market scored a moderate rise all around.

The close was unsettled to 5/8¢ decline to 5¢ advance, compared with last night.

Oats reflected the strength of other grain. Selling was only of a scattered sort.

Not much activity was shown in provisions. The market averaged a little higher on account of the bulge in the price of cereals.

His Rest Was Broken.

O. D. Wright, Rosemont, Neb., writes: "For about six months I was bothered with shooting and continual pains in the region of my kidneys. My rest was broken nearly every night by frequent action of my kidneys. I was advised by my doctor to try Foley Kidney Pills and one 50-cent bottle made a well man of me. I can always recommend Foley Kidney Pills for I know they are good."

This splendid remedy for backache, rheumatism, sore muscles and swollen joints contains no habit forming drugs. Dreier Drug Co.—Adv.

EXHIBIT AT MINER SCHOOL.

Annual Display of Flowers and Vegetables Was Held Friday.

The pupils of the Miner school held their annual fall exhibit of flowers and vegetables Friday. For flowers, Charles Miles won first, a tennis racket, and Clayton Raquet won second, a sprinkling can. Conrad Honeck won first, a set of garden tools, in the vegetable display and George Moshammer won second, a baseball. Miss Margaret Vesey, Mrs. O. N. Gaidlin and Mrs. R. F. Diserens acted as judges.

MANY COMPLAINTS HEARD.

This summer seems to have produced an unusual amount of sickness. Many complain of headaches, lame backs, rheumatism, biliousness and of being "always tired." Aches, pains and ills caused by the kidneys failing to do their work and throw the poisonous waste from the system yield quickly to Foley Kidney Pills. They help elimination, give sound sleep and make you feel well and strong. They are tonic in action. Dreier Drug Co.
